Today's Roundup By MALCOLM EPLEY

There is reason for concern in the smug way some folks are talking about the ease with which Klamath county's $30,600 Red Cross war fund quota is going to be raised.

We would do well to raise the fund first and talk about our generosity and humane feelings afterwards.

The quota is a large one and it is going to take a lot of giving to make it. And why not go far over the quota, or even double it?

Here's something that calls for a contribution from every earning individual in the Midland Empire. But there are a lot of people who, if they get the idea other people will give enough to make a quota, will hold back and see if it doesn't work out that way.

A Privilege CONTRIBUTING to the Red Cross is a privilege that has been saved for the American people in a time when the government is doing just about everything.

The Red Cross occupies the unique status of being responsible to the government, and yet not supported by it.

Collection and preparation of blood plasma is a new job, representing the most important medical development this war has produced.

The Red Cross has taken over an unprecedented responsibility in the personal welfare and recreation of service men, helping them fight the enemies of boredom and homesickness.

An appreciated service of the Red Cross is performed in checking-up home conditions for service men worrying about their families.

In local chapters of the Red Cross, 520,000,000 surgical dressings have been produced, at the rate of about 500,000 an hour.

Incidentally, we should stress that matter of giving quickly. Collecting $30,600 takes a lot of work, and the volunteers who are handling the job here are busy people, even as you and I.

No Surplus Worries A CORRESPONDENT writes us that he has been criticized because he is preparing to put in a victory garden.

This strange situation, he says, is based on a theory that he ought to buy his vegetables from poor neighbors who are going to have gardens.

No one need worry about a surplus. The thing to worry about is that the food demands for the people in this country will be so great that we will have difficulty in meeting our obligations to the men who are doing our fighting and to our allies.

Advertising Roundup By DELBERT ADDISON

The advertising for War Bond sales has been taken out of the hitch hiking classification in New York City. Up to now the treasury department has depended on the advertising run by newspapers themselves and on ads picked up by the thumb waging method (such as Klamath Furniture's ad of a week ago.)

Now, with the approval of the treasury department, an independent board has been set up in Manhattan to sell and coordinate a continuous advertising program. The expenses of this group have been underwritten by the eight daily papers in the district until it becomes self-sustaining.

This program becomes something of a test case, and if successful, will undoubtedly be adopted in many communities. In this "New York Plan" the working group, while not a part of the War Savings committee, works closely with it.

The important point is that it takes bond sale advertising out of the hit and miss status and puts it on a consistent year-around basis.

Planned Pre-Selling Here THE plan is not entirely new, but it is the first one actually put into operation on such a large scale.

The Klamath Chapter of the Red Cross has done about the same thing here to prepare for its drive next week. Through the work of Mrs. Rose Poole, publicity chairman, an ad has appeared each day for the past week dramatizing the need for Red Cross funds.

Your Voice on Public Projects THESE ads were paid for by business people, whose names appeared at the bottom of the ads. They believed that this money spent for advertising would be more effective for the drive, or could be more easily given, than their time spent in beating the bushes for individual contributions.

You are constantly reminded to write your congressman... to tell him your likes and dislikes on his actions. The business men running these ads are taking part in a program of a definite public nature. They would undoubtedly like your comments also.

Newsprint Restrictions INCIDENTALLY, New York newspapers have given priority to this war bond advertising. They already are rationing advertising.

Another Portland Dairy Owner Gives Up Large Herd PORTLAND, March 6 (AP)—Another Portland dairy owner announced today that he is going to sell his dairy herd.

Ready for Paper Restrictions NEWSPAPERS, of course, will be glad to comply with any further restrictions necessary to the war effort. They are ready and willing and already have made plans to operate under such conditions.

When the little clique of newspaper-haters in Washington started the move to restrict newsprint by half, constructive steps were taken to clarify the situation. This resulted in the Canadian survey which showed that stocks were adequate for continuation on the present basis.

OREGON RANCH MAN TO STAND MURDER TRIAL

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 6 (AP)—A 66-year-old Oregon rancher, Walter Duncan, must stand trial on charges of killing his hired hand, Russell (Buck) Cone, after his wife divorced him with the expectation of marrying Cone who, it developed, already had a wife.

This was ordered by Peace Justice Paul O'Malley after Duncan's preliminary hearing, at which Coroner Jack Larry testified the rancher told him he shot Cone after Cone attempted to beat him.

Duncan testified Cone fell in love with Mrs. Duncan in Oregon, that the three came here for divorces but that after Mrs. Duncan divorced the rancher, Cone took no steps to dissolve his marriage.

Pending her divorce, Mrs. Duncan stayed at a tourist hotel with the two men, with Duncan posing as his 36-year-old wife's father-in-law, Larry testified.

