

DAIRY MEN WILL ORGANIZE FOR PROTESTS

No assurance of any relief from "oppressive features" of the recent OPA milk order has been received here, according to County Agent C. A. Henderson.

There is some interpretation of the order here that it may even mean the reduction of milk prices here, whereas local efforts have been made to get additional money for producers to encourage them to stay in the business.

Henderson said some producers have stayed on in the hope they would get relief, but now indicate they are seriously considering ceasing productive operations.

At a recent meeting of farm leaders to establish food production goals for 1943, Henderson said, it was the opinion of the group of 55 that dairy production of Klamath county would not be more than 60 per cent in 1943 of what it was in 1942.

It is further reduction in return is forced, Henderson said, the 1943 production might even go below that estimate.

The Klamath Falls creamery has discontinued the manufacture of cheese because of lack of milk and the Malin factory has reduced its output to about 20 or 25 per cent of capacity, the agent stated.

Henderson said the manufacture of butter is down in this area and is still dropping.

ROSEBURG, Jan. 30 (P)—A plan to organize milk producers and distributors in western Oregon for the purpose of making united presentation to the OPA of the need for increased wholesale and retail prices was announced here today. Producers and distributors of the Roseburg area at a meeting this morning contacted like groups in Grants Pass and Eugene and also conferred by telephone with Governor Earl Snell relative to the proposed organization. A Roseburg delegation is meeting with Eugene representatives at Eugene this afternoon, at which time it is planned to work out details.

Roseburg producers, who had served an ultimatum on distributors that butterfat prices must be advanced from 75 cents to 85 cents per pound by February 1, agreed to accept an offered price of 80 cents for a "reasonable" length of time, pending presentation of claims by both producers and distributors to the OPA that present retail and wholesale prices are too low to permit profitable operation.

THE DALES, Jan. 30 (P)—Faced with the threat that virtually the entire local milk supply would be cut off February 15, unless an advance of 2 cents a quart is forthcoming, local citizens and organizations launched a barrage of protest today, aimed at the San Francisco OPA office.

The six remaining dairies serving this city signed a definite agreement at a meeting here, committing each dairy to suspend operations February 15 unless the present price ceiling of 13 cents a quart is lifted.

Dairymen pointed out that they simply could not continue in business with a ceiling on the milk price and no ceiling on feed prices.

"We've got to hang together or we'll HANG SEPARATELY. If I can't convince these saps that unless they fight to the death they'll suffer a fate WORSE THAN DEATH, Hitler and I are GONE."

SO, in substance, he tells the German people that Nazi Germany's crimes are so black that their only hope of survival is to WIN—no matter what the cost may be.

It is a telling point, because it is TRUE.

AFTER Goering's remarkable speech, you should have no difficulty whatever in understanding the note that has recently entered the German propaganda.

Its purpose is to frighten the German people out of any thought of turning against their Nazi leaders and masters and whip them on to superhuman efforts to WIN.

For only by winning can Hitler and Goering survive.

He's at it again. Who's at it? Wm. F. B. Chase. At what? Helping people prepare their income tax returns. Where? At 203 Odd Fellows Building, Klamath Falls, Oregon. Pretty keen fellow. Better see him soon.

There were also reports that Flynn might ask the president to withdraw his name unless it became clear that the former national democratic chairman would be confirmed. Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.) already had recommended such a step as a "wholesome solution" to the controversy.

Debt Measure Put Off
President Roosevelt, in a memorandum issued at the White House, explained he stopped in Brazil while en route home from his Casablanca conference with Prime Minister Churchill to discuss "several details of additional mutual aid."

Gearhart's repealer move caused postponement of the house ways and means committee consideration of the debt measure. He charged the president has "usurped" authority by limiting salaries, recalling that congress had refused to impose such a ceiling.

If the order is not repealed, he said, "we will admit the executive department will act as a court of appeals over the congress, with power to reverse its actions." He predicted the repealer would be approved by the committee.

DAYLIGHT RAID HITS BERLIN ON ANNIVERSARY

man will still know that Germany, at Stalingrad, has set the final stamp to ultimate victory. A people which fight as the Germans are fighting at Stalingrad can and must win."

It was the second time since he was appointed chancellor by President Paul von Hindenburg 10 years ago today that Hitler himself had not addressed the German people on the anniversary. The streets were unadorned with flags, and it was a somber day in the Nazi capital even before the bombs began to fall from the winter sky.

The RAF chose its fastest light bomber for today's spectacular foray.

No Raid Details
The sleek, twin-motored Mosquito was given its name because of its slim lines. Its skin is of plywood, which eliminates rivet heads and enhances its speed—reputedly close to 400 miles an hour.

Although no details of the raid were announced immediately, it was considered possible that the swift ships had swept across Germany at tree-top level to evade and confuse defending German fighter planes and anti-aircraft defenses. The Berlin radio did not leave the air at any time.

Harps on Unity
Goering made a left-hand admission that Germany had been deceived by Russia's strength on the basis of the red army's showing in the Finnish war, which he said was "the cleverest camouflage known in the history of the world."

He harped repeatedly on the need for German unity.

