By WEB GUDERIAN

After discussing the situation thoroughly with our several hunting friends, we have decided that shells or no shells the season on ducks and geese should be opened as usual this fall. Practically all serious hunters are not worried about getting shells to shoot the game with this fall, but are concerned because some publicity-patriot might get the idea the season should be closed and railroad through a law to that effect.

Nelson Reed, ex-Klamath county hunter, sees with us in fact when he:

"You have asked for an impartial discussion of whether we should have a duck season next fall, because of the shortage of shells. Now Wes, let's get over our boots before daylight, and keep them in range."

"There is no such thing as an impartial discussion of whether there should be a duck season. No duck hunter can discuss that question dispassionately.

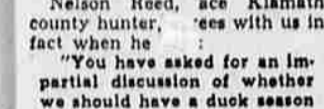

"My ancestors were run out of merry old England one jump ahead of the hangman for poaching on the King's domain. Hunting with us is elemental; it's a biological urge. If you will, it's not something you give up just because of obstacles presented by a shortage of shells, or a bunch of bureaucrats or a law even.

"Let's not get maudlin about saving the ducks for the boys in the army. We went through the last war and we didn't begrudge anybody at home his hunting. We were doing a lot of 'hunting' ourselves.

"Up there on the Mouse near Verdun after the Armistice we went on a couple of weird duck hunts, believe it or not. We borrowed an ancient muskie loader from a 'pollu' acquaintance, rustled a bag of shot and stole some powder from Uncle Sam. We sneaked down along the flooded sloughs and right there where he should have been was an old 'tongue tied' Greenhead and his noisy mate, looking as if they had just flown in from the Upper Klamath Marsh.

"And we met some other duck hunters, too. Not the 'some Sunday' kind, you can bet, for the going in the ice water was plenty tough without any rubber boots. These boys were the 'game' we had been hunting a few days before. 'Good German boys, if we may stick our necks out and say so. At least they gained our respect.

"They did not let a shortage of shells keep them from hunting, not those boys. They were armed with 'potato mashers,' those damnable German handgrenades. They would sneak up close enough to a huddle of ducks and heave one—and the destruction compared favorably with a ten gauge Magnum loaded with No. 2s. As hungry as we all were for fresh meat,

Jim Coffroth, Boxing Dean, Passes Away

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 8 (AP)—Jim Coffroth, the man who eased some of Twentieth Century boxing's early growing pains, died over the weekend.

Private funeral services for "Sunny" or "Sunshine Jim" as he was known by men from coast to coast who hailed him as the dean of American boxing promoters will be held tomorrow afternoon. He will be cremated.

Born James W. Coffroth, he acquired his nickname, old timers said, because the sun invariably shone for his championship outdoor boxing matches, the most famous of which probably was the 1903 rematch between Gentleman Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries in San Francisco. Jeffries won.

He died at his suburban Loma Portal home Saturday afternoon at the age of 70. He suffered a heart attack January 29 and had been in a grave condition since.

Whitman Wins From Portland

WALLA WALLA, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Whitman college Missionaries won their second straight game from Portland university basketball team here Saturday night, 68-42. The Whitmanites led 39-19 at the half and were never in danger as their opponents never found the range to the baskets.

We could even forgive them for ground slugging.

"So I say, Wes, you can't stop a real duck hunter from hunting ducks just because there is a shell shortage. So let's not make him simply break one more law by closing the season."

Yes, Mr. Reed hits a jackpot there. Most hunters we know are not concerned with ammunition, only an open season. They pray each night that a wild-eyed congress doesn't take that away from them. And, in the light of a war year with meat shortages, crop damage, fewer hunters and such forth, it seems only the smart thing to do—give them a chance to get those ducks and geese!

Choynski Gave Away Tons of Weight and Went in the Ring To Knock or Be Knocked Out

Joseph B. Choynski, who passed away in Cincinnati the other day, perhaps was the best little man among heavyweights in the history of the ring.

Although he never weighed more than 165 pounds when he was at his peak, Joe Choynski fought their all—large and small—for 21 years. He tossed away weight as though it were confetti.

Bob Fitzsimmons weighed no more, but Choynski did not have the advantages of Ruby Robert's freakish build.

Choynski became a legendary figure largely because of (1) his 27-round knockout by James J. Corbett on the barge of Benicia, Calif., in 1889, and (2) the feat in the serene and yellow of his career of knocking out the later to be peerless defensive fighter and world champion, Jack Johnson, in Galveston in 1901.

