

Martha Shops and Shops

THIS IS SORT OF AN APOLOGY

You know the old joke . . . "Where you been?" . . . "I been sick" . . . Well, I really have been in that state, otherwise this column wouldn't have been missing from The Herald and News for the last two weeks.

There was a rumor around that I'd broken my leg and they had to shoot me . . . But the report of my death, as Mark Twain said in a similar situation, was greatly exaggerated.

I did break my foot, however, although it didn't get me down for long . . . But I really got to the place where I didn't care whether I had a foot or not, when I developed the flu and then strep throat . . . And for a while would almost have welcomed being shot.

But here I am, back again . . . With several things I can hardly wait to tell you.

Carcelon's

AFTER reading so much recently about Franciscan bone china, I was really excited when I found that Carcelon's now has a complete stock of each of six patterns of this already-famous china of American manufacture.

Maybe you have read about it, too . . . How the product now on the market is the result of 10 years of research, experimenting and success on the part of the manufacturers of Franciscan ware . . . How it is not to be spoken of in the same breath with Franciscan ware, because it's a real bone china, not a pottery . . . And how it is now rated in quality with the best of the imports.

If you like lovely, conservative designs for your "best" china, translucent appearance, a very fine glaze, and hand decoration, you'll really fall for Franciscan bone china.

Really fine china is not to be bought for a song, of course, but Carcelon's has several "plans" that might make it easier for you to make your selection now, if you wish.

One of the plans that I like the best is the "single-service" purchase . . . Everything to set the place at table for one person . . . And it costs around $9 for a service plate, salad plate, bread and butter plate, cup and saucer in any of these lovely patterns of Franciscan bone china.

Studio of Beauty

It certainly was a relief to get my hair done after missing so many weeks . . . And Ruby Engel really went to work on me so my scalp would feel good and my hair look the way that should.

While I was there at the Studio of Beauty, Fern Short came in to sit a while and talk, because "another customer didn't show up" . . . She and Ruby wondered what was the matter with the girls of Klamath county that day, because several of them had failed to show up for their appointments.

I told them I was amazed that anybody would just simply not come in . . . Without telephoning to cancel the appointment . . . But Fern said that lots of people did . . . In fact, she'd turned down several gals who had tried to make appointments that day, only to discover later that she could have taken them if the other customers had cancelled their appointments ahead of time instead of merely failing to appear.

I told them that one San Francisco beauty shop I used to go to always charged for the appointment if the customer didn't cancel it 24 hours in advance . . . But Fern said, "Oh, we couldn't do that" . . . So we were right back where we started from.

Only a big crowd of little kids enjoyed the predicament of a man and woman who own a car with an Oregon license and a trailer with a California license . . . The car and trailer stopped on Eleventh and Pine with the horn blowing madly . . . The man and woman dashed around trying to do something, several sympathetic passers-by tried to help, and the horn continued to deafen them all . . . The fellow who told me about it said he didn't stop because he was so embarrassed for them!

Whytal's

WHAT the textile manufacturers have done with rayon for late Spring and early Summer really is amazing . . . Have you seen the new suits at Whytal's? . . . Well, drop in there and have your eyes opened the way mine were!

I noticed some beautiful pastel suits in soft lightweight material . . . But whether they looked like gabardine or soft wool, they were made of rayon . . . A new, longer-wearing, finer rayon that you wouldn't recognize as the distant cousin of the rayons we had only a couple of years ago.

The suits that look as if they were made of soft, lightweight wool are the ones that really made me go all yearny . . . They're fitted, with clever dressmaker details . . . And on the fronts are flowers and other designs of lace, yarn embroidery or felt . . . Just utterly adorable . . . And, what's better still, they are priced at only $19.95 and $22.95.

The pastel rayon gabardine suits, though, would be the perfect ones for general all-around wear, because the others are for dress only . . . A frilly blouse would transform the rayon-gabardine suits for dress occasions . . . And they'd be lovely and cool for Summer wear . . . Especially at only $19.95.

