Keepers of the Flame

(Editor's Note: The following editorial appeared in the Klamath Krater, Klamath Union high ed in the Klamath Krater, Klamath Chind High school paper, and because of its outstanding character is being entered in a national contest among high school journalists.)

By EDNA KAHL

THE newspaper, perhaps more than any other factor, directs the thinking of a nation. In the present world conflict that fact stands more firmly than ever before.

war for truth. MISS KAHL You read your newspaper, secure in the knowledge that the headlines and articles you read are there because they are the truth. The contents of your newspapers are not dictated from a general headquarters simply be-cause they are what the officials think are best for the public to know, whether or not the incidents are true. The "what-they-don't-knowwon't-hurt-them" policy finds no welcome in the free press of a free America.

The freedom of our press has been subjected to limitations only during the occasions of a great national crisis. Always, however, censorship was imposed with the aim of re-stricting the amount of details which were to be published. Never was it used to distribute lies and exaggerations. Never has it been used as a bludgeon to beat free people into submission; and the men and women of the press are a living promise that it never will be.

An accurately-informed public is the greatest necessity in the planning of a postwar world. The tremendous job of keeping the public well informed of happenings, wherever and whenever they may occur, lies with the press. The newspaper is a record of today's events, great and small, which will be history tomorrow.

Throughout the annals of American journalm, the members of the press have abided by their self-imposed doctrine of truth. That doctrine is being threatened by our enemies who would have us betray our belief in truth and The members of the press have accepted the challenge. From the small town weekly to the metropolitan daily, they are entering full force into the conflict, knowing well that they are a great determining factor, the "keepers of the flame," not only in the winning of the war, but also in the winning of an enduring peace.

Through our imperishable faith in freedom of the press the future of democracy is as-

OPA's district office here is still running You get the feeling, when you enter the place, that it is after-hours and nearly everybody has gone home, though you may be there in the middle of the business day.

There are lots of desks, chairs and telephones. But only here and there are employes using these facilities, and these people are sur-rounded by empty desks and chairs.

The reason for all of this, we are told, is budgetary. Ed Ostendorf, the district manager, says that the last quarter budget must be made up by the regional office before the local office staff can be further expanded. He expects some news on this in a few days.

What worries the local OPA people, we gather, is really the 1943-44 budget which must get congressional approval. When that budget is determined, we will know more about what is to happen to personnel plans for the district

When the office was located here, it was announced there would be about 50 employes with a payroll of about $100,000 annually, and that is still the expectation qualified by what happens on the budgets. There are now 28 employes hired for the district staff, plus four persons who have been "borrowed." The people who had charge of getting desks, chairs and telephones apparently were not hampered by budget problems. They got them dispatch; getting the personnel to use them has proved to be a more difficult problem.

Giving Klamath Blood

FRIEND of ours, who makes occasional trips to Portland and San Francisco, has been leaving his personal contributions to blood banks in those cities. He suggests this is a good idea for other Klamath people, who make journeys to the cities where there are facilities for taking blood for the plasma banks.

This will be of interest to the many people who have inquired at the county health office, this newspaper, and elsewhere, indicating a desire to contribute to the blood banks that are proving of such vital importance in the treatment of men wounded in battle.

There are no facilities in Klamath Falls for actually taking blood contributions; in fact, no smaller cities of our size in this area have them. Considerable blood-typing for possible bank donations has been carried on, chiefly under sponsorship of the junior chamber of

Our friend said that he got the idea while in Portland recently. He telephoned the blood bank headquarters, and was told his contribution would be gladly received. He was advised about his diet for the four hours before visiting the laboratory, where, in a painless operation, he gave a quantity of blood which may save a life on some distant battle field. Many local people travel occasionally to Portland or San Francisco. Because blood can be donated only at intervals by each individual, the populations of the larger cities may not be enough to provide all the blood contributions that are needed. Every little bit helps, and our informant's experience would indicate that a contribution of Klamath blood will be wel-

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON WASHINGTON, April 8—Petroleum Poobah Ickes is being pressed, not only by motorist representatives, but by other government departments, to liberalize the gas rationing program. Even the Office of Price Administration has made some representations within the government suggesting greater allowances. Now an A-card driver can get only 90 miles a month at a maximum, or 45 to 50 miles if he has a heavy fuel consuming car. This is hardly enough to keep a machine in good condition. The question of whether there is enough gasoline at hand along the eastern seaboard to warrant a greater value for the A-cards, or other relaxation of the restrictions, is not part of the current argument. The highest of authorities in OPA has taken the position that gasoline should be furnished, indeed, should now be available.

The tank cars which were hauling fuel oil during the winter months should now be available for gasoline, Also, one of the new pipe lines from Texas to New Jersey is so near completion that the promise is made that it will be finished by July. Its capacity is 300,000 barrels a day.

A second pipe line through Seymour, Ind., to the eastern field is promised by next January to alleviate the fuel oil demand next winter by adding 235,000 more barrels a day. The position of the oil industry also seems to be undergoing a change trending more toward the OPA position than that of the petroleum ad-

Thus, Mr. Ickes is gradually being surrounded with opposition pressure. A showdown is in prospect. Relaxation is at least possible for the

Political Purity

THIS administration has always stoutly maintained-and with some display of righteous indignation-that the public works programs were non-political in character . . . no one but a republican would say otherwise . . . And, furthermore, you people who did not believe it, have never been able to prove otherwise.

Well, a legal authority, prowling back into a specific case, came upon the following peculiar set of circumstances:

The Federal Works Administration issued orders, approved by the administrator May 1, 1942, requiring that a specific paragraph be inserted in the general conditions governing costs-plus-a-fixed-fee contracts. The paragraph

"(A) Preference in the employment of laborers and mechanics at the site shall be given to qualified local residents.

There shall be no discrimination by reason of race, creed, color, national origin, or POLITICAL AFFILIATIONS in the employment of persons qualified by training and experience for work in the de defense housing or defense public works at the site of the pro-

This certainly established the political purity motif. Anyone had the right to work regardless of his voting pecultarities. Unfor tunately, it did not last long.

Just about a Mayor LaGuardia month before the last election, certain revisions in the general conditions were issued (October 5, 1942). The revised order read:

"Delete paragraph 24 and substitute therefor the following: 'The contractor shall not discriminate against any worker because of race, creed, color, or national origin'."

This change negatively re-established the only discrimination to be used on federal works projects. On its face, it seemed to say that relief is available for all—except republicans.

LaGuardia's Commission

THERE was an insurmountable defect in the way the promise of a commission for Mayor LaGuardia as a brigadier-general was presented to the public. No one, not even the mayor, made clear what particular kind of a job he was to do for which he was exceptionally suited. No convincing justification for the appointment was offered.

The war department has a rule that no older men can be appointed to commissions unless they possess "extreme qualification" which enable them to do a specific needed task. The promise of LaGuardia's appointment was

LEGISLATURE'S WORK RELATED TO KIWANIANS

Oregon's 1943 legislature took constructive action to make location in this state more desirable to industry, it was pointed out by Senator Marshall Cornett and Representative Henry Semon in talks to the Kiwanis club Thurs-
