

Martha Shops and Shops

Studio of Beauty

LOT of women forget to bring hairpins when they come in for a hair-do, Fern Short told me the other day at the Studio of Beauty . . . The shortage of pins has made it imperative that beauty shops watch their own hairpins carefully to see that they don't walk out, you know.

So when you get your hair done, be sure to take with you the bobby pins and straight pins you'll have to wear home . . . It's important, really!

Big Basin Lbr.

IN these days of rationing and prospects of more rationing, it is pleasant to come on something the government WANTS us to buy . . . And is so anxious to have us buy it that easier terms are allowed than on just about anything else.

Home insulation is the unusual item . . . The stuff that makes it possible for you to use less fuel and be just as warm in winter.

Oil Is Rationed

So far, only fuel oil has been rationed . . . But there has been frequent mention of possible wood rationing, and it may come at any time!

If you heat your home with oil, you are going to have to get along with about 25 per cent less oil than you used a year ago . . . (With variations depending upon circumstances) . . . But if your home is not insulated, and you have a thorough insulation job done, you'll find you actually won't need all the fuel oil you can get under the rationing program.

For instance . . . If you put insulation in your ceilings, you'll save about 18 per cent on fuel . . . And if you have storm sashes put on the windows, there'll be another 20 per cent or so saved . . . And blowing insulation into the outside walls adds a little more to the savings.

Do It Yourself

The easiest way to start insulating is to put rock wool batts on the attic floor . . . A job that can be done by the home owner.

I asked Ralph Howard, the manager of Big Basin Lumber Company, how much it would cost to buy rock wool and have it put on by an expert, and he said it would be about $100 for an ordinary five-room house, using full-thick 4-inch batts . . . Or about $70 with semi-thick batts . . . If installed by home talent, it would cost lots less, of course.

These rock wool batts are interesting . . . The way the Johns Manville ones are made is by blowing the rock wool onto waterproof paper . . . Which gives a perfect, even distribution.

Storm Sashes

As for storm sashes for windows . . . Well, I have to admit I forgot to ask him the cost . . . But I suppose it varies according to the size of the windows and how many there are.

I did ask him, though, if you could ever open the window after you put on a storm sash . . . And he said that there's a ventilator which can be raised to let in fresh air . . . When it's time to put on window screens in summertime, you just take out the storm sashes.

One nice thing about insulating your home now is that it's a permanent improvement . . . You still save on fuel (and fuel costs) after the war.

If there's anything more you want to know about insulation, why don't you ask Ralph Howard yourself? . . . He's at Big Basin Lumber company, you know.

Vital Work

Do you realize that sometimes 100 dressings are used on one wound received in battle? . . . That's why the Red Cross has to have YOUR help in folding dressings . . . Klamath county never yet has made its quota of Red Cross dressings, but if you and your friends get to work we can make a decent showing.

Drop in at the Red Cross headquarters, 418 Main, any afternoon or on Tuesday or Thursday night . . . And take a clean house dress or smock to put on after you get there.

Whytal's

If you haven't seen the dickies . . . (Or false-blouses) . . . at Whytal's, you're missing a lot along that line . . . Because Whytal's has an unusually wide assortment of awfully nice ones.

There is one kind that is only $1.00, and I thought the girl was making a mistake when she quoted that price . . . They're very smart looking sharkskin . . . Tailored . . . with hi-lo convertible necklines . . . And come in all the pastel shades, besides white.

You'll find all kinds of dickies and collars at Whytal's . . . Tailored or frilly styles . . . All kinds of necklines, too . . . So there's something there for every type of suit, whether tailored, dressmaker or sports . . . And for sweaters, too.

The frilly dickies and the collars are priced at $1.00 and $1.95. . . And while I'm on the subject of such things I simply must mention the darling jersey blouses I saw at Whytal's. They have short sleeves and a new tricky neckline that is high and square . . . And won't sag down because three little buttons at the back of the neck see that the neckline is kept up where it should be.

These jerseys come in all shades, including white and solid black . . . And they'd be wonderful to wear with skirts, slacks or suits.

They're $2.50 at Whytal's.

Garcelon's

FOOD bags for left-overs are hard to find . . . But Jane Garcelon was able to get in an order for a shipment when she was in Los Angeles the last week of January . . . And even so, when they arrived here she had a very pleasant surprise.

Food bags for a long time, you know, have come equipped with zippers . . . But when Jane ordered these, the manufacturer's representative told her that no more zippers were available and these food bags would have draw strings in them.

