

New Legal Battle Mars Turbulent Boilermakers' Union
 PORTLAND, Feb. 4 (AP)—A new legal battle marred the already turbulent internal relations of the Portland AFL Boilermakers union today. Russell Duke, member of the local, filed injunction proceedings in circuit court to prevent international officers from seizing local control pending the conclusion of court action started by a group of local men who claim they have not been seated as officers despite a legal election. Duke also asked an accounting of local treasury funds by Tom Ray, secretary-treasurer.

Circuit Judge James W. Crawford yesterday refused to dismiss mandamus petitions by which the newly-elected men hope to force the incumbents to vacate their offices.

Quota Upped at Pendleton CPT School
 PENDLETON, Feb. 4 (AP)—An increase of 20 students in the quota of the Steen Flyways civilian pilot training school at Pendleton was announced today by school officials. Between 80 and 85 pupils will be taking primary, secondary and cross-country flight training there by the end of this month. Rumors that the school would be discontinued because it failed to have college sponsorship were dispelled by the announcement.

Radio City Music hall, New York City, has a stage one block wide and nine stories high. The electrical industry is the fifth largest in England.
