Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

INTEREST in industrial development has been sharply stimulated here in the past few weeks. There has occurred a growing realization of the size of the war-time timber cut, which is approximating 800 million feet annually in the immediate Klamath area and perhaps a billion feet in that area plus the surrounding fringe in Lake county and northern California.

Recent purchase by the Weyerhaeuser Timber company of a huge stand of timber from the Long Bell people seems to have focussed attention, for some reason, upon the future problem of finding timber for the mills of the Klamath country.

This transaction demonstrated Weyerhaeuser's desire to assure a long-time supply of timber for its great plant here. The fact there has been some cutting for other plants in this timber tract has aroused speculation as to the future of such operations. The Weyerhaeuser purchase does not change the over-all picture of timber resources here. It is the same timber, in different hands.

It does mean, probably, that most of the great stand of timber in the Yamsay tract will be milled in Klamath Falls. Such was the interpretation made at the time of the announcement of the Weyerhaeuser purchase.

So long as the war-time demand for lumber continues at the present high pressure, the general character of the lumber industry here probably will remain unchanged; there won't be time for changes. But in the future lies a possibility of important changes, refinements and even expansions, designed to make greater use of the resources of this area.

Many of these things are still in experimental stages, and some of them are just ideas being turned over in men's minds. But progress is being made in the laboratories, and even in practical operations, that indicates what may happen here when we go definitely into the business of making the timber resources we have go farther.

Re-manufacturing processes, such as box making and moulding manufacture, already started here, give but a hint of the progress that seems certain to be made in more intensive use of our wood resources. Much that is now waste probably will be used eventually. Timber that now is passed by will be picked up for processing in the future program.

These are ideas that form a basis for faith in the Klamath country and its timber resources. They justify the mounting local interest in industrial development that will make full use of those resources.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—It is a good thing the democratic senators closed the door for their initial caucus. Only by manipulating a temporary inside truce did they avoid exposing the shattered condition of their senate majority.

It was indeed the hated isolationists who came through and saved the bruised and battered head of Alben Barkley as senate leader.

Barkley would have been defeated for reelection, and the party plunged into a new scramble for control, had not the most outspoken democratic critics of Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy, Senators Burton Wheeler, of Montana, and the two Clarks, of Idaho and Missouri, undertaken leadership to reelect him.

Tennessee's Senator McKellar had offered a resolution providing that the caucus, instead of Barkley, fill two vacancies on the steering committee, a body which decides the order in which legislation is to be taken up. Barkley took the position this would be an insult to his leadership and he would have to resign.

It was then Wheeler arose. He said that while he had fought Barkley over the Roosevelt foreign policy from 1938 until the war, the Kentucky Roosevelt leader had always been fair. Wheeler plainly told his colleagues that if they fought the leadership issue out now, neither side would gain.

The two Clarks chimed in their assent, and the resolution was defeated by a margin of only 34 to 20.

The southern democrats were out to get Barkley, because of his recent enthusiasm for the anti-poll tax bill. They were able to stop him with his new-found isolationist support, however, on only one point.

They kicked out the New Dealer (Senator Wallgren, of Washington) whom he had named as secretary of the caucus and installed an anti-New Dealer, Senator Francis Maloney, of Connecticut.

The incident clearly showed Barkley will not be able to handle the majority on most issues during the coming session. Blocs (farm, southern, isolationist) are likely to do the leading.

Their Goose Cooked

THE democratic conference sounded like a republican convention as far as criticism of the administration was concerned. Texas' Tom Connally said at one point to Barkley:

"You are taking the position that you are bigger than the caucus when you are the creature of the caucus. That is the trouble with these bureaucrats downtown. They are created by congress and the people and then they think they are bigger than the people who created them."

Many democratic senators from the north and west made speeches plainly saying that they thought their goose was cooked or cooking for reelection in 1944, unless changes are made.

