

SERIAL STORY
THE TERRIBLE EYE
 BY EDWIN RUTT

CHAPTER IX

"WELL," began Hildy, "when I got back to the maze, father was fuming. And the first thing he did was accuse me of fraternizing with itinerant photographers."
 "He did, eh?" exclaimed Jonah wrathfully. "Nobody can call me itinerant."
 "Don't take your eye off the ball, Jonah. Father went on to say that he was very displeased with me. Of course, that wasn't news."
 "Go on," said Jonah.
 "Well, one thing led to another and we had a beautiful fight. And, Jonah, my father showed himself in his true colors. He's a monster."
 "You don't say."
 "I do so. Listen! Father said that he was simply waiting for Chet to be accepted in the Air Corps. Then he's going to lead his Infantry to have Chet stationed in Iceland or Mongolia or some other gosh-awful place. And the terrible part is, father really does have influence. He's this way with a lot of the brass hats and Mr. Bigs."
 "You don't say."

Hildy was quiet a moment. On the screen Meath and the gorilla-like individual seemed to be in earnest converse. Meath was doing the talking, with the gorilla listening, he fanned himself languidly with a gray felt fedora. Once, he spat in practiced fashion. The removal of the fedora revealed a round close-cropped head.
 "Jonah," said Hildy meditatively, "I'm not going to say a word about this. But I'm going to do a little spying on friend Meath, for a change."
 Just then the figures on the screen moved. They walked off, still in deep conversation, and were lost behind the rhododendrons.
 "I'll fish around and see if we can get 'em again," said Jonah, reaching for the Terrible Eye. "She didn't finish it. But, all at once, she raised herself on tiptoe. Lips, soft and warm, brushed Jonah's. Then she was gone."
 Mr. Logan experienced a moment of sheer ecstasy. He cut a kind of dignified caper and bounded into the eavesdropping Ford.
 "Ha," he said, addressing the Ford. "Ho! Did you ever hear, you mug, that while there's life, there's hope?"

Remember this, every time our armies occupy additional territory it means we must make new adjustments and sacrifices in order to stretch our food supply to help feed the people who have been starving under axis rule. Thus each adjustment you are asked to make is one more milepost on the road to victory. — Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard.