"Today we are united and shall fight to the very last: for our way of life," Goering declared. "One of our enemies is also united and conditioned by a way of life. Russia would long ago have collapsed had it not been for the strength this gives her."

Sure of Russia
Addressing himself to the German army, the corpulent reichsmarshal said, "Many of you experienced the rigors of the Russian winter and the weakness of certain German commanders."

"It was then that the fuhrer, with his display of toughness, held the whole German front himself."

After recounting the hardships encountered in the Russian campaign, Goering attempted to bolster the German spirit with the assertion, "I am convinced that Russia is now using her last reserves."

Goering announced that Hitler had ordered the mobilization of all remaining resources of Germany.

Red Deception
Turning to what he called Russia's deception in the Finnish war, Goering said, "We had seen a small but gallant nation (Finland) fight heroically for many months against this vast empire and we thought 'What danger can possibly come from that empire in the east?'"

"It required all the hardships of last winter to realize that Russia's war against Finland was perhaps the cleverest, greatest camouflage in world history," Goering said.

"While the Russians had few armies fighting Finland with partly equipped obsolete arms they spent the last decade and a half building up the most powerful armaments which ever had been made by any nation."

That Intuition
The observation came from the man who long and often boasted Germany had the world's best and most powerful war tools.

Goering conceded, "It is not easy to fight Russia. Our enemy is hard, his leadership barbaric and disobedience means death."

The reichsmarshal said it was Hitler's celebrated intuition that dictated the Nazi attack on Russia.

"The strength of the Russians was known," he said, apparently contradicting other parts of his speech, "but the fuhrer's intuition warned him we must attack all the same."

by 20 regular and special members of the force. All had been called at 4 o'clock to report to the chief who was definitely irked at the charges.

District Attorney L. Orth Sisemore was handed Chief Heuvel's time book in which names of all regular and special officers are listed, and Sisemore methodically called off the names of the men each of whom answered "here."

Sapps watched the procedure with interest. Chief Heuvel cautioned the youth, picked up a week ago following the complaint of two young Klamath women that they had been "grabbed" near the downtown district, and told him to be very sure of his man before he accused an officer of the alleged beating.

After looking over the group Sapps turned to Heuvel and said: "Not one in here that has struck me." Heuvel again asked him to look over the room and warned him that it was a serious offense and to be "very sure."

Sapps repeated his statement.

Edward B. Ashurst, attorney for Sapps, came into the office and when Heuvel asked Sapps to sign a statement exonerating all members of the force, Ashurst stated, "As your attorney I advise you not to sign that statement." Members of Sapps' family remained in the city hall corridor while the youth viewed the officers. He was returned to the county jail by Deputy Sheriff Jack Franey.

22 GERMANS DOWN REVEALED AS YANK SCORE

LONDON, Jan. 30 (P)—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators destroyed 22 German fighters in Wednesday's large scale raid on the Wilhelmshaven submarine base and the Emden industrial area, the eighth US air force announced today.

Fliers who took part in the raid reported that the German defending force numbered only about 25 planes, which would mean that the Americans knocked out almost the entire opposition.

On the two raids Wednesday, three bombers were lost.

LONDON, Jan. 30 (P)—British bombers attacked the German submarine base at Lorient in western France again last night, the air ministry announced today. Four bombers are missing from the raid, it said.

It was the sixth raid on the Bay of Biscay U-boat nest in 16 days. The RAF struck at it last on the night of Jan. 26 after a lull of two days.

The raid of Jan. 23 was described as a major attack and in it five bombers were reported lost. The four reported missing in last night's assault indicated that the raid was made in force.

British military sources surmised that the phrase in the communiqué saying that the penetration was made in "the central sector" of the Tunisian front meant that the border crossing was effected 15 to 25 miles from the coast.

Rommel was believed to have established part of his forces within the fortifications of the Mareth line. These fortifications, built by the French before the war, stood about 65 miles within Tunisia.

In three days fighting, the war bulletin said, more than 14,500 prisoners were taken and about 12,000 of the enemy were killed.

In the Caucasus, where fighting continued with similar intensity, the capture of the railway junction of Kropotkin was announced, putting a Russian army there on the banks of the strategically important Kuban river, sealing one of the gates to the Maikop oil fields, and furnishing a new menace to Tikhoretsk, another railway junction 35 miles north.

Street fighting in Kropotkin resulted in the killing of more than 1000 Germans, the Russians said.

A union of this northward driving army with the army that has driven to within 20 miles northeast of Tikhoretsk, on the main Stalingrad railway, was envisaged.

"Most acute shortages of year-around labor exist in dairy and sheep areas, with the initial request for importation of 25 dairy workers for Coos and Curry counties of Oregon," Duffy said. "A heavy demand for bringing Basque shepherders from Mexico is evident in eastern Oregon and Idaho."

"Recruitment of workers for the Pacific Northwest will get under way within the next 10 days in the Missoula and Flathead sections of Montana. Farmers anticipating future needs for outside year-around labor should file their requests through local county agents, FSA supervisors, other county war board members or employment representatives as quickly as possible."
