Today's Roundup

BY MALCOLM EPLEY
BSENTEEISM has hit the men's class at the A Red Cross bandage folding room, held

This Monday night's class totaled 18, including three teen-age boys.

Out of 8000 men in Klamath Falls and suburbs, that is a miserable showing. Eighteen equals .00225 of 8000. What kind of support is that for a project that is of vital war importance, a project that actually produces dressings to be used on the wounds of men who are fighting America's battles?

Who are these thousands of people in Klamath Falls and suburbs who refuse to give one little evening or one afternoon (when the women work) to this undertaking?

What would happen if the men who do the fighting and sustain the wounds that require these dressings were to lie down on the job in similar fashion? Some one, we fear, would in-trude rudely on the card games, the dinner parties and the other leisure activities that keep people away from the surgical dressing

70,000 A Month

A N attempt is now going to be made to produce 70,000 dressing a month in Klamath county. That will require 40,000 dressings a month from the main work room, and other production will come from Mills addition, and communities outside Klamath Falls.

As a result of recent efforts to build interest in surgical dressing work, including the organization of the men's class, production swung upward. It is now falling again.

The men's class has produced as many as 737 dressings in one evening. Monday night it pro-

One reason for the Monday night drop was that several of the men in the class put in a short shift because they found it necessary to attend a meeting on war bonds and victory loan.

This indicates that many of the same people who are making these dressings are engaged in other volunteer war work.

Recently, we received a letter giving us a round bawling out for repetition of subject matter in this column. Surgical dressings, we fear, have been the subject of frequent comment, and our critical friend will no doubt be irked when he reads this. If it irks him into making a few of these dressings, thus helping remove cause for comment, both of us should be happy.

Recreation Room

THE Veterans of Foreign Wars have conceived a fine plan-the establishment of a recreation room at the airport for the several score young men engaged in flight training there,

It passes without a great deal of public attention that a large number of young men have been trained at the local field for active service in the vital air arms of our fighting units. We have, here at home, a group of service men who deserve such sympathetic consideration as is proposed by the VFW.

The VFW has listed a number of items needed for the recreation. They should be easily found and gladly contributed,

AN army of 100,000 commandos stormed their way from the English channel to Paris and there devastated the great Renault warworks-the cost including 20,000 casualties in the ranks during weeks of bloody fighting, and a vast sum of money-the world would acclaim it as a magnificent feat,

Our American bomber command under General Ira Reaker in Britain sent 133 Flying Fortresses over Paris and did the job in maybe three hours. Four bombers and seven allied fighters were lost. And how do you appraise

Of course, that's a fanciful comparison. However, the allied air forces are beginning to bite off great chunks of this war, with speed and small cost in lives and material. We need the land forces, but we can save hundreds of thousands of lives, weary months of battle and bilions in cash by intensive development of the allied air-arm.

Big Plant

NOW when you hit the Renault works, you hit something. This plant, which manufactures transport vehicles, tanks and aero engines for Hitler is perhaps the biggest of its kind in Europe. It got a sorry shellacking from the Royal air force just over a year ago when it was employing 30,000 men and running twenty-four hours a day.

That raid destroyed more tanks-so I am told authoritatively in London-than had been knocked out in all the fighting in North Africa up to that time. It was a terrific loss to the nazis, and crippled the works for a long time. Now the Yanks have tossed a shipload of monkey wrenches into the machinery again.

This was only one of many raids carried out over western Europe in the past three days, including the heavy RAF assault on the much manhandled armaments works at Essen. Nine hundreds tons of bombs were dumped in among the priceless Krupps factories which are the right arm of Hitler's Frankenstein,

Krupps Damaged

ATURALLY Krupps isn't wiped out or anything like it, for the works cover some 800 acres. However, only a month ago a considerable number of its central factories were destroyed by the RAF and the latest raid was terrific. The point is that while many buildings were undamaged, a great deal of the manufacturing is interlocking so that the destruction of one main building might put a large number of others out of business.

Such raids must put a fierce strain on Krupps in the matter of the vast quantity of supplies needed to keep them running. I'm reminded that when I was in Cologne not long before the war started, a friend told me an interesting thing about the position of the Krupps works even at that time. He said he recently had been in a shooting party with one of the Krupps. Another member of the party had a new Belgian shotgun which Krupp examined with much interest and then exclaimed:

"I wish we could get steel to make such guns in our works. But it just isn't available," So even before the war Krupps was short of materials. What must the strain be now?

GOOD HIGHWAY TEAM (Oregon Journal)

Governor Snell's appointment of Merle Chessman, publisher of the Astorian-Budget and state senator from Clatsop county, gives Oregon a completely new but well balanced highway com-mission and give the Oregon coast representation on that important body, for the first time in history.

Chessman, former president of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association and former member of the state fish commission has been of outstanding service to Oregon. His long and con-sistent advocacy of the Tongue Point naval base, which was fi-nally crowned with success, is typical. And while he must now esign from the state senate, to which he was nominated and elected by both republicans and democrats and where he made i fine record, his opportunity still broader service, on the highway commission, is obvious.

Harry Banfield, Portland in dustrialist, is a strong man succeeding a strong man, Henry F. Cabell, as chairman of the commission. President of Iron Fireman, civic leader, Banfield highway system at a time when comes to the commission with the exigencies of war and the valuable experience in the heavy demand for fursighted post-war construction and manufacturing fields. His leadership is organizing various metal-working plants, including Iron Fireman, into one of the nation's outstanding production pools, made possible a great Oregon contribu-