NEVER A DULL MOMENT

But Choynski's memory lives because he was a fearless devastating puncher who went into the ring to knock out or be knocked out.

No warrior could afford to permit Choynski to beat him to the draw. Fitzsimmons never had a more spectacular performer.

Scaling no more than 162, he held the 230-pound Jim Jeffries to a 20-round draw in San Francisco in 1897. That perhaps was his finest accomplishment, al-

Pelican Hoopmen Take Bend in Series Sweep

Klamath Wins Saturday Night, 50-29; Play Ashland This Week

Klamath's Pelican hoopmen went on a scoring bender to Bend Friday and Saturday, sweeping both games with huge scores. On Saturday night, the Pelicans came through with a 50 to 29 win, following their 50 to 29 victory Friday night.

The Klamaths started up the ladder as soon as the game opened Saturday, and by half-time had built up a 27 to 8 lead.

Coach Wayne Scott played his second team throughout the last quarter and used all 10 men against the Bears.

Bend's zone defense was weak and the Pelicans seeped through constantly to sink crumples. Young was a giant off both backboards in both games, and Klamath usually had the ball after any missed shot.

Welch and Bocchi played their usual good games, and Foster shone Saturday night.

The Pelicans, home Monday, began work-outs for a series with Ashland the coming week-end. They defeated the Grizzlies twice here and are favored to take the series.

On February 16, the Klamaths will journey to Lakeview for a second game with the Honkers.

Sports Briefs

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Barring a decision to freeze the basketball rule for the duration, the folks who stepped up the speed of the game to its present pace may get around to changing the four-fouls-and-out rule this year. . . . There's been a lot of talk about allowing five—or even three in each half—and two more voices recently added to the clamor are those of Ed Diddle, western Kentucky coach, and Dave Tobey, veteran New York official. . . . Tokey points out that the original rule allowed one personal foul in each quarter but since then the game has been changed to add from five to eight minutes of playing time, giving a player more chances to commit fouls.

Play-offs In H. S. Hoop Races Slated

KF To Play Winner of South Oregon Loop; March Dates Set

By MATT KRAMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Plans for the revitalized district high school play-offs, larger versions of the old district jousts, were taking form today as Oregon teams entered the last month of play before the title tournaments.

The play-offs, resulting from the re-zoning plan that cuts the number of state tournament entrants from 16 to 8, are scheduled for the first week in March. In effect combining the old district play-offs with the first round of the tourney at Salem, they will give towns throughout Oregon a look at a brand of basketball usually seen only in the tournament.

No longer will such tournament perennials as Astoria, Klamath Falls and Eugene have easy entry. They will have to go through stiff play-offs.

Here is the situation:

District 2—Sub-district play-offs are tentatively planned with Milton-Freewater, Hermon and Pendleton competing for the right to meet the winner of a Hood River-The Dalles series. The ultimate winner would play Prineville, which defeated Redmond, 39-35, last weekend, to win the old sub-district 3 title.

District 3—A three-game series is tentatively scheduled March 1, 3 and 5 between the winner of old district 9, and the winner in the former district 14.

District 4—An eight-team tournament is planned for Oregon City.

District 5—Astoria's Fishermen, defending state champions, who downed Salem twice last weekend, 25-21 and 26-27 to extend their string of victories to 10, strongly favored. Seaside and Tillamook of old district 10 also in the running with former district 8 teams of Amity, McMinnville, Newberg, Sheridan and Willamina.

District 6—Play-off plans unannounced, but Eugene, favored in southern part of district; Albany, favored in northern part, which includes Corvallis, Lebanon, Sweet Home and Toledo.

District 7—Triple play-off planned and perhaps will be the most closely contested of all. Madford upset Roseburg twice last weekend, 30-28 and 39-33, to move into a tie with Roseburg for second place in the old district 4. Grants Pass is a step ahead. The eventual winner will meet Klamath Falls and the winner of the old district 3 tourney, scheduled at North Bend Feb. 28 and 27. North Bend is strongly favored in this latter tourney, which includes Marshfield, Myrtle Point and Coquille.

District 8—Salom, the host team.

Husky Skiers Beat Cougars

SPOKANE, Feb. 8 (AP)—University of Washington skiers edged out a team from Washington State 1564.9 to 1845.69 in a three day ski meet on Mount Spokane officials who were unable to reach telephones because of heavy snows, closed here last night.

First places were evenly divided. For Washington Strom took the jumping event and Smith the cross-country.

