

GRAVEL PIT CAVE-IN KILLS BLY WORKER

Cave-in of a bank in a gravel pit near Bly resulted in the death Tuesday afternoon of George W. Kinkead, 59, an employe of the Crane Lumber company at Bly.

According to Dr. George H. Adler, coroner, Kinkead and John Dillavou, another Crane employe, took a dump truck to the gravel pit a mile east of Bly. The two men were loading the truck when the bank gave away, dirt and rock rolling down toward the truck.

Dillavou got out of the way, and then went around the truck to see how Kinkead had fared. Kinkead had disappeared, and Dillavou could see only a piece of his shirt protruding from the pile of debris. He quickly uncovered Kinkead and found him dead. His head was crushed.

Kinkead's shovel was several feet away from him, and he may have been sitting down for a rest when the bank gave away, Dr. Adler said.

The body was brought to Ward's.

JAPANESE EXECUTE SOME TOKYO FLIERS

capture, trial and severe punishment of those Americans.

Continued endeavor was made to obtain confirmation and it was not until March 12, 1943 that this government received the communication given by the Japanese government stating that these Americans had in fact been tried and that the death penalty had been pronounced.

"Some" Executed

"It was further stated that the death penalty was commuted for some" the president said, "but that the sentence of death had been applied to others."

The war department's detailed description of the American bombing of Tokyo disclosed that eight of the American fliers were prisoners or were presumed to be prisoners of Japan.

The president's statement, expressing a feeling of deepest horror which he said was shared by all civilized peoples, did not say how many of the prisoners had been executed.

"Frightfulness"

"This recourse by our enemies to frightfulness is barbarous," the president said. "The effort of the Japanese war lords thus to intimidate us will utterly fail. It will make the American people more determined than ever to blot out the shameful militarism of Japan."

Stating he had instructed the state department to make public the text of its note of protest, the president said that in this communication the United States has informed Japan that the American government "will hold personally and officially responsible for these diabolical crimes all of those officers of the Japanese government who have participated therein and will in due course bring those officers to justice."

NO FOOD SECRECY
NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—Former President Hoover, in a statement today, said that "there can be no real justification for secrecy" at the United Nations' food conference, scheduled to open at Hot Springs on May 18.

FOLKES' TRIAL JURY BEGINS DELIBERATIONS

If the jurors ascertained that the evidence showed Folkles was intoxicated, this should be weighed. But he stressed that intoxication does not excuse a crime.

"Intoxication, in the main," he said, "should be weighed in deciding the degree of guilt."

Sympathies Warned

The court warned the jury against permitting the "sympathies, sentiment and public approval or disapproval to sway you in reaching a verdict."

Folkles remained impassive, seemingly bored, during the court's instructions.

Wilbur Brinson, the slain woman's father, and her widower, Ensign Richard F. James, were in the courtroom when the jury retired. Neither showed visible emotion.

Fifteen Raids Batter Kiska Japs Monday

been raided a maximum of 15 times in one day—April 15.

Since the beginning of the aerial offensive to smash Japanese installations there, the Aleutians command has raided Kiska 137 times. The offensive began March 1, and since April 1, 103 raids have been made.

There still was no evidence from the navy, however, bearing on the effectiveness of these assaults in demolishing Japanese installations and delaying or preventing the enemy from turning the island into an air base.

BOND SALES GO OVER $900,000

cautioned against a let-down in the campaign.

Goal for the Hitler birthday celebration was $250,000, and when the reports were all in the total exceeded that budget by 33 per cent. Of the total raised, $185,625 came through a radio auction of the rooster, Captain Jack, conducted by the junior chamber of commerce.

Two largest buys of the birthday event were $100,000 by the Klamath Indians and $75,000 by Klamath county, the latter counting on the Captain Jack auction.

"We challenge any city in the state outside of Portland to equal Tuesday's record of bond sales, topped off by the radio auction," said A. M. Collier, war finance co-chairman.

He said the results of the auction far outstripped expectations, with an average of $4100 per minute for the 45-minute show. The percentage of small bonds, he said, was particularly gratifying.

Captain Jack, the rooster, is now "worth" $547,800 in bond sales.

The junior chamber not only sponsored and produced the radio show, but supported it with bids from 18 members totaling $1725 in bonds. Troy V. Cook was chairman of the broadcast committee. Paul Lee handled publicity, and Don Statham and Jerry Thomas worked at the microphones with Colonel Swigart as auctioneer.

WPB TO OPERATE OFFICE IN S. F.

Western problems differ from those problems which face east coast residents, and the war production board is now establishing an office in San Francisco to better serve this part of the country, according to information brought to Klamath Falls by Ruth Olds Bathiany, city treasurer, who returned Tuesday night from Portland.

Maury Maverick, Texas, with a staff of priorities experts, met with representatives "from every corner of the state of Oregon," in the Portland city council chambers. For three days the experts listened to western complaints, chiefly the misunderstanding of western needs as viewed through Washington eyes. From Portland the men continued to Seattle where they will meet with Washington state and local officials.

