Congressmen Take A Back-Hand Crack At Bureau Men

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Disregarding the old adage that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, a group of congressmen indirectly took a crack at some government bureau officials Saturday by cutting off one of their favorite sources of food.

The lawmakers complained so much that the management of the house restaurant in the capitol barred the officials and their aides from the once-exclusive dining which in recent months, had become a sort of a WPB, OPA and social security board lunch room.

David Lynn, capitol architect and majordomo of the dining room, announced that in the future only members of congress, their secretaries, other capitol employees, and members of the press galleries will be allowed to break bread in the house restaurant or in the cafeteria in the house office building.

CITIZEN AWARD TO HIGHLIGHT J. C. BANQUET

Presentation of the "First Junior Citizen" award to the "most outstanding young man of 1942" will highlight the annual Founder's Day banquet of the Junior chamber of commerce scheduled to start at 7:15 o'clock Tuesday night at the Willard hotel.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be Robert W. Sawyer, editor and publisher of the Bend Bulletin, who will talk on historical tie-ups between the Deschutes and Klamath countries.

Other Awards
Mitchell Tillotson will be toastmaster and Malcolm Epley will present the award to the "First Junior Citizen."

The annual banquet also is the occasion for the presentation of key awards to junior chamber members for meritorious service performed during the past year.

Activities Sponsored
Working against odds in 1942, because the war put a stop to several of their civic activities, officers of the junior chamber nevertheless feel the last year has been a successful one, it was stated.

During the year just passed, the junior chamber sponsored the Fourth of July parade, distributed 400 rose slips and about 600 elm trees last spring and another 3000 rose slips last fall, helped to raise money for the Salvation Army and the USO, drive, maintained its interest and representation on the Klamath Falls safety committee and also maintained its weekly radio program. Some of the things publicized on the radio program were bond sales, Americanism week and navy recruiting.

CD Contributions
Members also have been active in civilian defense. Six are in the civilian defense control center and most of the other members are air raid wardens, auxiliary police or firemen. One of the newest projects is "Share the Ride"—for people going to and from work and for housewives and shoppers who can use "Sammy's Cane."

SANITY HEARING ASKED FOR STAR

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18 (AP)—Frances Farmer, rebellious film actress, will be given a sanity hearing if a petition filed by Dr. Thomas Leonard, psychiatrist, is approved by superior court.

Miss Farmer was removed from the county jail to the county hospital psychopathic ward pending a hearing of the petition.

Dr. Leonard of Alhambra, Calif., reported to Judge Dudley S. Valentine that the actress told him: "I hear voices day and night and they bother me."

Asked if she struck a movie studio hair dresser, Dr. Leonard said the actress replied: "It's none of your business. Besides the question is insulting, irrelevant and impudent."

The hair dresser, Miss Edna Marie Burge, has filed a complaint with the city attorney, charging that Miss Farmer unprovokedly smacked her on the jaw, dislocating it. Hearing was set for January 20.

Before removal to the hospital, Miss Farmer had started serving a six months' jail sentence for violation of probation in a drunk driving case.

OUR MEN IN SERVICE

BACK TO DUTY—Robert E. Bergman, seaman second class, has returned to Farragut, Ida., to complete his training in the U. S. navy after spending a 10-day holiday leave with his mother, Mrs. B. E. Bergman, 522 Walnut street, Bergman enlisted November 3, 1941, from Klamath Falls, where he worked for the Southern Pacific as fireman.

American men, now serving in Africa, seem to appreciate much of the beauty of that country, but without exception they are appalled at the dirt and poverty which is accepted so calmly by the natives.

Sgt. Clayton Constable, in a letter to his wife, Dorothy, 2005 Vine street, has written many interesting observations since his arrival with the U. S. army engineers in North Africa. Parts are given here:

"We are getting settled a little better here in camp and getting used to the natives that come around, kids and old men selling oranges and tangerines. They are very ragged and dirty. At meal time the kids flock around camp with tin cans and the men all give them part of their meals, just dump everything in the can, then the kids take it home. It's pathetic to see them, they seem to be half starved. None of them wear shoes, the older people wear grass sandals, but when it rains, or they have to wade through mud, take them off and carry them.

"Some of the men heard laughing hyenas. I haven't so far but I have seen some queer sights around here. Today I saw an Arab riding a small donkey and his wife walking along behind with a huge basket on her head."

In describing the dress of the natives, Constable observed that the Moslem women are dressed in white and never show their faces. The French are usually fairly well dressed in town but "out here" are just as ragged as the natives and you can smell garlic and wine a block away, he said.

In one letter, Constable remarked on the little burros pulling heavy loads of oranges, wood and "most anything in big grass bags." He said that on top of this load would be an Arab.

