

TEACHERS TALK BASIC SCHOOL SUPPORT BILL

The basic school support bill, passed at the November election, was the principal topic of discussion at a meeting Saturday of city and county school teachers.

In the discussion it was asserted that the bill passed in every county in the state principally because it promised relief to real property taxpayers, and Superintendent Arnold Grapp emphasized that it is the policy of the state teachers association to see that this intention is carried out.

Two Groups Opposing

According to the legislative committee of the state association, minor changes may be necessary to make administration of the measure more efficient, but all surplus income tax money should be returned to school districts to reduce the property tax. (The bill provides all income tax receipts above $7,750,000 be distributed to school districts.)

Wyatt Paugett of the legislative committee stated that attempts to change the bill will be made by two groups: those who wish to get the funds for some other purpose, and those who want to reduce the income tax.

In view of Governor Snell's opposition to reduction of the income tax at this time, Paugett expressed the opinion that the greatest threat to the bill lies with those who want to get the money for some other purpose.

ELECTRIC TIMER, SCOREBOARD PUT IN

DORRIS—A new electric scoreboard and timer was installed this week in the Butte Valley high school gym.

The gadget, promising better times for spectators at local basketball games, is a gift of Fluhrer's Bakeries.

Among the features of the new scoreboard are an illuminated automatic clock with minute and second hands that keep time accurately without regard for timeout periods, scores of home and visiting teams, lights for each quarter, and a horn.

Principal Don Doolin and the student council wrote the donor, sending thanks for the gift.

Ephratan Dies as Gasoline Explodes

EPHRATA, Jan. 19 (AP)—Henry Gutschmidt, 44, died last night of burns received when a five-gallon can exploded, drenching him with flaming gasoline. Gutschmidt was using a blowtorch to thaw frozen water pipes when the nearby gasoline container blew up.

News Notes and Comment

By ANITA GWYN

The senior girls were entertained by the Business and Professional Women's club, Monday evening. This has become a traditional affair, showing the girls a bit of the business world mixed with entertainment.

The Home Economics club has started a drive on the way. Nylon, silk and furs are being collected to aid in the war program. Under the leadership of Frances Gjevve, this organization has announced that the drive will continue until approximately the last of April. It was stressed that only three articles are wanted and that these are to be turned in at the respective home rooms where members of the club will pick them up. This is to be a competitive drive between the home rooms.

This semester sees home nursing being reinstated. Mrs. Margaret Strode is instructing these classes, which consist of junior girls who are interested in the subject. Last semester it could not be arranged in the schedule.

Last year a forest conservation class was held which resulted in the employment of a number of boys. Thursday classes will start again with Don Norland in charge of the program. Ranger John Sarginson of Rogue River national forest and Ranger Don Fisher of Lava Beds National monument, will help instruct the boys. This program is not only on fire control but there are also patrol and crews who watch for any trouble on the trails, telephones and roads. The boys are from 16 to 18 years old.

LEGION AUXILIARY OPEN TO NEW GROUP

Ranks of the American Legion auxiliary are now open to a new group of American women, explained Mrs. A. L. Paul, membership chairman of the local auxiliary unit, as the unit continued enrollment of members for 1948.

Mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of men who have given their lives for America in the present conflict are now eligible for auxiliary membership. They become Gold Star members, especially honored because of their loss. Auxiliary units everywhere are inviting them into membership.

Also eligible at this time are the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of men who have been discharged from war service because of injuries, illness or other honorable cause, and who have enrolled in the American Legion. Such veterans must become members of the Legion before the women of their families can become auxiliary members.

Women who themselves have been enlisted in the armed forces and who have been honorably discharged are eligible to membership in both the American Legion and auxiliary, and may join either or both.

Eligibility to auxiliary membership will come to all mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of men now in the service when these men receive their honorable discharges and enroll in the American Legion. The Legion is a veterans' organization open only to those who have completed their war service, and the veteran must be a member of the Legion to give eligibility to the auxiliary to the women of his family.

Grants Pass Herd Heifer Leads U. S. October Register

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 19 (AP)—A Jersey heifer in the herd of Frank Schutzwahl, local dairyman, led the nation in the October register of merit test roll of honor compiled by American Jersey Cattle club. She produced 1862 pounds of milk and 101.11 pounds of butterfat for the month. She was milked twice daily only.

