"with death or severe penalty" members of crews taken prisoner following attack on Japanese territory, Manchukuo and areas of Japanese military operations and "found guilty" of inhuman acts.

The enemy's new show of contempt for international law came less than 24 hours after Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who led the American raid on Tokyo and other Japanese cities a year ago, called on the United States to blast the Japanese empire "until they beg for mercy."

Bomb soon Doolittle said U. S. fliers would bomb Tokyo again "soon" and said he wanted to take part in the assault.

Disclosure of Japan's execution of some of the eight American fliers taken prisoners after the 1942 attack on Tokyo was followed today by news of widespread aerial blows against enemy forces in the southwest Pacific and in Burma.

MAN JAILED FOR HORSE THEFT

Vern David Kicsenski, alias Robert Lee Steel, is in the county jail under $1000 bail charged with larceny by bailee. Kicsenski waived preliminary and grand jury hearings in justice court Friday morning.

Two weeks ago the accused rented a Palomino horse at the Sunset riding stables to go for a ride. Neither horse nor rider returned. Asked to be on the lookout for anyone answering Kicsenski's description, Sheriff Lloyd Low found and arrested the man Thursday.

The horse, which had been turned loose, was located on the Keno road Thursday. The stolen horse's saddle and bridle were found Friday in a cabin on the Haskins brothers' ranch south of Merrill, where Kicsenski had hidden them.

might not return to his post from Washington. Schoenfeld's automobile was said to have been sold.

No New Policy

There has been no new declaration of policy from Finland regarding her involved relations with Germany since the recent reelection of President Risto Ryti, who affirmed an intention to carry on the war against soviet Russia, and the creation of a new cabinet headed by Premier Edwin Linkomies.

(State department officials in Washington, confirming the departure of some of the Helsinki legation personnel, said the action was "an administrative move." Most of those who had remained in Finland prior to the withdrawal were military or naval attaches.

Hint for Peace

(Unofficial quarters in London—recalling reports of United States pressure upon Finland to drop out of the war—interpreted the departure of the U. S. group as a strong hint for Helsinki to make a separate peace while there was still time. The British foreign office refused to comment.

War of Nerves

Observers in this neutral capital expressed opinion that the withdrawal of virtually the whole legation staff was part of a war of nerves which they believed might force the issue as to whether Finland is going to fight on beside the axis or demonstrate adherence to the principles of the Atlantic charter by getting out of the war.

The Finns issued a communication in Helsinki saying that "a considerable part of the American personnel of the United States legation is removing to Stockholm," but that McClimock would remain "to administer the legation with the aid of a few officers."

Surprised

A Helsinki dispatch which cleared the Finnish censorship said "the Finns, who appeared surprised and concerned over the American action expressed hope it would not mean a final breach in relations."

The Germans are reported in reliable quarters, which cannot be identified by name, to have handed the Finns virtual ultimatums demanding that Finland sign up definitely with the axis and reopen military action against the Leningrad-Murmanek railway, which feeds United Nations supplies into Russia.

The front has been little changed for more than a year, with combat limited largely to sniping and patrol actions. The Finns signed the anti-comintern pact, but have no other publicized agreement with the Germans as allies.

The Finns have argued that they are unable to make peace because they are economically dependent on Germany, see no practical way of getting five or six Nazi divisions out of northern Finland and, without guarantees from the United Nations, are unwilling to trust Russia.

The heavy censorship limited discussion of the new political ramifications in dispatches from Finland.

EDITORIALS ON NEWS

Every development in air warfare calls for MORE AIR DEVELOPMENT to meet it.

MOST of today's news (at least that released by the censor) is secondary to the Tunisian fighting.

The Germans are still reinforcing their Kuban armies and shifting hundreds of planes into the Crimea for use across the narrow Kerch strait. In the Kuban delta, Red Star says, the Germans launched SEVEN successive waves of tank-led infantrymen.

All seven were stopped, Moscow says, and not a dent was made in the Russian line.

THERE'S a hen on in Finland. The main body of the U. S. legation staff leaves Helsinki by plane for Stockholm. An ironclad censorship is immediately clamped down on all Finnish political dispatches.

Our own state department (in Washington) closes up like a clam. We'll have to wait to see what it's all about.

OUR navy announces occupation of the Ellice islands, 1100 miles east of the Solomons. The news is given out following a Jap air attack on the Ellice group. When the occupation took place we don't know, and we can only guess as to the reason.

One guess is that we may be building up a series of island stepping-stone bases to speed up the flying in of more planes, especially fighters, to the South Pacific.

In these highly important stepping-stone bases, the Japs have a distinct edge on us.