FUTURE FARMERS HONOR V. KRUML

MALIN—Vincent Kruml took first honors this year for the Future Farmers of America, Malin chapter in the elimination contest held recently and this week appeared before the Tulelake Rotary club where he repeated his well prepared and well delivered address, "Food for Freedom." Second honors went to Lee Petrusek and third place to John Loosley.

The three winning contestants were presented with cash prizes by the Merrill branch, First National Bank of Portland by A. E. Street, FFA advisor acting for Uel Dillard, manager of the Merrill bank. Prizes were five, three and two dollars respectively.

Appearing with Kruml as guests of the Rotary club was the parliamentary team, Lee Petrusek, president; Merle Woodley, vice president; Norman Jacobs, secretary; Charles Duncan, treasurer; Kenneth Duncan, reporter and A. E. Street, advisor.

There will be no district public speaking contest to be held at Grants Pass this year. Winner of the interdistrict contest between Henley-Bonanza, Lakeview and Malin on March 12 at Henley will go directly to Portland for the state meet.

The state convention this spring at Corvallis will also be streamlined with no competition in farm activities as in other years.

Another Portland Dairy Owner Gives Up Large Herd PORTLAND, March 6 (AP)—Another Portland dairy owner announced today that he is going to sell his dairy herd.

Rudolph Luscher, manager of the J. Luscher & Son Fairview Holstein farm near Blue Lake park, said he would put 100 or more registered cows on the auction block in May.

He said the shortage of dairy workers made the move necessary.

A dairyman has help for about three or four days and then the worker decides to try working in the shipyards or some other war industry," Luscher asserted.