"The kids know 'OK' and 'chevy gum' and 'chocolate' and a few other words that have to do with 'eat' and most of them need it," Constable said. "The Germans took everything they found and this is the first time in three years they have been able to sell or eat oranges which grow here in abundance."

Lt. Irving Rauw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Rauw of this city, co-pilot on one of Uncle Sam's big bombers, is now in Greenland, according to word received by his parents. Young Rauw completed his training at Williams field, Ariz., and is now on his way to England to join fellow airmen in the U. S. army.

DORRIS—Pvt. Francis Furrer, former Dorris grocer, is taking a link trainer course at Chanute field, Ill.

Pvt. Wallace Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marshall, writes from Africa that the southern Klamath, with an surrounding country is like abundance of oranges, figs and other tropical fruits.

Acel Clemens is visiting his parents here while on a month's sick leave from the naval training station at Farragut, Ida.

Jack Degnan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Degnan, former Dorris residents, now living in Berkeley, has enlisted in the navy.

Sgt. H. E. Crawford spent the weekend at the C. A. Stahn ranch while on leave from a coast guard base near San Diego.

Staff Sgt. Jimmy White has returned to Baton Rouge, La., after spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. White.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Billy G. James, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William James, 3928 Bisbee street, Klamath Falls, Ore., was graduated from the U. S. naval training school for aviation machinist's mates at the navy pier here on January 8 with the petty officer rating of aviation third class. He now awaits assignment to active duty with the fleet or at a naval aviation base.

FARRAGUT, Ida., Jan. 18—arriving at the U. S. naval training station here located in the mountains of northern Idaho, Vernon Albert Sattley, son of Mrs. Ruby Sattley, Route 3, Klamath Falls, Ore., has begun his recruit training for service with the U. S. navy.

JAPS MAY TRY PEACE PLOT WARNS GREW

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Japan may try to trick the United States again, this time with a "jijitsu" peace plot, former Ambassador Joseph C. Grey warned today.

In an address prepared for delivery at the Women's National Republican club luncheon, Grey predicted that the Japanese will pretend defeat, if necessary, to catch the United States off guard with a sudden, smashing blow.

Cue Given
Grew, who as ambassador in Tokyo in January, 1941, warned his government of a planned "surprise mass attack at Pearl Harbor" 10 months before it took place, explained the possibility of a "jijitsu" peace maneuver as follows:

"The Japanese art of self-defense, jijitsu, gives us a clue as to what these tactics are likely to be. The essence of this art is that by letting the adversary take the initiative, and by giving way and simulating defeat, the adversary may be lulled into dropping his guard; then, when the adversary has advanced too far and is off balance, he is destroyed by a quick recovery and a lightning attack where he is weakest."

NEWELL STAFF TO SPEAK AT MEETING

Life on the Japanese project at Newell, and vocational education there, will be explained to members of the Parents and Patrons club of Klamath Union high school at a meeting to be held Wednesday evening at 8 p. m. in the KUHS Little Theatre Off Mon Claire, according to Mrs. Cyril Cook, program chairman.

Three teachers from the Japanese project will be present at the meeting to speak, answer questions, and display examples of work done on the project. Entertainment will be furnished by Moldovan's dancing school, and a business meeting will be held.

NWA REPORT SHOWS 90,703 PASSENGERS

A total of 90,703 revenue passengers used Northwest Airlines planes during 1942, an annual air travel report by Croil Hunter, president and general manager of NWA revealed today. Revenue passenger miles for the same period, Hunter said, totaled 45,762,483.

Although the totals for revenue passengers and revenue passenger miles were lower than the previous year, the percentage of available passenger seats occupied, Hunter explained, was higher than in 1941. The record was all the more remarkable, he added, because of the fact that NWA curtailed its service and reduced the number of daily flights after some planes had been turned over to the government for war duties.

In 1941, he said, NWA planes hauled 153,708 passengers and revenue passenger miles totaled 77,233,662.

EAGLES DRUM CORPS TO JOIN GUARD COMPANY

The championship Drum and Bugle corps of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Klamath Falls has been offered to Company C, Oregon State Guards, for the duration. This band of musicians has carried off top honors in every competition it has entered for a number of years.

As in the case with many such organizations, however, additional drummers and buglers are needed to fill out vacancies caused by men who have left for the armed forces and defense industries. Plans are now being formulated to bring the corps up to full strength of 24 men and to tie in its work with the State Guards. Those interested are asked to come to the armory Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock for information.

In commenting on this addition to Company C, Capt. Van Fleet, commander of that company, stated, "We were immensely pleased at the decision of the Drum and Bugle corp to join the Oregon State Guards. To the Fraternal Order of Eagles should go the appreciation of this community because of the evident patriotism the Eagles have shown in approving the enlistment of these men in a body plus the fact that this Drum and Bugle corps would be a welcome addition to any military organization in the country."
