

OUR MEN IN SERVICE

MAINTENANCE MAN—Percy L. Evans, electrician's mate third class, has been in training at the naval air station at Corpus Christi, Tex., since enlistment in the navy several months ago. Recently he was placed on electrical maintenance work at the base ground school. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney B. Evans of this city, was employed in war work in Portland before his enlistment. Before moving to the northern city he was employed at Garcelon's electrical store.

Black panther, jackals and hyena are just a few of the wild animals to be hunted down in the north of India where Lt. Zed Barnes of the United States Army air force now finds his squadron stationed.

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Barnes of South Fifth street, Barnes advises that he has been moved to a point in India which is "warm in the daytime and nights quite cool." He says accommodations are "wonderful—with cement huts, thatched roofs, no sand or dust blowing in our faces all the time." Barnes described the country which he said was "laid out in small patches about 50 feet square. Thousands of oxen were tilling the soil, oxen drawing primitive wood plows." He described a hunt in which one of his fellow officers brought back a hyena, "the ugliest brute I've ever seen."

"There will be no diversion for the men here as far as picture shows and night life is concerned," Barnes writes. "We are trying our best to obtain a movie projector. They are so busy at present they aren't concerned about it, but they soon will be when time lags for them."

Barnes told his parents not to worry about him, and ends the letter with, "Don't worry about your prodigal son, I'm having the time of my life!"

NEW PINE CREEK—Raymond Cook, who is now stationed near Weiser, Ida., where a CCC camp is being torn down, writes that the people of the community were generous in sharing their Christmas dinners with the soldiers. One hundred dinner invitations were extended to the 70 men stationed there. Raymond and a friend shared a turkey dinner with a couple who have two sons in the army, one in this country and one in a foreign land. Each soldier was given a carton of cigarettes by the community. In addition to the Christmas dinner, which made the boys feel that the real Christmas spirit lived again.

Mrs. Frank C. Alexander received a Christmas telegram on December 28 from her son Frank, who is somewhere in Australia with the armed forces. He was well and feeling fine. Frank receives the Lake County Examiner and enjoys the news from home, he says.

Christmas greetings were received from Staff Sergeant Charles H. Stone by his wife and relatives. Sergeant Stone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Stone, 1926 Main street, and has been in the armed forces since March 20, 1941. He serves as communication sergeant with a tank battalion and is now somewhere in Africa.

OLENE—Pvt. Leonard Kinney has been visiting at the Rowe Kinney home in Olene and with friends in Klamath Falls while home on furlough from Camp Beal, Calif.

SHEPPARD FIELD, Tex.—John Willard Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Rice, 3422 Cannon avenue, Klamath Falls, was promoted recently to the grade of sergeant. He is assigned to the 403rd Technical School Squadron at Sheppard field, site of a large army air forces aircraft mechanics' school and basic training center. Prior to his entering the army, he was a bank teller.

IN ARKANSAS—Flying Cadet Lewis H. Richardson, grandson of Mrs. Bertha Wilcox, 421 Market street, is now stationed at Pine Bluff, Ark. Cadet Richardson, who was employed at Sears Roebuck and company for four years, is sponsored through the Elks service men program by Mr. and Mrs. Angus Newton. He received his first training at San Antonio, Tex., where his company stood in review for President Roosevelt. Mrs. Newton suggests that he would like to have letters from his old friends here. His address is Air Force T. D., Bks. N. 3, class 430.

"I guess we're really hot pilots," writes young "Bob" Veatch, U. S. army aviation cadet, in a letter home to Mr. and Mrs. Elbert S. Veatch of Earle street, parents of the young flyer. "Bob" is now located at Goodfellow field, San Angelo, Tex., and recently completed training at Coleman field, 75 miles south of San Angelo. The class set a national record with but 14 per cent eliminated as compared to the usual 34 per cent. The class also went through preliminaries without an accident, which permits Veatch to observe they "really are hot pilots." Another observation, quite to the point, was this: "I thought primary was tough, but basic is terrific."

Frank M. Curry, long a resident of San Francisco, but more recently a music instructor at Klamath Falls, is serving in his second war with the United States army, and hopes to serve in the same capacity as he did in the first World war, bandmaster.

Private Curry enlisted for his first war in March, 1917, and became a sergeant bandmaster, training such army musical organizations as the regimental bands of the 2nd California infantry, the 159th infantry, 315th cavalry and 71st Field artillery. A trumpet soloist of ability, Private Curry followed his war experience by playing with famous name bands and orchestras over the nation. Some of those with whom he has been associated are Art Hickman, Ben Pollock, Phil Harris, Horace Heidt, Benny Goodman, and Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey. He has also led his own band on two trips around the world. Curry reenlisted in the army recently, this time in the air corps, and is now stationed at Jefferson Barracks Mo., a basic center of the army air forces technical training command which operates under the command of Major General Walter R. Weaver. When he completes the basic military training given at this famous old army post near St. Louis, he aspires to assignment with one of the air forces' crack musical units.

BONANZA—David House, who recently enlisted in the army, is at Jefferson barracks, Mo., where he is training for an airplane mechanic, it has been learned here. He graduated from Bonanza high school last spring.

Conversion of jalopies to scrap throughout the country goes on at a rate exceeding auto production in 1929, a banner year for new cars.

The number of women working in aircraft manufacturing plants increased 575 per cent in the year after Pearl Harbor.

Officers Probe Thefts Thought to Be Boys' Work

Sheriffs officers, state police and the city recreational officer are investigating a series of burglaries which have occurred recently in the South Sixth street suburban area, the work thought to be that of a gang of young boys.

tered a week ago and several turkeys, butter, cartons of cigarettes and other articles stolen. Sunday night, after 8 o'clock, a similar entry was made when prowlers went into a small restaurant, made off with two stuffed Scottie dogs, a miniature ship, two cartons of cigarettes, a Panda bear and $1.50 in small change. Entrance was made through a back window.

Board Votes to Buy Better Tobacco For State Convicts

SALEM, Jan. 7 (AP)—The state board of control, learning that state prison convicts had thrown large quantities of their smoking tobacco into Mill creek, voted Wednesday to buy them a better grade of tobacco during 1943. Roy Mills, board secretary, told the board that the convicts apparently didn't think much of their tobacco, or it wouldn't have been tossed into the creek. Mills said it would cost the state $12,000 to provide tobacco for all institutions. Contracts will be awarded soon.

While war plane production numerically is over 100 per cent above the pre-Pearl Harbor rate, production measured by tonnage is nearly three times that amount.