All wanted a change in everything except the name of the leader, and this desire will dominate the upper house from now on.

Lameducks Remembered

MR. ROOSEVELT'S initial appointments took care of most of the lameducks, but it is not clear yet whether they took care of the problems at hand.

Judge Rutledge will make the New Deal court majority seven to two, but it is not known whether he will join the Frankfurter bloc or New Dealers of the Black bloc. Perhaps it makes little difference because the only margin between the two is that Black wants to go further and faster than Frankfurter.

Ed Flynn is not very popular even with New Deal democrats, who privately expressed distaste for his choice as ambassador to Australia. But, after the republicans have a little fun with him, the democrats will vote for him and no doubt confirm him.

As for Prentiss Brown in Henderson's place, the defeated Michigan senator is more popular in Washington than apparently even in his home state. Around the senate, he is regarded as much less of a New Dealer than Henderson and a high-class citizen.

Incidentally, although he is to be in charge of housing, he has been unable to find an apartment for his family. The manager at his former apartment house promised to let him return, but that manager was drafted and the new one refuses to honor the agreement.

Brown is usually diplomatic in his choice of words, will make fewer speeches than Henderson, and more palatable ones.

Military Secret

YOU have heard little or no detailed comment on the amazing $109,000,000,000 budget. Not much is possible except the obvious suggestions concerning the unprecedented amount.

Particularized ways in which the money is to be spent could not be disclosed by the president, because they are military secrets. No one, therefore, can surmise how wisely the money is to be spent or for what.

Indeed, it is impossible to analyze non-war savings, as a reader of the message cannot know how much government activity has been transferred to the war side of the books.

Budgets have lost their original purpose in recent years. They were devised as a method of effecting economies, but when allocations are made in grouped round numbers, they serve more effectively as good war propaganda than as an indication of plans.

About That Income Tax

No. 4 PERSONAL EXEMPTION

Every individual is allowed a credit against his net income which varies with his domestic status, that is, whether he is (a) a single person, (b) a married person living with husband or wife, or (c) a head of family. This credit is known as personal exemption, and is shown on line 21 of the return Form 1040. The amount of the personal exemption also varies depending upon the period during which the taxpayer occupied the particular exemption status.

The personal exemption for a single person is $500 for the year; for a married person living with husband or wife, $1200; and for a "head of family," $1200. (Personal exemption as head of a family has no effect on liability to file a return.) For federal income tax purposes, widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, as well as persons who have never been married, are classed as single persons.

A head of family is defined as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation." A single person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, may, therefore, enjoy a head of family exemption under certain conditions.

Taxpayers using a Simplified

Return (which is permitted if the gross income for the year is $3000 or less and derived solely from earnings from employment and/or from dividends, interest, and annuities) obtain personal exemption based on their status as of July 1 of the year. Thus, a taxpayer married and living with husband or wife on July 1 is entitled to $1200 personal exemption on Form 1040A; if he were a widower on July 1, his exemption would be $500, irrespective of the date on which he became a widower. The amount of the exemption is not deductible from the income but is reflected in the amount of tax shown in the table on the reverse side of the form.

Taxpayers using return Form 1040 obtain personal exemption proportionate with the number of months during which the particular status is held. Thus, for a person who married on July 1 (who was not a head of family prior to his marriage), the personal exemption would be $350 ($250 for the six months as a single man, plus $800 for the six months as a married man.) In this example it is assumed that the wife has no income.

Married persons may, however, file joint returns, even though one has no income, and by filing a joint return a couple married during the year may obtain an exemption amounting to the exemption to which they would be entitled for the period of married status, plus the amount of their individual exemptions prior to their marriage. In the example given the total exemption in a joint return would be $1100 ($250 for each spouse for six months plus $600 for six months married status).

If a husband and wife living together both have income and file separate returns on Form 1040, the personal exemption applicable to a married person may be taken in the return of either or divided between them in any way as they may agree, but the total personal exemption taken in the two separate returns may not exceed $1200.