Southern Oregon had nine of the 43 cows listed on the roll. Six are from the Schutzwahl herd and three from the herd of E. B. Poyer, Ashland.

State Guard Seen as Backlog of Coast Defense

By SGT. O. J. HORNE

In a major offensive in war, careful planning is an absolute necessity. Not one point may be overlooked for fear it might prove to be the offensive's stumbling block. By the same reasoning, in planning a defense, every possibility and every likelihood must be given consideration to prevent insofar as possible the enemy breaking through a weak point.

And just what does talk of offensives and defenses have to do with this area? Frankly, we don't know, since our city and county have two mountain ranges and many miles between them and the coast.

However, here are a few thoughts we might all ponder carefully. Klamath Falls is the largest city in a space of 3 to 400 miles on the fastest railroad and highway routes running north and south. We are less than one-half an hour from the sea by fast plane and have a good airport, situated out of the fog belt where landings could be made at almost any time.

The organizing of state guard battalions throughout the nation is an endeavor which could well prevent the overlooking of that one detail, that one weak point, which means our safety. Never intended as combat units, the Oregon state guards could well fight a delaying action, or keep a small force of enemy paratroops busy pending arrival of regular troops. In an emergency, three or four hundred trained and disciplined state guards could patrol and guard many miles of vital supply routes. That is our purpose and that is why we need still greater enlistments in the Oregon state guards. It is impossible for this community to feel it has done its part if it hasn't provided sufficient men to fill the local companies to full strength and it is impossible for the local companies to properly plan action for an emergency without lots of manpower. Company C meets each Wednesday, 7:30 to 10 p. m., at the armory. We want the help of each and every man between the ages of 18 and 60.

Bonus meats in the menu

There's no need of too much worry about making your meat allowance stretch when there are all those delicious bonus meats that can be had (at least at this writing). I speak of sundry meats such as liver, heart, kidney, pigs' feet and all those extras that don't come in on the meat quota.

As far as nutritional value goes, they have everything that other meats have, and in most cases, more too. Liver, heart, and kidney are right on top of the list when it comes to contributing iron to the diet. They're vitamin foods, too, for they contain vitamins A, B, C, and some D.

If you've built up a psychological resistance toward them, it is most likely because you've probably never tried them. But if you like chicken giblets, then you're bound to like these bonus meats

MOCK GIBLET NOODLES—Saute small pieces of liver or kidney or precooked heart in hot shortening. Make a sauce out of the pan drippings or use mushroom sauce and add meat and sauce to hot noodles. Don't pass judgment on sundries until you've tried this dish.

SPANISH KIDNEY—Remove white centers and tubes of kidneys, slice into thin slices, brown quickly in hot shortening along with chopped onion. Cover with tomato sauce or canned tomatoes and steam for about 15 minutes. Serve with rice or spaghetti.

LIVER BURGERS—Grind uncooked liver, using the coarse knife of the grinder, add about 1/2 as much bread crumbs, chopped onions and seasonings to taste. Add enough beaten egg or evaporated milk to bind mixture. Shape into patties and fry quickly. Grand with whole kernel corn.

Sauerkraut adds variety

Sauerkraut and pork, like ham and eggs, have long been associated. Funny how foods become linked with one another and are never given a break along other lines. Sauerkraut, for instance, has that same smacking goodness when used with other meats, or as a vegetable combination or in salads. Just to prove our point, we'll pass along a few of our own ideas that have come in for their share of praise.

SAUERKRAUT WITH LIVER DUMPLINGS—Like something downright delicious in an old fashioned way? Then add chopped precooked liver to dumpling dough and drop on boiling sauerkraut. Cover tightly and steam 12 minutes without peaking. Serve immediately. Make a generous amount, because the family'll be asking for seconds.

LIMA BEAN-SAUERKRAUT CASSE-ROLE—Combine about 2 cups cooked lima beans, 1 cup of bread crumbs, 1 cup of sauerkraut in a greased casserole. Season to taste. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for about 1 hour.

MOLDED SAUERKRAUT SALAD—When making molded vegetable salads, add a helping of drained sauerkraut. The zest and chewiness will win high favor. Shredded carrots and sauerkraut is a special favorite.
