

PLACES LISTED FOR FUEL OIL REGISTRATION

In addition to county schools, several stores or offices will have application blanks for use in connection with fuel oil registration February 15, 16 and 17, it was stated Friday by Fred Peterson, county school superintendent.

He listed the following places: Dairy—Jones store. Hildebrand—Bliss store. Beatty—Smith store. Weyerhaeuser camp 6—Office. Yamsay—Lamm's camp office. Pelican Bay camp—Office. Chemut—Mrs. Van Hise.

Modoc Point—Lamm's office. He also announced by Arnold Chalapp, superintendent of city schools, that three elementary schools will be used for the registration of all consumers of fuel oil. They are at Roosevelt, Mills and Fremont schools.

The entire teaching staff of the elementary schools will assist the public by checking these applications which should be received by all consumers from their respective dealers. They must be filled out complete at home and taken to the schools to be checked by those in charge.

Registration dates at all city and county schools will be February 15, 16, and 17. The hours of registration at the city schools will be from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m. with limited service, using the usual rooms that have been used in the past for rationing. The entire teaching staff will give complete service to registering consumers from 3 p. m. until 8 p. m., when the doors will be closed to the public; however, all registrants inside the doors by 8 p. m. will be given service to complete their applications.

All county schools will give the same service except that their hours of registration will be from 4 p. m. until 9 p. m.

while bombing Bizerte, and was forced to land 15 miles back of allied lines on the only piece of flat ground in the area. Lieutenant Harding graduated from KUHS in 1938. On February 10 his wife, the former Margaret Horton, who is living here, received a wire stating Lieutenant Harding had been slightly wounded in action in northwest Africa January 30, verifying the other dispatches.

Lt. Harding is the son of Mrs. C. B. Harding and the late "Cart" Harding, former residents of this city. Mrs. Harding now lives in Portland. According to the young flyer's wife, he took his early training at Taft, Tulare and Mather field, all in California, and left the United States for England in mid-May of last year. He saw considerable action over German occupied Europe and late in November was sent with his outfit to Africa.

He serves as pilot on Uncle Sam's Flying Fortresses but his ship was badly damaged in a previous raid and during the period needed for repairs, Lt. Harding was serving as co-pilot on the Bizerte mission.

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 12 (CP)—Two United States cargo transport planes with a total of 13 persons aboard including servicemen and civilians, have been missing for four days in the wild north country, it was learned today. Search planes have been unable to find a trace of them.

One of the planes is missing near Wason lake, on the British Columbia-Yukon boundary and the other between Fort Nelson and Fort St. John, B. C. Three persons are aboard one of the ships and the other carried 10 passengers.

It is believed all passengers were US citizens. Next-of-kin have been notified.

CASUALTIES IN NON-ESSENTIAL INDUSTRY SEEN

It will mean rationing clothing without question, even beyond the question of the amount of material which could be spared," he told the committee, adding: "No Plans So Far"

"We had hoped this year to get by without rationing cotton or woolen clothing."

Today, Nelson summoned a press conference at which he declared, as he had last Tuesday in a joint statement with Price Administrator Prentiss Brown, that there are no present plans to ration clothing. (Supplies of wool, they said then, are several million pounds greater than when the United States entered the war.)

Check Further "I believe we are going to get by until late in the fall," Nelson told the conference. "If the manpower shortage is not as severe as it has been statistically presented, we won't have to ration at all."

The production chief said "I don't accept" an estimate he attributed to the war manpower commission that an indicated increase of 4,300,000 men in the armed forces and 1,800,000 new war workers meant that 3,200,000 workers would have to be drawn from the industries now furnishing civilian goods and services.

"I would want to check it further," he said.

His doubts as to the validity of those figures, Nelson said, were based in part upon the existence of considerable unemployment in the clothing industry in New York and other centers.

Avoid Ruins "I told the committee," Nelson said, "that I had hoped we could get by without rationing, but that if civilian production and services had to be reduced by 3,200,000 men we would have to reduce manufacture of a number of things."

"If we have runs on stores, that's a great way to bring on rationing. I hope these runs don't continue. I am informed that the runs on clothing were pretty well stopped by yesterday."

Nelson said there was no discrepancy between his remarks to the senate committee and his statement of Tuesday with Price Administrator Brown.

"If Basis His statement before the committee, he said, was entirely upon an "if" basis—in other words, that clothing rationing would be required only if the drain on the textile and other civilian industries is as great as the WMC expects.

The WPB chief reported that stocks of wool were in "excellent shape" and at a record level, that cotton supplies were abundant, that the supplies of manufactured goods were in "pretty fair shape," and that it appeared considerably more workers could be brought into the clothing and textile industries from the present pools of unemployed in New York and elsewhere.

