EASY-TO-EMBROIDER SPRINGTIME SCENES

COPY, HILL HOUSEHOLD ARTS, INC.
by Alice Brooks

It's Springtime all year 'round — when you decorate luncheon sets, towels and scarfs with this bird-and-flower embroidery. The stitches are as easy as pie to do in brilliant colors. Pattern 7187 contains a transfer pattern of 14 motifs ranging from 7 1/2 by 7 1/2 to 21 by 31 inches; illustrations of stitches; materials needed; color schemes.

To obtain this pattern send 11 cents in coin to The Herald and News, Household Arts Dept., Klamath Falls, Ore. Do not send this picture, but keep it and the number for reference. Be sure to wrap coin securely, as a loose coin often slips out of the envelope. Requests for patterns should read, "Send pattern No. 7187 to _____," followed by your name and address.

Treatment — Dan Clark, 501 North Eleventh street, employed at the Eagle card room, was moved to Klamath Valley hospital Friday by Ward's ambulance. He is receiving medical treatment.

Recovers at Home — Six-year old Annette Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Jacobs, 2035 Del Moro, is recovering at her home from a tonsillectomy operation.

In Hillside — James Cole, Weyerhaeuser mill office employe, was moved to Hillside hospital Friday by Ward's ambulance following a sudden attack of illness.

Fractures Wrist — Mrs. R. G. Motschenbacher of 803 Walnut street, is recovering satisfactorily from a fractured left wrist suffered when she fell in the driveway at her home.

Red Cross Notes

By ROSE POOLE Publicity Chairman

Doubtless the women who have knit so many sweaters for the soldiers often wonder about their destination and speculate as to who will wear them. The following letter, just received at our headquarters, tells about one of the sweaters and how much it is appreciated:

American Red Cross, Klamath County, Ore.

Dear Chapter:
I guess you think strong of a fellow writing you that don't know you but I received a gift that you sent in to the Red Cross. I am stationed at Kearns, Utah, at the present. My native home is in Louisiana about two thousand miles from here. The gift I received was a netted sweater. I think it really is nice. The reason I got it, I am here taking my overseas training and got sick and had to go to the hospital and was in here when Santa Clause came and he gave me the sweater. I knew that you would wonder about where it went to. The climate here is rather disagreeable with me. I am used to low climate. I have had an awful bad cold but think I will be all right. I hope so anyway. Well, I will close, hoping to learn you better if you wish. Answer soon.

A Friend Soldier.

Thanks for the sweater ever so much.
Pvt. Sherwood A. Walsworth, Flight 4-A 354th Tech. Sch. Sq. (SP) ORTC, A. A. F. T. T. C. Kearns, Utah.

Between the lines you read that Pvt. Walsworth is lonely; why not drop him a card?

First Aid

First Aiders: Don't overlook the fact that Mr. Mead is giving a refresher course in first aid. Advanced instruction started last Tuesday night, and there will be two more meetings: January 7 and next Tuesday, January 12. The refresher course for standard first aid begins Thursday, January 14, at 7 p. m.

Surgical Dressings
If we had made 200 more dressings in the month of December we would have reached the first quota that the army assigned us, of 1000 dressings per day. Now the army has raised our quota and we are still behind and need new workers. There are no special requirements for this work other than a clean wash dress and a covering for the hair. Anyone is welcome at our workrooms and we have efficient instructors who are more than glad to teach the beginners. Please note that our quota is based on man hours per week and we would like, if possible, for each worker to give six hours per week to the work.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

Skeptic Thomas Mitchell seems to be trying to break up the romance between Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara in this scene from Rafael Sabatini's "The Black Swan." The new technical hit at the Pelican theatre starting tonight at midnight. But rest easy, mates, for Tyrone does more than all right with the fiery red-head.

Robert Stack, right, and Comrades Leif Erickson and Edgar Barrier, report to their commanding officer, John Leder, left, in a scene from "Eagle Squadron," adventurous drama of the Americans in the RAF. Diana Barrymore is the feminine lead in the hit which opens tomorrow at the Pine Tree.

No, Ann Sheridan and Jack Benny are not getting ready to cut a rug. It's just one of their scenes from Warner Bros.' version of the famous stage comedy, "George Washington Slept Here," the current attraction at the Esquire.

George Montgomery and Ann Rutherford carry the romantic leads in "Orchestra Wives," which features Glenn Miller and his band. Also in the cast are Carole Landis, Lynn Bari and Cesar Romero. "Orchestra Wives" heads the program at the Tower theatre starting Sunday.

Merrill

The auxiliary of the Merrill American Legion post will meet January 19 at the home of Mrs. Armine Young, just south of the state line. The December meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Bertha McCollum.

KLAMATH FOOD DRIVE OPENS WITH 'M' DAY

By C. A. HENDERSON, County Agent

Klamath county's 1943 Food-Freedom program, described as the toughest farm job in history, will be officially launched on January 12, this date being proclaimed by President Roosevelt as National Farm Mobilization day. Participation in the event, which will serve as a send-off to the drive to fully mobilize all farm resources behind the increased food production program, is being worked out by USDA war board and county farm leaders. County observance of this day will tie in with events being planned on a national scale, including a radio broadcast by well known national leaders, at 1 p. m. Farm leaders are being asked to observe this day in the holding of meetings in order to acquaint all farm families with the purposes behind farm mobilization and discuss ways and means of achieving national production of foods essential to the war.