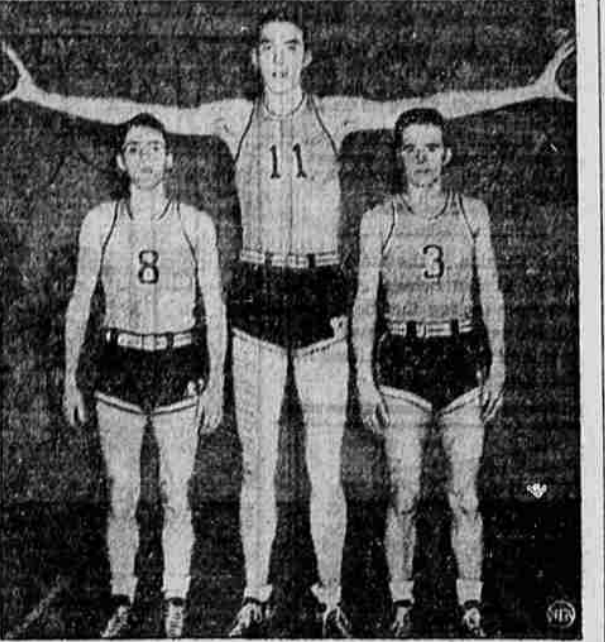

N. Lavigne won the slalom and G. Lavigne the downhill for Washington State.

Eight and three are 11, and 7-foot-11 Sid Otten is natural under basket for Bowling Green Co. university. Better on defense than offense, towering center simply bats out would-be goals. Teammates are Joe Slogforth, left, and Capt. Mike Kish.

Roosevelt's B Basketeers Hold Lead in Grade Loop

Roosevelt's B basketeers still hold their lead in the grade school loop today after week-end play.

The Teddies swamped Pelican, 22 to 5, on the high school floor Saturday. They led 16 to 3 at the half. Jerry Smith, Gary Smith and Jim Carter, all of Roosevelt, led the scoring with six points apiece.

Fremont B defeated Conger, 11 to 8, in a hardfought game. At the half, Conger had a 5 to 4 edge. Danny Darah of Fremont kept his team ahead in second half scoring, making five points. He was high point man for the game with seven points. Guyer of Conger made 4.

Roosevelt C won from Pelican C, 8 to 5. The Roosevelts had a 6 to 0 lead in the half, but in the second half the Pelicans found themselves and outscored their opponents. Dave Hamilton of Roosevelt led the scoring with six points.

Tight Race Continues In North

No Sure Guess Yet On Division Loop Winner; Vital Games This Week

Northern division standings:

WSC	W	L	Pct.	For	Agst
Washington	5	2	.715	210	281
Oregon	4	4	.500	225	267
Oregon State	4	4	.500	289	270
Idaho	1	6	.148	286	332

By The Associated Press

Indications were today that the Northern division basketball race would come right down to the stretch before the eventual winner could be predicted with any finality.

The most important series of the current season, the Washington-Washington State clashes, now is in the record books and the battling is tighter than ever.

Washington State remains on top of the heap, with only a half-game cushion between them and the challenging Huskies.

The Cougars took their Friday contest here 41-37 and Washington supporters were downcast. But Saturday the Huskies showed a startling reversal of form, winning 72-34 in a fashion which filled Cougar partisans with forboding when the thought of the next two Husky-Cougar meetings in Pullman next Friday and Saturday.

Oregon and Oregon State again are tied for third place. Oregon State, defending coast conference titleholder, kept in the race by taking two from Idaho over the weekend, 48-32 and 57-51. Oregon was idle over the weekend but meets Idaho in games tonight and Tuesday nights at Eugene. Friday and Saturday the two Oregon teams meet, the first game at Corvallis, the second at Eugene.

Fan talk throughout the conference now, however, centers on the impending Washington-Washington State series which can virtually settle the race once and for all. The Cougars had the Washington fire alarm game slowed down to a trot Friday night and Saturday night found themselves literally run off the floor.

This startling contrast in successive night's play has experts' eyes rolling wildly and few but the warmest partisans will venture any predictions.

Willamette Beats P. U.

PULLMAN, Feb. 8 (AP)—Arthur B. (Buck) Bailey, completed 17 years of service in the Washington State college athletic department Sunday when he boarded a train for the navy pre-flight training school at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Bailey, assistant football and baseball coach for the Cougars, will be commissioned a lieutenant in the navy's physical education staff.