Leave Those Stamps In Ration Books

PORTLAND, Feb. 12 (P)—No. 17 stamps that have been detached from the ration book are not acceptable for over-the-counter shoe sales, the OPA said today.

Exceptions were made for mail orders and in cases where merchants have given a stamp to a purchaser as credit for a pair of shoes returned.

a week and a half trickles in to us.

It appears today that 20 Jap destroyers dashed into the Guadalcanal beaches and took off from 1000 to 2000 Japs, chiefly officers and technical men. We pounded them from the air, sinking three and crippling four more, but they pushed on and accomplished their mission.

WE still know nothing of OUR losses. If you listen to the Tokyo radio at night, you know the Japs are peddling wild tales of vast destruction inflicted on us, hoping to prod our navy into disclosing information that will be valuable to them.

WE learn today that in their attack on our airfield at Wau in New Guinea (where they ran unexpectedly into the Australians in force) the Japs lost 1000 killed.

That's real war—even in Russia. AGAIN you mustn't jump to wrong conclusions. When tempted to think we're getting the Japs over a barrel, get out your map and COUNT THE ISLANDS they hold in the South Pacific.

Then figure out how you'd go about taking them. HERE'S a guess: From this time on the Japs will be more interested in HOLDING what they've seized than in grabbing more.

ANOTHER guess: Watch Burma. A big allied army has been assembled in India. Burma is the back door to China. And we've simply GOT to keep China going.

Young Hurr has been in Portland but returned here for a brief visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hurr of 2209 Madison street, prior to his induction. YANKS SINK 3 DESTROYERS IN SOLOMONS

The Japanese destroyers steamed on toward Guadalcanal and were believed to have evacuated 1000 officers and technical personnel under cover of pre-dawn darkness off Cape Esperance.

Estimates Vary Once again, U. S. airmen took up the assault, sinking two destroyers and damaging perhaps three or four others.

Estimates of Japanese losses in the six-month campaign continued to vary, ranging from 20,000 killed in land fighting alone to 50,000 in the whole land-sea-air action.

Originally estimated at 15,000 troops, the Japanese army on Guadalcanal was heavily reinforced, and Maj. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, who commanded the marines on the island, said in Philadelphia today that the enemy lost 30,000 men in a single landing attempt.

"In the months of campaigning," Gen. Vandegrift added, "we took only 560 prisoners." Maj. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of U. S. army troops in the South Pacific, said probably 2000 Japanese, including virtually every high officer, were evacuated from the island in the week before the Americans "blotted out" the last enemy resistance.

Japs Claim Ships Approximately 6000 Japanese were reported killed in the climactic drive since January 10. Meanwhile, imperial Tokyo headquarters made the totally unconfirmed claim that Japanese submarines had sunk six ships totaling 54,000 tons off the east coast of Australia since mid-January.

On the Burma front, British headquarters reported that Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's imperial legions, driving back into Burma from India, had thrown back a series of sharp Japanese counterattacks along the Bay of Bengal coast.

A communique said the enemy attacked in the region of Donbaik and Rathedaung, some 25 miles north of the key Japanese coastal base at Akyab.

at all for very small children. Since teething babies consume at least a small amount of meat, especially bacon, the rejected plan would have forced parents to divide their meager rations with the small children. The mechanics of coupon rationing did not seem to permit any sliding scale.

March 28 is the date that OPA is shooting at in its planning on meat. It would prefer an earlier date in the hope that rationing will equalize the current supply, which is only fair in some communities and almost non-existent in others.

bitter jungle engagements during the past 12 days, in which Australian troops were strongly supported by American airmen. Wau, site of an important advance allied airbase which the Japanese sought to capture, is approximately 35 miles southwest of Salamaua, one of the two main enemy bases in north-eastern New Guinea. Mubo, toward which the Japanese are fleeing, is only about 12 miles from Salamaua.

The beginning of the enemy retreat was disclosed yesterday when allied headquarters reported that the Japanese had been driven back six miles from Mau.

tempted in vain to penetrate into Novorossisk harbor.

The German command also indicated that the red armies were closing in around the vital Kuban bridgehead, just below the narrow, ice-covered Kerch strait which separates the Caucasus from the Crimea.

"Troops of one German panzer division in the Kuban bridgehead frustrated enemy attempts at outflanking our positions, inflicting most heavy losses on the enemy," the German communiqué said.

The thrust toward Dnieperopetrovsk, site of a $100,000,000 dam built by American engineers and subsequently destroyed by the Russians in their "scorched earth" retreat in 1941, posed a triple threat to the invaders. It:

1. Cut the main railway between Kharkov and the Crimea. 2. Drove a wedge between the two large German armies on the southern front. 3. Sharply increased the danger to the western "escape corridor" of 250,000 German troops now under virtual siege at Rostov.
