Garcelon's

THE Blue Camilla pattern of Spode that Pat Livingston has always been so crazy about, has arrived at Garcelon's finally . . . I mean the new shipment . . . She saw it yesterday and dashed back here to tell me about it . . . (I suppose you know that Pat is now the photographer and engraver for The Herald and News).

Anyway, I trotted down to Garcelon's to see for myself, because I wasn't quite sure which Spode pattern the Blue Camilla is.

Well, it's that beautiful blue-and-white one with the graceful, natural English flowers . . . One of Spode's outstanding designs from the early 1800's . . . And the kind of design that will go perfectly and correctly with any style of furnishings or table ware.

Garcelon's has complete 20-piece sets in this new shipment of the Blue Camilla and they cost $20.00.

And you'll also find complete sets of all the popular Spode patterns . . . At Garcelon's.

Cute or colorful styles of costume jewelry are expected to become more and more popular . . . Because so many women in industry will be tired of unattractive, plain day-time work clothes and will want to "touch up" their other clothes.

The Town Shop

LARGE number of gals will go without hats . . . And do . . . But the feminine yearning for a bit of fluff remains . . . Which is the reason, I think, for little hair bows on the hair of lots of gals now.

The Town Shop, as you may have noticed, has darling velvet bows that come on combs so you don't have the bother or trouble of tying them . . . There are two sizes, 75c and $1.00 . . . And they are the kind you can wear in the daytime or for evening.

If you want to keep your ears warm or keep the wind from missing your hair, a scarf is the thing, of course . . . And you should see the ones at The Town Shop.

There are triangular challis scarves with wool fringe for $1.29 . . . Challis squares for 89c . . . Exquisite hand painted challis triangles with wool fringe for $1.75 . . . Printed silk jersey squares, with silk fringe, at $2.98 . . . Printed silk jersey wrap-arounds at $1.98.

In fact, as you can see, you can get head scarves at just about any price . . . At The Town Shop.

Dress Styles

MANUFACTURERS of dress materials have been cut down tremendously, you know, on how much they can produce . . . So they are concentrating on the materials for which there is more thread and on colors that showed up last year as the most popular.

The manufacturers know that retail stores simply have to have things that will appeal to customers . . . And they are doing their best despite all the limits placed on production.

One of the advantages of Spring coming up and Summer just ahead is in the matter of color . . . Manufacturers are rationed on the amount of dyes they can use, so they are not encouraging American women to wear navy blue, for instance, for street wear . . . They'll mix the navy with white, in checks or plaids, and the winter dye that is saved will be used the next Fall and Winter.

Cottons are going to be more popular than ever this Spring and Summer . . . Partly because there will be more available in the stores and partly because they will be put out in the most attractive colors and designs . . . And in the latest styles we've ever seen.

You can see what I mean in the Klamath Falls stores right now . . . And more so, later.

South American colors have swept the United States not so much because we're trying to put over the "good neighbor" idea, but because we like the colors . . . Walt Disney artists discovered the same thing when traveling in South America to make sketches for the new Disney cartoon "Saludos Amigos" . . . They actually fell in love with the colors, they reported back to Hollywood.

Currin's

If you were one of those who tried to get Tussy leg make-up at Currin's last year and found the stock was completely sold out, here's your chance . . . Because a new shipment, the first this year, has just arrived.

And I have a suspicion that starting about now an awfully lot of us are going to color our legs instead of trying to get stockings like . . . (Or maybe I should say just "trying to GET stockings")

Tussy has two kinds . . . Leg-a-See is a liquid stain that you put on your legs with a piece of dampened cotton . . . One application gives the illusion of sheer hose . . . And in the Summer-time you can use it on your face, arms and back for a sun-tan by putting on a couple of applications.

Tussy Leg-a-See won't stain your clothes and won't rain spot . . . But will come off with soap and warm water . . . It's 50c for a 6-ounce bottle.

Tussy Show-Off is a creamy liquid that you put on with your hands . . . I would say it is better protection for very dry skin but probably won't last quite so long as the other . . . And it costs 75c for an 8-ounce bottle.

I think, if you are wise, you won't wait too long before buying leg make-up . . . I read several months ago that the production had been curtailed . . . And, anyway, the weather is getting around to cosmetic stocking warmth . . . (Although, believe it or not, leg make-up actually is protection against cold!)

Tussy products, as you know probably, are sold at Currin's.

Accomplished in many of the arts she was adept at painting china, doing her last work when she was about 80. Her hand-painted quilts were marvels of handwork and death ended her plans for completing one for each of her grandchildren and her great-granddaughter, Edith, of San Francisco. One partly finished was to have been given to a grandson, Glenn A. Thomas of Klamath Falls.

Endowed with a strong constitution, she looked forward to canning time each fall and at her advanced age added to the family's stock of preserves.

A lover of animals, one of her last requests was for the safe keeping of a small blue mated kitten given her for Christmas last year.

She will be laid to rest, following funeral services in Klamath Falls, in the Thomas family plot at Santa Rosa.

New Pine Creek

There will be a regular meeting of the East Side grange this Friday evening at 8 o'clock. In addition, there will be a program dedicating a service flag for the boys who are fighting and training to fight. A large turnout is expected. Mrs. Mary Snider, who is in charge of the making of the flag, has been working assiduously to get all the stars sewn in and the flag ready for the occasion. Mrs. Corda Perry, lecturer, and Mrs. Thelma Butler are in charge of the program.

The 4-H sewing club met last Saturday afternoon at the home of Arlene Tuxhorn.

The Needle club met last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thelma Butler. Red Cross sewing, including pajamas, was distributed among the members.

