Today's Roundup

HEAVY wartime timber cutting emphasizes the need for alert watchfulness for every possibility of expanding or diversifying the industrial program in this area.

What must be done is to make more, by intensification and diversification of manufacturing, out of the timber resources which remain, and so far as this community is concerned, those resources are still extensive.

Industrial prospects in this community are not confined to those based on timber products, although those will always be vital.

Future of WRA Camps

THERE is apparent general agreement here with General DeWitt's recently expressed opinion that Japanese citizens and Japanese-Americans should not be permitted in the coastal defense zones.

Recently, a rumor was spread here that a plan was on foot to permit evacuees, now in relocation centers at Tulelake and elsewhere, to return to their homes and regular occupations in the coast region.

So long as this country is at war with Japan, such a move would be dangerous and unwise. There is no sure way to test the loyalty of the evacuees.

Under the present plan, numerous evacuees who have been cleared by the FBI and the military are being released into areas removed from the coastal defense zones.

There is some opinion among those well informed on the war relocation situation that such centers as the one at Tulelake have served their purpose and may fold up in their present function before the war ends.

Whether this will actually happen, of course, is still a matter of conjecture, and it raises interesting questions, in the immediate localities of the camps, as to what will be done with them.

Folkes Case

KLAMATH men returning from the Folkes case trial at Albany commented interestingly on the lack of sensational local interest in Linn county in the trial.

This is natural enough, and it points to a phase of the Folkes affair which distinguishes it from the usual sensational criminal incident.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, April 16—The administration's post-war and economic policies seem to be changing—perhaps veering in a better way.

Often in the past, Mr. Roosevelt has used sailing technique toward his objectives, tacking first to one side, then the other.

Under Secretary of State Welles, in his latest speech, did not again mention an "international police force."

Mr. Welles occupies a position greater than his title and is a consummate classicist in the use of diplomatic language.

This change reflects an inner realization down through government diplomatic authorities that developments of this war from now on will have more to do with making the post-war world than any words that can be said now.

If Russia manages to accomplish the victory, a wholly different set of peace circumstances may be presented than if the victory is wrought by Anglo-American action.

Some authorities like Navy Secretary Knox also are beginning to imply that it is more important for our post-war peace for the United States to hold bases in the Pacific than it is to enter upon pious pronouncements of brotherly love.

The island of Guadalcanal for which we are fighting so heartily is—few stop to think—a British possession.

In the future air world, it is obvious that many Guadalcanals will be more essential to the security of our shores than any other factor.

Russia Question

M. R. CHURCHILL, in his recent statements, has indicated Britain and Russia are getting more and more together.

There appears no truth to the rumors that Litvinoff might return home and thus offer us a red diplomatic goodbye with gloved hand.

But certainly all these conditions make it evident the post-war world will be fixed by future negotiation, not by what Washington officials may have wanted in the first place.

Domestic Policies

THE change in domestic economic policies of this government are clearer cut. The administration move to freeze prices and wages at long last now carries a ring of sincerity and determination.

It should have been done a year or more ago, but the New Deal economists desired to let wages run up, promising a freezing in the end.

A peculiarly favorable political situation furnishes weight to Mr. Roosevelt's freezing intentions. The John L. Lewis wage increase demands and the senate side-tracking of farm bloc claims in the Bankhead bill have brought the AFL and, even somewhat reluctantly, the CIO, into a new position of alarm against inflation.

Up to now, they have wanted to run wages up. But with the farm bloc holding over labor's head the power to increase prices (by passing the Bankhead and Pace bills in congress at anytime), the president has been able to gather powerful labor and farm support for a firming of the anti-inflation policies.

Plane Production

OFFICIALDOM knows nothing more about Russia's post-war intentions than you do. Apparently there have been no conversations.

The Lightning Interceptor (Lockheed P-38, Twin Allison engines) plane has developed a reputation as a super plane in the Tunisian fighting. It climbs like its name, practically straight up, is faster, and has better protection than the nazi ships, and is classed as maneuverable.

MacArthur's Air General Kenny and others are supposed to be very much disappointed with their Washington plane mission. Production is enough to furnish them the ships, but the shipping situation is tight.

Gold Seen as Best Way of Settling World Balances

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—The United States has sold more gold to foreign countries in the last two years than it has purchased, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau told the senate banking committee today.

He made this disclosure in urging the committee to approve legislation to continue another two years the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and the president's powers to devalue the dollar.

The measure has drawn the opposition of Senator Taft (R-O.) who indicated he would lead a last ditch fight against extending such authority, originally granted in 1934 and due to expire June 30.

Morgenthau said the stabilization fund had accumulated a net profit which now exceeds $30,000,000. During the 1942 fiscal year, he added the fund sold $844,000,000 in gold to foreign countries and purchased $162,000,000.

The fund's gold sales, Morgenthau said, have been made to 21 different countries, adding: "I know of no better means of settling international balances than with gold."

Two Notorious Prisoners Escape From Georgia Jail

REIDSVILLE, Ga., April 16 (AP)—Led by two notorious Georgia escape artists, 22 prisoners described by the warden as "the worst we got," escaped from Tattall state prison early today after overpowering three unarmed guards.

