

KAISER ASKS CONGRESS TO END DISPUTES

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser asked congress today to put an end to jurisdictional disputes between unions. He said they undermine worker morale and slow down production.

The shipbuilder suggested to a senate war investigating committee that maintenance of union membership be frozen for the duration at plants having either AFL or CIO contracts, preventing either union raising the membership of the other.

The west coast industrialist reiterated his own advocacy of unionism and his belief that good labor leadership has been a factor in his own production, and asserted "I believe when congress stops jurisdictional squabbles, it will be better."

Kaiser referred to what he said were efforts by CIO unions to replace the AFL as the collective bargaining agency for workers at his Oregon shipyard.

The struggle for control there, he said, involves nearly 100,000 men now paying the AFL an average of $2.50 a month in dues. He added:

"I know it isn't good for worker morale to have campaigns going on in the yard as to which union should control."

BALDOCK OPPOSES CITY ROAD MONEY

SALEM, March 9 (AP)—Passage of a bill to give cities 5 per cent of highway revenues would materially handicap the state highway commission in matching federal money for a proposed post-war highway program, R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer, told the senate roads and highways committee.

Baldock, just returned from appearing before congressional road committees in Washington, D. C., as a member of the executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials, said the congressional committees appear favorable to a post-war program allocating one billion dollars a year to highways during the first three years after the war.

Pointing out losses from gasoline revenues, Baldock said the highway commission would have a very limited amount of money to match federal funds. He said that for each $1,000,000 deficit in match money, there would be a loss of $4,500,000 in federal funds.

Cities would share, however, in the federal funds, Baldock said, as the bill probably would give a major portion of the money for spending in eliminating traffic congestion through cities.

The committee recommended 5 to 4 that the diversion bill be passed by the senate. It already has passed the house.

OPA TARGET FOR CAL LEGISLATURE

SACRAMENTO, March 9 (AP)—Resentment against bureaucrats in Washington neared boiling in the California legislature today with conferences and plans openly pointing toward insurrection.

After a "complaint session" in which the office of price administration was the principal target, the assembly agriculture committee voted to question Governor Warren on his attitude toward open rebellion against OPA price rulings and state action to take farm and price problems back into state control; to confer with Attorney General Robert W. Kenny on possible legal action in opposition to federal rulings, and to meet with Warren, Kenny and a delegation of southern California dairymen here Friday on proposed state action to save the southern California dairy industry from destruction.

On the senate side, the special fact-finding committee on farm and industrial problems, headed by Sen. George Hatfield (R.), announced public hearings tomorrow and Thursday preparatory to completion of a proposal to take farm labor recruiting and allocation into state control.

Warren has not indicated his specific program for meeting the farm labor and food distribution problems, but he told a press conference he believed the state should undertake independent action to meet the manpower shortages on the farms and that action must be taken immediately.

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The war production board yesterday halted all manufacture of new domestic electric ranges.

Since May 31, some electric ranges have been produced on high priority ratings for military and defense housing requirements. This production now is prohibited.

WPB also tightened its control over transfers of new domestic electric ranges. Transfers from the remaining stocks of manufacturers and distributors will require clearance through WPB, instead of military orders or preference ratings.

OPA today released the following answers covering a number of questions asked by housewives on the processed foods rationing program:

Q. My baby is on a diet which requires more canned baby food than I can buy with my present ration allowance. How can I get more?

A. You can get an additional allowance of rationed baby food by presenting to your local war price and ration board a statement signed by a licensed physician stating why present allowances are insufficient for the child's diet, how much more processed foods he needs, and why fresh and unrationed foods cannot be used to supplement the ration.

Q. How can a consumer who lives a long distance from a shopping center obtain ration stamps for buying foods in quantity for longer periods?

A. Anyone who lives a long distance from a shopping center or because of transportation difficulties cannot arrange to shop during each ration period, may obtain a purchase certificate from his local board allowing

Q. Are dried parsley and dried onion flakes rationed?

A. No, the only dried vegetables rationed are peas, beans and lentils.

Q. How can a blind person living alone get an extra allowance of rationed canned food?

We know that the lot for us at home is pretty soft compared to yours. You're dish-ing it out to the Jap and the Kraut... fighting it out in the jungle, on the glacier, on the sea and in the air.

At times we're inclined to grumble over restrictions and taxes, but we don't mean it. We're glad to do our bit.

Since you left, a lot more deductions have crept into the payroll, but we're happy to tell you that each of us has just donated a half day's pay to the Red Cross.

If any of you need Red Cross help, and many of you may, we just want you to know that it's provided for. We, at least, can take care of that. The gang raised $146 and the company came through with $200. This $346 may not sound like much, but we hope it'll take care of your needs for another year.

You also may be sure that the joint will be running when you come back... and your old jobs will be open. Come rationing and restrictions, we'll keep her up the way you'd want us to.