Maverick urged small cities to iron out their own small priorities problems, inasmuch as the war centers were faced with greater difficulties. Mrs. Bathiany observed that Klamath Falls has no such problems as beset the war towns such as Portland, Vancouver, Seattle and other northwest cities.

Hearing Waived on Contributing Case

Melvin Dalton and Sergeant Chester Scott, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, waived preliminary hearing in justice court Tuesday.

Dalton and Scott last week assertedly took two under-age girls to Dorris and Weed in an automobile, staying at Weed all night and returning to Klamath Falls the next day.

The two men were picked up here for investigation, and Tuesday delinquency charges filed against them. Both men are in the county jail under $1000 cash bail.

state while the train sped across southern Texas this morning.

They left Monterey late last night after interrupting a lavish seven-course banquet to deliver radio addresses to the world. If there were any important problems providing a backdrop for their talks, the speeches failed to yield any clue to them or to the real reason for their historic meeting.

Differences

In their speeches last night they spoke of differences between their two governments which already have been solved, of a joint solidarity in arms in a world at war, and of the values, now and for the future, of the good neighbor policy.

They dealt strictly in generalities and words of friendship and Mr. Roosevelt promised that "the government of the United States and my countrymen are ready to help" Mexico toward greater progress toward "the greatest possible measure of security and opportunity." He referred to the issue now apparently dead, created by Mexican expropriation of American-owned oil lands.

Mr. Roosevelt declared with studied emphasis:

"We recognize a mutual interdependence of our joint resources. We know that Mexico's resources will be developed for the common good of humanity. We know that the day of the exploitation of the resources and the people of one country for the benefit of any group in another country is definitely over."

STETTIN, ROSTOCK SOCKED BY BOMBS

the Heinkel works were the specific targets in last night's raid. The last previous British raid on Rostock was April 26, 1942, when it was bombed for the fourth night in a row. At that time fires were set that were seen 250 miles away and the center of the city was reduced to a heap of ashes.

Stettin, which is the port for Berlin, was last bombed by the RAF September 30, 1941, and harbor installations, an oil refinery and factories were severely damaged. The red army air force also raided Stettin, along with Berlin, in August, 1941.

While the heavy bombers were out against the Baltic ports and Berlin last night—the eighth night in a row that the RAF has attacked the German-dominated continent—other planes hit hard at German rail and water communications in France, Holland, Belgium and northwestern Germany, and attacked shipping off the Belgian coast.

Spring Truancy Gives Juvenile Officers Aches

Truancy is giving juvenile authorities their newest headache, and spring fever, warm days, and lure of the out-of-doors is keeping a number of boys and girls out of school, according to Juvenile Officer Dave Bridge.

Girls seem to be chief offenders this year, and an appeal is being made to parents asking them to check closely on the activities of school age children and to be especially careful of signing "excuses."

Noyes, Cooper to Head Press Service

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—The board of directors of The Associated Press has designated Frank B. Noyes of the Washington Star as honorary president of the news association and Kent Cooper as executive director.

Cooper continues the responsibilities heretofore carried by him as general manager in addition to other duties as executive director. The board's action was announced yesterday.

Tortuous Voyage Brings "Mutiny" Schooner Home

SEATTLE, April 21 (AP)—A modern counterpart of "Mutiny on the Bounty" was disclosed by a seaman who returned here after a tortuous 143-day voyage on a leaky four-master schooner with a captain who was partially "out of his head" with a brain tumor.

The scene of the marine drama was aboard the once proud schooner Commodore, famed for its cross-Pacific races. Its latest race was against leakage, malnutrition and death. The course was the length of the Pacific and breadth of the Atlantic.

James Gallagher of Seattle related in a Post-Intelligencer interview how the crew ate chicken feed for mush, a steady diet of salt meats and "a can of peas or corn between 14 men onnaisance showed that Flying Fortress attacks on Palermo, Sicily, had caused tremendous damage, with the harbor blocked by the hulks of 28 ships, sunk or damaged.

Ships Sunk

The sunken shipping consisted of five merchant vessels, a destroyer, another naval vessel and a minelayer, an official report said, while damaged ships included seven merchant ships, two escort vessels, a tanker and a repair ship. Inactive shipping in the harbor included four motor ferries, at least two of which were severely damaged, three hopper barges, two of which were damaged, one submarine probably damaged and one merchant vessel.

The communique said it had been found that 10 more axis planes were destroyed on Sunday, the day huge German air transport formations were shot up, bringing that day's aerial losses of the enemy to 98 aircraft.

Park Animals to Get Meat Diet

The meat situation as concerns the carnivorous animals in the Moore park zoo, is well in hand, according to city officials.

When meat rationing went into effect, members of the park board were faced with the problem of what to feed meat eating animals. Dr. J. C. Hunt, city meat and milk inspector, came to the park board aid and now has sufficient meat on hand to feed the furry fellows until around May 10. The meat is that which is not fit for human consumption but is definitely not "bad" and is classified as condemned by the inspector.