So imagine her excitement when she opened the crate and found that all of them had zippers! . . . She thinks the manufacturer must have had a reserve supply of zippers and, since she ordered early, was able to send up zippered ones.

These food bags are made of waterproofed silk . . . which does not tear so easily as oiled silk . . . They're entirely sanitary, because you can wash them . . . And they're wonderfully handy when you want to keep left-overs fresh.

All of them are 12 x 12 inches in size and cost $1.25 . . . At Garcelon's.

Currin's

SOMETHING entirely new has arrived at Currin's . . . It's a large puff that fits over your hand and is filled with lightly scented deodorant powder so you can pat it or slap it on where needed.

It's called a "Spree Puff"—a Special Product for a Special Purpose . . . And the powder is an anti-perspirant that really stops perspiration.

Here's an easy, sure way to avoid perspiration odor . . . It's a quick way, too, because you just have to pat with the puff and that particular portion of your skin is covered with the fine powder.

It's fine for tired feet, too . . . And for chafed areas. The "Spree Puff" is entirely harmless to the most delicate skin and has no effect on dainty fabrics, so when you use it you shouldn't have a worry in the world.

The "Spree Puff" is $1.25 at Currin's.

SHIP BUILDING CZAR FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—

A house naval subcommittee reported today that the American shipbuilding industry, "almost criminally neglected" after the first World war, could produce up to 20,000,000 tons of shipping this year if what it described as "undue and unnecessary" delays are corrected.

The committee, reporting on an investigation made last December of west coast shipyards working on naval contracts, urged that an "over-all shipbuilding supervisor" be placed on the Pacific coast and that field representatives be given more authority to straighten out allocation and priority snarls.

Absenteeism

The committee, consisting of Rep. Magnuson (D-Wash.), chairman, and Rep. Anderson (D-Calif.) reported finding "considerable confusion as to the authority and discretion allowed navy supervisors of shipbuilding in the field, particularly with respect to authority in the supervisors to permit substitutions for specified materials presently unavailable."

Other Findings

Other findings—"on a nationwide basis"—included: 1. Manhours lost because of absenteeism totaled 12,700,000 in December alone, compared with 170,000 manhours lost as a result of shipyard strikes during the entire year of 1942.

2. Strikes in other industries making materials for shipyards resulted in a lag "far behind schedule."

3. Although selective service hasn't crippled the industry, it has caused much unrest among workmen "due to their uncertainty" regarding draft board policies.

4. At least 15 per cent of total shipyard employment will consist of women by the end of February.

5. All standing closed-shop agreements with recognized labor organizations should be frozen for the duration.

6. Criticism of cost-plus contracts were "for the most part unfounded and due to misconception."

HOUSE CASTS TIE VOTE ON SCHOOL BILL

By PAUL W. HARVEY JR.

SALEM, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Oregon house of representatives leaped a major hurdle today when it voted 30 to 30 against increasing from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 the amount of surplus income tax revenues that could be given in any one year to school districts to reduce property taxes.

The tie vote was on a motion to send a bill back to committee to increase the amount to $5,000,000.

The measure, as well as two companion bills, amends the initiative passed by the voters at the general election last November.

Provisions

The three bills will be taken up in the house late today, when they probably will be passed and sent to the senate.

The bills provide that not more than $4,000,000 be given school districts on any one year, this provision reducing Oregon's $38,500,000 annual property tax total by more than 10 per cent. School interests, backed by Governor Snell, wanted the total boosted to $5,000,000, and it was on this issue that the motion to send it back to committee was made.

People May Vote

Governor Snell estimated that about $9,000,000 in surplus revenues would be available for the reserve fund that would be used after the war. This amount does not include the $4,000,000 that would be given school districts this year.

Chairman Giles L. French, Moro, of the taxation and revenue committee, said the committee is drafting a bill to let the people vote in November, 1944, on a proposal to create a permanent reserve fund to make the state contribute a good share of the cost of school operation.

About 70 workers are affected.

Both houses of the legislature have voted to abolish the commission.

With only seven days remaining before the March 1 deadline there are still more than 2000 dog licenses to be sold.

According to County Clerk Mae K. Short, county residents have responded much more promptly than those inside the city limits.

She urges that licenses be purchased immediately, since there will be inadequate help to take care of a last minute rush. The office will be closed Monday, February 22, and will close at 1 p. m. Saturday, February 27, which will be the last day. After March 1, a penalty will be imposed, making licenses cost $2.50 and $3.50.