And one of them under one of those goring coats of teddy bear cloth would have your friends speechless with envy . . . Whytal's carries the original ones with the Wallaby label, which are softer and not so bulky . . . And has them in red, yellow, powder blue and white . . . Most of the full-length ones are $35.

At Whytal's.

Currin's

HAVING been sick, I missed letting you know about the usual annual 20-per-cent sale of Rubinstein products now in progress at Currin's For Drugs . . . And, since it will end Saturday, you'd better hurry to take advantage of it.

As you probably know by this time (because I've talked about it every year), Madame Helena Rubinstein once a year allows her famous products to be sold at a discount of 20 per cent.

A lot of people, including myself, thought the sale would be skipped this year . . . Because some of the ingredients are rationed, containers are rationed, and shipments are difficult . . . But the sale is now on at Currin's, and that's the answer to our fears.

There's no telling, of course, if you'll be able always to get just what you want, because of this rationing . . . So buying with a thought for your needs for the next months would be very wise . . . And a bargain, too!

As a few examples will show you, the savings really aren't to be overlooked.

For instance, a $2.00 bottle of Water Lily Skin Lotion (that wonderful stuff that can stop pimples from coming out) is only $1.60 during the 20 per cent sale.

A $5.00 jar of night cream is only $4.00 during the sale . . . The $5.50 Rubinstein face powder, one of the grandest made, jumps down to $4.40.

Besides that, your 10 per cent government tax is reduced by the same amount . . . Instead of $5.50, you'd pay $4.40 . . . Instead of $2.20 you'd pay $1.76 . . . Instead of $6.05 you'd pay $4.84 . . . And so on.

One of the best pieces of news I've had in a long time, though, is the return of Thelma Davis to Currin's . . . At least, temporarily . . . She came back last week, looking rested and peppy . . . And told me she just simply couldn't resist going back to work there as soon as she was feeling fine.

As you probably remember, Thelma is an authority on cosmetics and skin care, and can give you really expert advice on what you need.

But don't forget . . . The 20 per cent sale on Rubinstein products will be on only until Saturday night . . . At Currin's.

Easter is late this year, but that's all right with us in the Klamath country.

COMMUNITIES DOUBLE RED CROSS QUOTA

Of the 27 rural communities of which he is in charge, 10 have more than doubled their Red Cross donation quota and the other 17 have all exceeded theirs, it was announced by Fred Peterson, Red Cross war fund rural community chairman Thursday.

Peterson said that a certificate would be sent to each community that filled its quota and a certificate with a gold seal would be presented to communities which doubled their allotment.

Complete figures from some localities have not yet been received, but Peterson said he was confident that results from those places will be more than satisfactory when they come in.

ALGOMA MILL TO CLOSE SATURDAY

ery in the mill has been disposed of to various lumbering operations. The townsite has not been sold.

Schultz said a large percentage of the employees already have jobs lined up with other lumber plants and elsewhere. Schultz said he is not ready to announce his own plans.

Shutting down of the mill will mark a milestone in the lives of many of the employees who have been with the Algoma operations for many years. Among them is Ole Dollarhide, head sawyer, who held that position when Algoma began its operations on the Upper lake in 1911.

Closure of the lake plant is the result of exhaustion of Algoma's timber supply, Schultz said. For several years, the company has been getting its logs from the rich Yawkey timber tract in the Fort Klamath district, floating them on Upper Klamath lake from Agency landing to the mill. The harvest of the Yawkey timber has now been completed, the cut on that tract totaling 275,000,000 feet.

Algoma moved to Upper Klamath lake from Pokedagama, on the Klamath river southwest of Klamath Falls. It operated from 1905 to 1911 at Pokedagama, which for a number of those years was Klamath's closest rail point.

Wife Offered in Payment For Navy Medical Service

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—A native chief's offer to give a medical officer one of his wives in gratitude for medical treatment was "declined with thanks," the war department reported today.

On Guadalcanal, Chief Poi was wounded last November. He killed four Japanese but was shot three times in the arm and on the government for a hand-out," Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) told him. "When the government gets to subsidizing everything—it's wrong in principle. Under dictatorships, it doesn't mean so much. But in a democracy, the government would be holding a club over the heads of the farmers. The officials could say if you want to continue getting this money, you'll have to vote."

