SPEAKING FOR YOUR STANDARD SERVICE MEN AND WOMEN

How often should you change oil?

Standard engineers believe that "change oil every 1000 miles" is still the best advice to follow. They've warned us, though, against fudging up to 1500 miles between changes. Oil dilution is going to be more severe with cold engines and short trips.

How to see in the dark

A good trick when driving at night, especially in dim-out areas, is to keep your dashboard lights off except when you check your instruments. It helps your eyes get used to the dark. Your Standard Service Man or Woman is glad to do the equally important work of keeping your windshield and headlights clean.