Ground work for carrying out the Food-Freedom program was laid by farmers attending meetings in the county on Monday and Tuesday, January 4 and 5. On Monday morning, the county USDA war board, which group is given the responsibility of successfully conducting the sign-up program, worked out a plan for complete county coverage. The county was divided into communities and members of the war board and county ACA committee were made responsible for certain communities, as follows:

Districts Listed

District 1 — Henley, extending from the suburban areas south from Klamath Falls to the Stukel road, approximately two miles south of Mac's store, west to the airport road. Burrell W. Short, chairman of the war board and the county ACA committee, in charge, assisted by Harold Dehlinger, first alternate in ACA committee.

District 2 — All that area west of the airport road, including Lower Klamath lake, Worden, Midland, Keno, and along Keno road to Klamath Falls. Earl Gardner, vice chairman of war board, in charge.

District 3 — Langell valley to Bonanza to the market road extending to Harpole dam. Ray Michener, war board member, in charge.

District 4 — Area from Klamath Falls approximately 10 miles north on west side road to bridge crossing canal, and other large operators scattered throughout the county with headquarters in Klamath Falls. E. A. Geary, war board member, in charge.

District 5 — All that area east from Poe valley gap including Poe valley, Yonna valley, Bonanza district to Harpole dam, and north of market road including Dairy, Hildebrand, Pine Flat, Swan lake. Jesse Drew, member of ACA committee, in charge.

District 6 — West side Upper Klamath lake, starting at north boundary Geary ranch north including Fort Klamath and lands adjacent to Klamath lake, east side of Klamath and Agency swan lake. John Sarginson, war board member, in charge.

District 7 — All of Merrill-Malin community joining the Stukel road on the north side and south to the state line. Roy F. Beasley, county ACA committee vice chairman, in charge.

District 8 — Klamath Indian reservation, in charge of E. J. Boyd and Clyde James, officials of Indian service.

District 9 — Bly community. In charge local forest ranger at Bly.

District 10 — Northern part of Klamath county around Crescent. In charge of forest supervisor at Crescent.

War Units Established
It was agreed that county

JANUARY 12, 1943

committeemen and war board members so listed above would be responsible for carrying on the food-sign-up program in their respective communities. Assistance would be given these people by ACA community committeemen, farm leaders and representatives of the various divisions of the department of agriculture in Klamath county, including farm credit administration, agricultural adjustment agency, farm security administration, forest service, soil conservation service, and extension service. Starting about the middle of the month, community meetings will be held in all districts where the program will be explained and assistance given in making out the Food-Freedom farm plan. A definite schedule for these meetings will be prepared later and time and place arranged by the county war board with those in charge of the various districts.

INCREASE IN FIRM WAGE AUTHORIZED

PORTLAND, Jan. 9 (AP) — The west coast lumber commission today authorized additional pay increases in the Pacific northwest lumber industry.

The commission told employers not parties to the wage cases last month that they could raise the pay of employees to levels established then. Such raises may be made retroactive to any date agreed on back to last September 1.

The commission said it also had been granted permission by the war labor board to pass on applications for voluntary wage increases.

Increase Expected

Since some crops carry much higher war rating than others, no doubt the program will result in shifting the production to those crops most needed for successful prosecution of the war this year. Single copies only of these forms have been provided the county office so sign-up cannot be undertaken until these forms are received in sufficient volume for every farm in the county.

Farm sign-up in 1942 was 98 per cent. It is the job of the war board and county ACA committee to see that the 1943 sign-up exceeds this percentage. As a whole, farmers of the nation are being asked to increase crop production an average of about 15 per cent, some crops much more, others less. The amount of food to be sent overseas to our combat forces will be much greater than it was in 1942. Also, the needs of food in countries retaken from the axis will be great and lend-lease will need more than ever before. The American Farmer has had placed squarely on his shoulders the greatest job that the world has ever seen and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, as food administrator, has been given the responsibility of seeing that the job is done. This job is to feed not only ourselves but about half the remaining people of the world, with prospects for still greater need in 1944. Food is considered a major weapon in war and the number one weapon in dictation of peace terms.

For many years, the American farmer has wanted to produce more food, but lack of an export market and local surpluses have always been obstacles that could not be overcome. This year these obstacles have been removed and production lanes are wide open for all of these major crops so badly needed by our people and our allies. While the American farmer grumbles about the many regulations, restrictions, voluminous forms, high taxes, lack of labor and equipment, the general feeling of farm leaders is that the goals will be met and the production will be by far the greatest in the history of this nation.

CI0 Convention Talks Amendments To Be Offered

EUGENE, Jan. 9 (AP) — Resolutions committees discussed today proposals, including two controversial constitutional amendments, to be offered the state CIO convention now in session here.

The amendments expected to be introduced would revise balloting procedure and require approval by referendum for constitutional amendments.

Others under consideration would urge civil service for state employes and federalization of unemployment insurance.