Klamath's Yesterdays

From the files — 40 years ago and 10 years ago.

From the Klamath Republican January 8, 1903

The town board met Monday, allowed bills, granted three saloon licenses, and ordered construction of 500 feet of new sidewalk in the eastern part of town.

Last Saturday Charles Galarneau was thrown violently from his wagon when a wheel dropped into one of the holes in the road a few rods south of the flour mill.

Grading of the Klamath lake railroad has been completed 18 miles out of Laird's.

From the Klamath News January 14, 1933

Representative Henry Semon met with county officials today in a conference on a proposed salary cut.

Police Chief Guy Merrill today ordered a clean-up of gambling here.

The Klamath Pelican basketball team defeated Bend, 37 to 21, last night at Bend.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

OUR MEN IN SERVICE

IN MARYLAND—Second Lieutenant E. D. "Gene" Williams

recently completed his officers training and now is attending the 14th EGO course, chemical warfare school, Edgewood Arsenal, Md. Mrs. Williams is with her husband. Williams formerly conducted a cleaning establishment in this city.

GRADUATES—Second Lieutenant Asa J. Irwin

23, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Irwin of 2518 Shasta way, has just graduated from the Midland bombardier school in Texas. This axis-buster and his fellow graduates at Midland, Big Spring and San Angelo, were told at the ceremonies that this is the year the United Nations will launch bombing missions of unprecedented scale against the enemy.

One of Klamath's paratroopers who has gone up in an airplane many times, but was never brought down in one, is young Frank Cress, private in Uncle Sam's parachute corps, who arrived Wednesday morning to spend a brief leave with his mother, Mrs. Gladys Cress, 2949

Bisbee street. Frank is a graduate of Klamath Union high school, enlisted July, 1942, and received his paratroop training at Fort Benning, Ga. He returns here Monday night. Frank told friends that jumping from the 250-foot practice tower was a lot tougher than jumping from a plane. He likes the work a lot and wouldn't change to any other branch of service.

TRANSFERRED—Sergeant Joseph T. Ward, better known as Joe Ward, has finished a five-week course in demolition school at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and has been transferred to the 701st petroleum distribution unit at Camp Claiborne, La., as special demolition man for the unit. He enlisted in the U. S. army on August 21, 1941, and was sent to Fort Lewis, Wash. Sergeant Ward is a former employe of the city of Klamath Falls, and made his home here on California avenue.

NEW PINE CREEK

Sergeant Don Partin made a brief visit home over the weekend. He is now stationed at Sacramento, Calif., and is a member of a Flying Fortress crew. Mrs. Francis Mulkey, who recently moved to the west side, reports that she has received word from her brother Harold Hardisty that he is now located in Ireland and England. He reports that he is in good health and having lots of fun trading with the Arabs. He says "all you have to do to talk Arab is wave both hands, jump up and down, and holler."

Mrs. Mulkey has a nother brother, Charlie, also in Africa with the Yanks. He is well known in Lakeview, where he spent his youth.

Neither brother knows the location of the other, except that it is "somewhere in Africa."

TANK EXPERT

Pvt. Jack Robinson, now stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky., will soon be directing a light tank as tank commander in a reconnaissance battalion, he writes. "We are right out in front in the roughest, toughest, finest outfit there is," he reports, "but I love it."

Pvt. Robinson

spent the Christmas holidays in Central City, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn., on a three-day pass awarded him for shooting the best target from a 30-cal. machine gun mounted in a tank. He was also awarded a medal for being an expert machine gunner. And what's more, "I'm buying more than 10 percent," he wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Robinson of 423 Upham street. Pvt. Robinson is co-owner of Robinson's Delivery service and left Klamath Falls on November 1, 1942. He is a KUHS graduate, '40, and has two brothers living in this city.

It's unfortunate that it took a World war to make Americans eat sensibly.