The Home Economics club was to have met with Mrs. Annie Gallagher on Thursday afternoon.

The Pinochle club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Bessie F. Woods last Thursday afternoon. Those present were Mrs. Alvin Butler, Mrs. Les Bernard, Mrs. Frank C. Alexander, Mrs. Coleman George, Mrs. Garland Cundiff, Mrs. Kellon Butler, Mrs. Richard M. Keller, Mrs. Joe A. Smith, Mrs. Irvin L. Faris and Mrs. Arlie V. Reid.

Whytal's

WHOLE new shipment of jersey prints has arrived at Whytal's . . . Similar to the stock that came in a month or so ago, but lovelier in some cases . . . The first bunch didn't stay in the store long and I know these won't.

There are all colors and prints . . . And a good selection of those flowered ones that have a border of big flowers at the bottom of the skirt . . . The ones I'm especially taken with.

These new jersey prints come in sizes 12 to 44 and also in half sizes . . . And cost $8.95 and $12.95.

While you're at Whytal's you really should look at the little 2-piece numbers in washable materials . . . In the Margy Paige line.

There are 2-piece French gingham that are darling . . . Checks of brown and white, green and white, red and white, etc.

The 2-piece checked plaid dresses I know you'll fall in love with too . . . And the 2-piece seersuckers in light plaids.

All of these 2-piece washables are $7.95 . . . Except a few of the seersuckers that are $4.95 . . . And the sizes are 11 to 17 . . . At Whytal's.

There probably will be more interchange of styles among the United Nations from now on . . . It is reported from Montevideo, Uruguay, for instance, that American models are much preferred by high society there . . . And that, of course, is just the beginning . . . And look at the way we have taken to South American styles and colors.

Many of the newest handbags are using unusual closing methods . . . Like crossed or looped handles . . . Because of the shortage of metals for clasps.

MRS. WIRES' DEATH SADDENS COMMUNITIES

MALIN—Residents of the south end communities are saddened by the death, March 1, at Klamath Falls of Mrs. Eliza Jane Delarue Wires, 94, mother of Mrs. Maud Thomas, Malin postmaster, with whom Mrs. Wires had made her home for many years. Few here knew her as Eliza Jane, the name "Downey" having been given her a long time ago by a baby granddaughter, now Mrs. Edythe Thomas Rigor of San Francisco.

All knew her, however, as a thoughtful, kindly neighbor, an inspiration to all with whom she came in contact.

She was born on a farm in Guernsey county, Ohio, daughter of John Peter and Susan Greer Delarue, one family of a group of immigrants from the Island of Guernsey who settled in Cambridge before Ohio became a state. This was about 1800.

When she was two years of age the family moved to Wisconsin and later years found her again in Ohio.

Following her marriage to Thomas Stewart Wires, January 25, 1865, they moved to the plains country in Kansas. Still later she moved west, claiming New Mexico, California, Washington and finally, 25 years ago, Malin as her home.

Accomplished in many of the arts she was adept at painting china, doing her last work when she was about 80. Her hand-painted quilts were marvels of handwork and death ended her plans for completing one for each of her grandchildren and her great-granddaughter, Edith, of San Francisco. One partly finished was to have been given to a grandson, Glenn A. Thomas of Klamath Falls.

Endowed with a strong constitution, she looked forward to canning time each fall and at her advanced age added to the family's stock of preserves.

Members of the Growers association is at present not large enough to promote such an undertaking, which would involve approximately $10,000 in cash, and the cooperation of every farmer in the Tulelake area is sought.

In event local farmers decide against the importation of Mexican labor, it is still possible to apply for help among the Navajo Indians. About 85 were sent here last year to aid in the potato harvest and almost without exception proved capable and energetic.

Cooperation of the Farm Center in the undertaking was pledged by Albert Larsen, chairman.

Otto A. Schultz announced that telegrams relating to the urgent need for fertilizer here have been sent to U. S. senators and representatives of California and Oregon and Secretary Wickard. Replies have given no assurance that it will be available.

Lester Vernon, J. C. Decker and L. W. Hartley were appointed to seek cooperation of local card room proprietors in restricting hours that the establishments are open during the harvest season next fall, in an effort to curb absence of foreign labor from field work.

Mrs. M. V. Maxwell, chairman of the membership and war fund Red Cross drive in the Tulelake area of Modoc county, appealed for generous help. She will be assisted by Mrs. Marvin Thomas, Mrs. D. M. Crawford, Mrs. Chester Main, Mrs. Sam Anderson, Mrs. Roy Easley, Mrs. Lester Vernon, Mrs. Howard Dayton and Mrs. Ted Johnson.

The largely attended meeting followed a potluck supper.

The plans apply to the California side of the state line only, Main said.

Cooperation of Farmers In Tulelake Asked on Mexican Labor Question

TULELAKE—Informed by the U. S. government that Mexican labor will be available for fall harvesting of 1943 crops in this area provided that some local agricultural organization assume responsibility for moving a necessary number here. Chester L. Main, president of the Tulelake Growers, addressing the Tulelake-Modoc Farm Center here this week, put the responsibility for the proposed venture squarely on the shoulders of all farmers in the basin, regardless of potato growing status.

Main stated that the federal government is asking $5 per head to help in transportation charges and that 2000 workers would be available for the fall harvest. If needed, 150 could be brought in for summer help.

If farmers decide that Mexican help is needed or wanted, three months time must be given to complete negotiations with the Mexican government. A minimum of 30 cents per hour must be guaranteed.

While farmers, if suitable living quarters are available, might take laborers to individual farms, it is hoped that the farm security administration will be able to make arrangements for housing those brought in.

The plans apply to the California side of the state line only, Main said.