HEARINGS WAIVED ON MONEY CHARGE

Charges of obtaining money under false pretenses were filed against Harold Lee Fisher, 23, in justice court Thursday. Fisher waived both preliminary and grand jury hearings.

Fisher was arrested by state police Wednesday on a charge of operating a vehicle without a license and given 15 days in the county jail. Later, under questioning, he admitted passing some 20 bad checks throughout Oregon and California.

The accused is being held in the county jail on $1000 cash bail.

CLEANUP
SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The bring-back-the-empties campaign got a real boost from Mrs. Charlotte Baker—and vice versa.

She cleaned her basement and garage, turned in 3268 empty milk, carbonated beverage and beer bottles.

They brought her $93.75—enough for five $25 war bonds.

FOLKES IMPASSIVE AFTER CONVICTION

Mrs. James when she resisted his efforts to enter her berth.

No Recommendation
The jury returned no recommendation for leniency. Thus, under Oregon law, the conviction carried the death penalty.

For 17 hours and 23 minutes the jury of eight women and four men mulled the fate of the negro who assertedly he thought the Norfolk, Va., girl was "just my type of woman—I couldn't get her out of my mind."

He was accused of slashing Mrs. James' throat as the west coast limited sped along the snow-covered Willamette valley.

Statement Told
In one of three unsworn statements admitted into evidence, the negro told how he cautiously, by felt of the sleeping woman's form, then unfastened the curtains of her berth and straddled her body.

She struggled desperately—almost throwing him out of the berth, one statement said—and he plunged a knife he had just sharpened deep into her neck and drew it down across her throat, almost decapitating her.

The jury never heard the story from his own lips. Defense Attorney Leroy Lomax did not call on him to testify.

Being Transferred
At the time of her death, Mrs. James was southbound from Seattle to San Diego, Calif., to which her husband, Ensign Richard F. James, was being transferred. The two were obliged to board separate trains at Portland, Ore., because of a shortage portance of this victory ranks alongside the success of last Sunday when 77 enemy planes, including 58 Junkers-52 transports were destroyed in one engagement, the air force announced.

(The Junkers 52 is designed to carry from 15 to 20 soldiers or 6000 pounds of cargo. It is powered by three engines.)

In all, 38 axis planes were shot down during the day, against an announced loss of five allied aircraft.

Short Fight
The battle with the transports, regarded here as the most important stroke against enemy supply lines since the start of war, lasted less than 10 minutes.

Flames burst from many of the great carriers as they were hit by the fighter bursts. All the transports and the 10 fighters dropped in the sparkling gulf, the sea approach to Tunis. Observers said some transports appeared to be carrying gasoline.

Troops who broke clear of the wreckage were seen struggling in the water.

Our share must not be a nominal share based on biased generalities and phrases, but it must be based on sacrifices in the maintenance of peace by force.—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles.

CAFE OWNERS REMINDED OF PRICE FILING

Owners of restaurants and other eating and drinking establishments in Klamath Falls were reminded today by Edith Tucker of the local price rationing board to file immediately copies of every menu or price list in use during the period of April 4 to April 10.

"If you own or operate a restaurant, hotel, cafe, dining car, bar, delicatessen, soda fountain, catering business or any other eating or drinking place," stated Mrs. Tucker, "it is your direct responsibility to file these lists with your local board."

According to Mrs. Tucker the filing requirements are very simple. A menu, bill of fare, or price list for all meals served during the period of April 4 to April 10 must be signed and filed with the war price and rationing board, 454 Main, not later than May 1. A copy of each menu or price list is to be retained by the establishment. If the menus do not show all the food items, meals or beverages offered during the specified period a supplementary price list must be prepared and submitted. "In the event that eating and drinking establishments do not use menus," continued Mrs. Tucker, "a price list containing every food item, meal and beverage offered during the seven day period must be prepared and submitted to the war price and rationing board before May 1. A filing of menus or prices of foods served during the seven day period from April 4 to April 10 is the first step on an OPA order designed to bring under price control the costs of "eating out."

RANCH HAND NAMED IN ASSAULT CHARGE

Ivan Leeper, ranch hand, arrested at Ely Wednesday on a charge of having no operator's license, was brought into justice court Friday morning and charged with assault and robbery while armed with a dangerous weapon.

Leeper waived preliminary hearing and is in the county jail on $5000 bond. The second charge grew out of an alleged assault against E. M. Prouty, Klamath Falls theatre projectionist, whom, police said, offered to give the man a lift from Bonanza. En route, it is understood, Leeper struck Prouty with a gun, robbed him of $7, and then made off with his car.