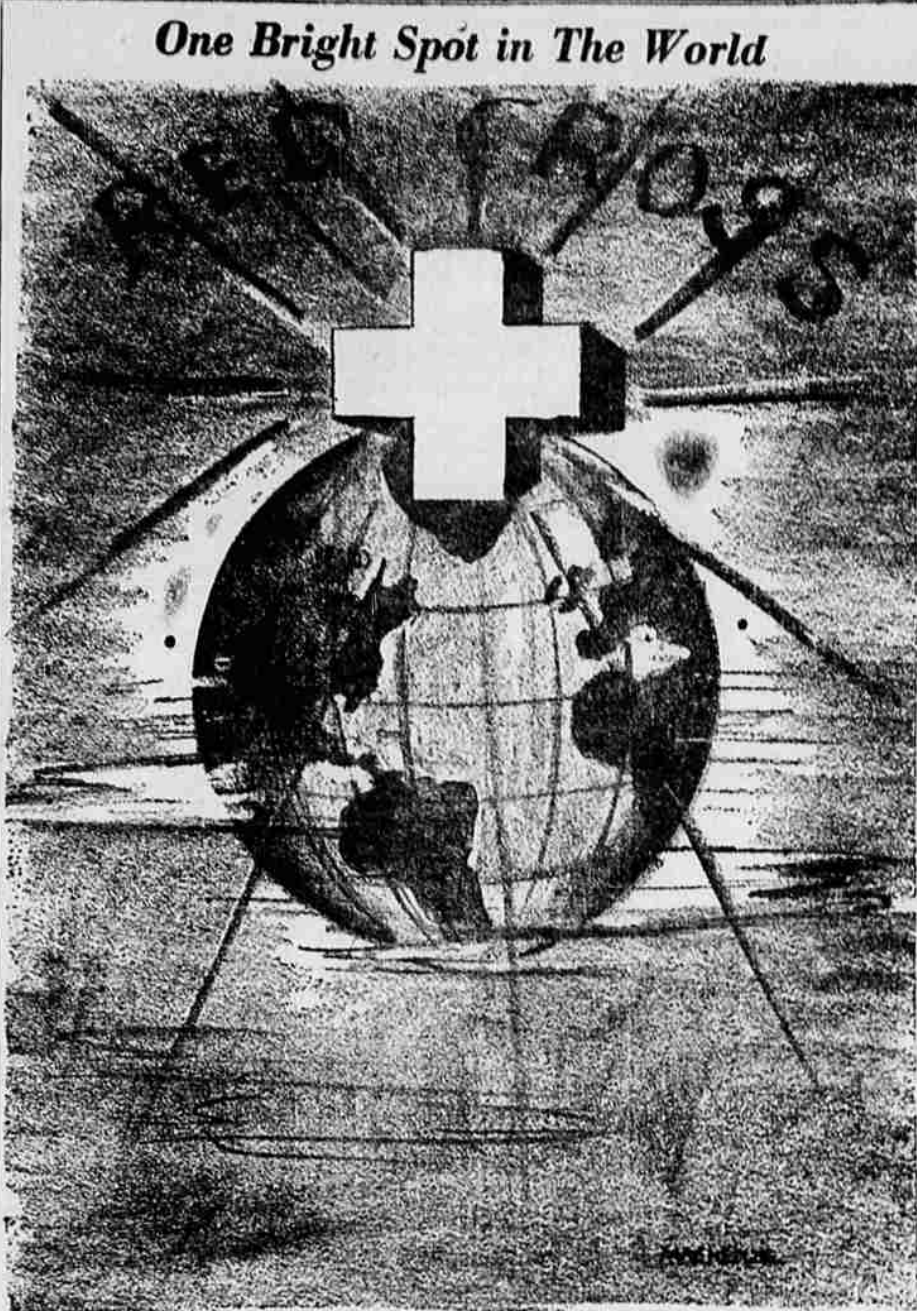

He said he was forced to work 20 hours daily recently when his partner and head milker were ill, and that 100 tons of beets and 10 acres of corn feed were lost last fall because of the labor shortage.

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP) Max Stephan, Detroit restaurant owner convicted of treason against the United States, asked the supreme court today to set aside his death sentence.

He was charged with harboring a German aviator, Peter Krug, in his flight from a Canadian prison camp.

The supreme court petition asserted that "all of the overt acts alleged in the indictment were acts of aid to an individual that do not constitute acts of treason."

"A verdict should have been directed of not guilty on the motion of defendant for failure to prove aid and comfort to an enemy of the United States," the petition added.

Tax Commission Change Is Dead As a Dodo Bird

SALEM, March 6 (AP)—Governor Earl Snell's bill to abolish the state tax commission and to substitute a single tax commissioner to be appointed by Snell was as dead as a dodo bird today, the house having killed it 32 to 27.

Rep. A. Rennie, Corvallis, chairman of the house administration and reorganization committee, which had recommended defeat of the bill, said the bill wouldn't save any money, and that the present tax commission has done a good job.

Henley High Seniors Give Up Annual Skip Day

HENLEY—Seniors of Henley high school voted unanimously to give up their traditional skip day this year in order to save valuable time and gasoline. In past years it has been the practice to take one school day for a trip and picnic in celebration of the last year in school.

In addition to this saving, the seniors have abandoned the plan of publishing a school annual which would require the use of metal, paper and money which could go for war purposes. In place of the annual, the Camera club is making a photographic scrap book to leave in the library as a permanent record of the year 1942-1943.

Ashland Man Has Something To Worry About

MEDFORD, March 5 (AP)—Deliberating only 10 minutes, a circuit court jury today convicted Kay Kermit Mansfield, 33, Ashland, of assault and robbery. Judge H. K. Hanna will pass sentence Monday.

Mansfield, who had six lawyers and the same number of continuances since indicted by a grand jury last fall, was convicted of entering the home of Mrs. Virginia Witter, Medford, and slugging her in the face, dislodging three teeth.

Three other counts in the indictment against Mansfield charging entrance into Medford and Ashland homes and the shooting of an Ashland resident in the leg when discovered, are pending.

BUTTER FOR ALASKA SPOILS ON BEACHES

SEATTLE, March 6 (AP)—Business men returning from Alaska were quoted by the Post-Intelligencer today as relating how a large portion of 350 tons of butter shipped to the territory and landed on a far northern beach had spoiled because of a lack of storage space.

The butter, packed in brine to make it keep indefinitely, was lost when the brine froze because of the lack of "warm" storage space, the business men were quoted as saying. Seventy tons of canned pears likewise were reported to have been lost for the same reason.

A high ranking federal official, who was not identified, was quoted as defending the shipment as a precaution to provide food for the territory even "if our shipping should be cut off for a year or more by war developments."

The official was quoted as saying he knew the Alaskans were making a "joke" of the incident.

Lakeview BPW Club Orders Pulmotor

LAKEVIEW, Ore., (Special)—It was announced at the regular meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club of Lakeview Monday evening that an order already has been placed for the purchase of a pulmotor for Lakeview and environs. The club has been and is sponsoring various activities to raise the balance of the necessary funds.

Special thanks is offered the local Elks club for their generous response to a program presented by the BPW in January. The club also takes this opportunity to thank the local American Federation of Labor for their unsolicited contribution of the entire proceeds from a dance given in February.

SALARY UPPEP SALEM, March 6 (AP)—The senate sent to the governor yesterday a bill to increase the salary of the state supreme court clerk from $3000 to $3600 a year and the deputy clerk from $1800 to $2100.

Let Him Return With His Shield

The Spartan mothers sent their sons to battle with the admonition, "Return with your shield or on it." But War and Mothers, like Time, have changed. Today they say, "Return WITH your shield," and build up such great organizations as the Red Cross to help do it.

Let's all give double this year to the "greatest mother in the world." The most valuable gift you can leave your children is their mothers' time. This can be properly planned.