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) added that the opposition could say, "if you vote for us, we'll give you more."

The hearing, an anti-climax to yesterday's senate battle that finally sent the vetoed Bankhead bill back to committee to join the previously shelved Pace measure, produced a constant flow of argument between Brown and the senators that extended until the noon opening of the senate. Agriculture Secretary Wickard sat in the back-ground without an opportunity to testify.

the painstaking selection of jurors with racial feeling the major issue in every instance. By nightfall the 13—one an alternate—had been accepted by Folkes' attorney, Leroy Lomax, Portland, Ore. But the entire panel of 40 had been exhausted and the court ordered 15 more to appear today.

With only five challenges remaining for the state, whose prosecution is directed by Linn county District Attorney Harlow Weinrick, it was expected that the jury would be completed quickly and testimony begun.

"Tough Outfit," Says Chatburn of Armored School

MERRILL — Tom W. Chatburn Jr., who left recently for the service, is enthusiastic about the armored infantry division in which he is serving at Fort Knox, Ky., according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Chatburn and his young wife, Helen Hodges Chatburn. Getting up at 4:30 a. m. and training until 7:30 p. m. is going to produce the "toughest, roughest, hardest hitting unit in the world," he writes.

The boys have "the stuff that will win" and the equipment to back it up. Prior to leaving Merrill he was employed in the Merrill branch, First National Bank of Portland.

Mrs. Chatburn and baby son are remaining in Merrill.

Sprague River Red Cross Unit Thanks Fund Canvassers

SPRAGUE RIVER — The Sprague River unit of the Red Cross met in the clubroom Tuesday afternoon. Final reports on the war fund drive were made. Sprague River more than doubled their quota. The chairman, Mrs. Emma Tompkins, wishes to take this opportunity to thank everyone who contributed to the fund. Special thanks to Mrs. D. C. Kircher, Mrs. Ethel Reynolds, Mrs. T. W. Zadow, Mrs. William George, Mrs. Betty Moore, Mrs. Ruth Masters, Mrs. Esther Young and Mrs. Gladys Passolt. These ladies worked very hard in their house-to-house canvass. The success of this drive was accomplished by their efforts.

The school play will be presented this week. Proceeds from this play will also go to the fund.

BACKACHE?

Try Hot Towels and—A Risk Oil Rub—Tonight

Don't fly off the handle and jump to scary conclusions that your kidneys are out of order, quite likely they are all right. If in doubt ask your doctor.

You are probably doing strenuous work using certain muscles for the first time in many a day and about all you need is some sound common-sense advice.

Tonight get a bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at the drug store. At bedtime apply a good hot towel (hot as you can bear it) to open the pores. Keep it on and hot for about five minutes. Dry thoroughly and apply a little of the Oil rubbing well in with a good massage. It disappears. Cover up and go to sleep. In the morning, for good measure, another oil application but no hot towel. You'll be amazed and delighted at the blessed relief you get—back on the job—smiling—happy and much more comfortable.

Thousands of bottles are sold each year for tired, aching feet and legs. You can get Emerald Oil at any drug store.

BRITISH AMERICANS ENCIRCLE GERMANS

Americans encountered advanced patrols of the eighth army yesterday afternoon.

Enemy columns retreating toward the Port of Sfax, and tanks, transports and troops, were hammered by allies air forces, sometimes within sight of their own ground forces. Fourteen enemy aircraft were shot down in air combat for a loss of one allied plane, and allied anti-aircraft batteries in the northern sector destroyed three more.

Advance Continues

Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson launched his first army forces against German positions from the Medjez-El-Bab region at dawn yesterday. By noon the first objective and 150 prisoners were taken. The advance continued over country so difficult that mules were largely relied upon to move up supplies.

Competent sources said it was now obvious that Rommel had believed he could hold out much longer in the Wadi El Akarit positions and the dislodgment of his forces there compelled him to alter his whole plan for remaining in that southern sector for some time to come.

You might just as well get used to points. You're stuck with 'em!
