CEREMONIES MARK EAGLES HALL OPENING

Impressive ceremonies marked the formal opening Sunday of the new home of the Klamath aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, located in the former Scandia hall at Ninth and Walnut streets.

Described as an important milestone in the history of the local aerie, the dedication services included addresses by Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg of Klamath Falls and Aaron Reese, northwest representative of the Eagles.

Sixty-three candidates were initiated at the closed lodge session Sunday afternoon. Most of them are Klamath men, but Bend and Medford neophytes also became Eagles on this occasion.

After the business sessions, 500 were served turkey dinner in the dining room of the new quarters. The auxiliary had charge of this part of the program.

Closing the evening, the Shepherd orchestra played for a large dance. On Saturday night, a similar dance was held, with 1500 present.

Judge Vandenberg gave a history of the local aerie and discussed the importance of the new home in the lodge affairs.

Reese told of the patriotic activities of the order. He said that organization purchases of war bonds have totaled $6,800,000, while members of the Eagles lodges have bought $110 million in bonds. Some 68,200 Eagles carry military service cards, and 400,000 members are in military service or direct defense work.

A feature of the dedication ceremonies was a bond sale auction, with Jack Benner, local man now in the armed services, as auctioneer. Captain Jack the rooster, was sold on this occasion, and in 10 minutes $2150 in bonds were sold.

Another important event of the local Eagles lodge comes Tuesday night when Lester H. Loble, Helena, Mont., will sit the aerie. In charge of the ceremony are President M. L.

and the electro development laboratory which the congress appropriated $500,000 to erect. "That would be helpful too, senator," Sayers said.

Speed Needed to Develop Aluminum Clay Process Before Bauxite Runs Out

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Something has to be done quickly to develop the clay process for obtaining aluminum before present bauxite supplies run out, Senator Holman (R-Ore.) declared, charging "they haven't moved a muscle" to establish a testing laboratory he believes necessary.

"We will not win this war if we do not take advantage of every possibility and every resource we have," he asserted at a deficiency appropriation bill hearing of a senate committee of which he is a member.

The bureau of mines introduced a request at the hearing for $2,500,000 for research of aluminum sources at the urging of Holman and Senator Nye (R-N.D.) although that amount had not been asked for when the house was considering the bill.

"We are trying to get a laboratory in connection with the cheap Bonneville power," Holman protested, "and the thing being played around with politically like trying to appoint a collector of customs for the port of New York. The appropriation was made at the instance of a bill introduced by Senator Wallgren (D-Wash.), and which passed congress, appropriating $500,000. But they haven't moved a muscle, haven't done a thing."

The known reserve in the United States of bauxite ore from which aluminum is made will run out in two or three years, Dr. R. R. Sayers, director, bureau of mines, testified before the committee. A small proportion is being imported from South America, but domestic deposits must be found to relieve the navy of conveying the ore, he said.

Alumite, another source of aluminum, found chiefly in Utah and some in Washington, is also limited, Sayers continued.

"We do need to use alumina clays which are our real reserve for the future," he asserted. "We don't know how long the war is going to last. But we should be very short-sighted if we don't go on and find where our resources are, and so treat them that we can be self-sufficient."

"We should be developing the clay process," Holman said, "in the few days of grace left while we are using the available and existing stocks of bauxite. You do not yet know the best methods for treating alumina clays, did I understand that correctly?" "That is correct," answered Sayers.

"That would then justify the construction and immediate oper-

Pennell, Gertson Planer, Resaw Mill Destroyed by Fire

Damage of about $30,000 is estimated as the result of a fire which destroyed the planer and resaw at the Pennell and Gertson mill 40 miles west of here on the Greensprings highway Saturday. Origin of the fire was not determined. It broke out between 5 and 6 a. m. The blaze threw about 20 men out of work, but did not destroy the mill proper. Owners were uncertain about rebuilding the destroyed planer, depending upon availability of materials and machinery.

Vitamins for Victory

Even vitamins will help to win the war and Uncle Sam is making certain that his men are getting plenty of vitamin-rich fresh vegetables and fruits.

Carrots, for example, are of particular importance to the air force. In addition to health-building Vitamin A they also provide Carotene which helps to prevent night blindness.

From the fields of the West, Union Pacific transports immense quantities of fresh vegetables and fruits to military supply depots and civilian markets.

It's a patriotic duty for all Americans to keep fit. Eat vitamins for victory!