Warden H. R. DuVall said three of the prisoners jumped on Guards B. G. Morrison, W. E. Overstreet, and N. M. Spivey, locked them in a cell, took the prison keys and unlocked the front gate.

After taking the guards' keys they dismantled the prison telephone switchboard and pulled a switch which plunged the prison into darkness.

They stole two prison trucks and a car belonging to Morrison and fled. The alarm was given a short time later, the warden said, when a 23rd prisoner, whom the warden believed may have been forced to leave the prison, appeared at the sheriff's office in Reidsville and surrendered.

The others abandoned Morrison's car near Cogswath, 14 miles northeast of Reidsville, and resumed their flight in another stolen car and the two trucks.

The break was led, Warden DuVall said, by Forrest Turner, 30, who has escaped from Georgia prisons so many times that the records are confusing, and Leland Harvey, 34, who has escaped at least six times, and D. C. Black, 31. These three overpowered the guards, the warden added.

Turner was serving long terms for larceny, robbery and kidnaping. Harvey was serving a three-to-five year term and an 8 to 10 year term for larceny and robbery, respectively. Black was doing a 5 to 10 year term for burglary.

Dairy

Friends will be glad to learn that Mrs. Waldo Jones was able to leave the hospital Saturday, April 10, and return to her home in Dairy. She recently underwent a major operation.

Sgt. Harry G. McCumber was recently transferred from Santa Barbara, Calif., to Ft. Lewis, Wash. He served as military police at the Hoff General hospital in Santa Barbara for the past two years. He is the son of Mrs. Martha McCumber of Dairy.

Mrs. Joe Horsley left Monday, April 12 to visit with her parents and other relatives of Buell, Idaho.

Mrs. George Ashcraft, of Lakeview, was a business visitor in this vicinity on Monday, April 12.

Mrs. E. B. Schmoie has been ill at her home for the past week with flu.

HEILBRONNER DELEGATED TO 40 ET 8 MEET

PENDLETON, April 16 (AP)—More than 100 out-of-town delegates are expected to attend the annual tri-state wreck of the 40 et 8 American Legion society, comprising veterans of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, when sessions are held here Saturday evening, local officials announced today.

Heading the delegation will be N. Carl Nielson of Indianapolis, correspondent nationale. Also present will be the grand chef de gares of the three states, Fred Heilbronner of Klamath Falls.

Ritualistic and initiatory work following the annual dinner will feature the wreck. The halfoats of Seattle, an entertainment group, will stage special work of the degree of the unknown soldier, and the Walla Walla degree team will be in charge of the initiation, assisted by Grand Chief Heilbronner and Commander Bowman.

LAST OF ALCATRAZ ESCAPEES FOUND

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16 (AP)—Floyd G. Hamilton, 38, southwest desperado who tried with three other prisoners to escape from Alcatraz penitentiary this week, was found today hiding in a cave on the island prison.

Hamilton was the fourth of the quartet to be accounted for. One of the four lost his life. The other three have been captured.

Warden James A. Johnston announced that Hamilton had been found in the cave. The convict said he never got far out into the waters of the bay because he knew he couldn't make the swim to safety.

He said he was sick, sore, wet and hungry.

The four made their sensational bid for freedom last Tuesday morning.

Bazaar to Be Held By Malin Helping Hand Society

MALIN—The Helping Hand society will meet at the Malin Presbyterian church, Wednesday, April 21, with Mrs. Joe LaClair as hostess.

Members are asked to bring aprons and other handwork that has been made for the spring bazaar being sponsored by the society, which is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, April 23-24.

Cooked food will also be sold, the sale to be held at Kallina's store.

HOME, SWEET HOME CANON CITY, Colo., (AP)—It's like this, says Warden Roy Best:

Norris Rodman and George Reece, 23-year-old convicts, were sent outside the prison in a truck, to change a tire on a prison auto in Canon City.

They decided to keep on going in the truck—then began to quarrel over how soon to abandon it in their flight. Fists swung.

Rodman blacked Reece's eyes—then telephoned the warden and said he wanted to come back.

The warden obliged: they're both back.

ROMANCE AND RATIONS GARY, Ind., (AP)—Rationing has come to the assistance of cupid.

When a 68-year-old widower tried to propose to the pretty young school teacher to whom he applied for ration book No. 2 the story appeared in newspapers all over the country.

And then the mails brought this classified ad to an East Chicago paper:

"Widow, 68 years old, also has ration book No. 2 and would be happy to meet Mr. Romance."

To the Coal Trade: TO HAVE COAL, OR NOT TO HAVE IT, that is the question!

Much as we would like to take a "rest" after six months of the most trying times in the coal business, we simply must not relax our efforts not even for a short time—toward keeping coal moving into our customers' bins, especially during the next SIX OR EIGHT WEEKS.

We Quote Just One of Many Authorities: (National Solid Fuels Coordinator, Washington, D. C.)

"Reductions in fuel wood production threatens to increase substantially the demand for coal next winter."

Coal users must store more coal during April, May and June this year than ever before. NOW, TODAY, is not too soon to order your coal.

The Answer, We Believe, Is Obvious, namely:

We advise you very frankly that you MUST take your coal now, while it is available, or be prepared to do without your normal supply next fall and winter.
