

TUBERCULOSIS POINTED OUT AS TIME BOMB

Martha Shomberger, state statistician and field representative of the Oregon Tuberculosis association, pointed out on a visit here this week that tuberculosis is like a delayed action bomb. The whole nation, she said, must wage war against it.

Miss Shomberger spent several days conferring with the executive committee of the Klamath County Health association on business pertaining especially to the early diagnosis campaign now in progress.

It was announced that Mrs. Sadie Orr-Dunbar, state executive secretary for Oregon T. B. association, will be back on the coast from Washington D. C., to attend the May meeting of the Klamath association.

Every town and community in the county will be asked to have representatives at this meeting. Plans for the coming year include an expanded educational policy, as well as more extensive T. B. testing in schools and among industrial workers.

MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

FORT KLAMATH—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nichols of Fort Klamath have received word from their son, Corporal Harold Nichols, telling them of his appointment as instructor to an armored force class at West Point, New York, where he reported for duty April 1.

Cpl. Nichols, who is well known throughout Klamath county, enlisted in the U. S. army in July, 1942, and served for some time as instructor to a tank division class at Fort Knox, Ky., before being transferred to Camp Campbell, Ky., where he acted in the same capacity to the first armored force class to be organized at that camp. Incidentally, the class, now in charge of Nichols, is also the first armored force group to be formed at West Point.

This appointment is considered a very special honor, inasmuch as only five instructors were eligible for the position which Nichols was successful in obtaining. He holds a high rating as a diesel expert, and will serve as instructor at West Point for three years, or for the duration of the war.

Nichols was also in the U. S. army during the World war, having been stationed at Camp Kearney, Calif., with the 18th ammunition train. His division was ready to go overseas when the armistice brought an end to the war.

The service flag at Midland grange now has six stars. Reggie Andrieu left for the United States army last week. Other members represented on the flag are Wilson Phipps, James Flowers, Verlin Huff, Joe Wright Jr., and Don Shriner.

Word has been received here from Henry F. Jensen, a former resident, that he has recently been promoted to master sergeant. Jensen, who is in the signal corps somewhere in the South Pacific area, writes that the hunting is good, and the boys in his outfit have been augmenting their G. L. rations with a little fresh fowl and meat from time to time. Jensen has been in the army since 1941 and has been overseas for over a year. He worked as a lumber grader at Lamm Lumber company when he was here.

Sergeant Jack Fink, who was a former Klamath Falls state highway employe, has been visiting his wife here on a 15-day furlough. Fink enlisted in the army on November 9, 1942. He is now stationed at Marfa field, Tex., as a mechanic. Mrs. Fink will accompany her husband back to Marfa field at the end of his furlough.

Word has been received here that Jack L. Ray has been transferred from the infantry at Fort Worth, Ark., to the medical corps at Camp Chaffee, Ark. Jack is the brother of Allen Ray of 2027 White avenue.

In Hospital — Freddie McBride, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. McBride of Lenox addition, is receiving medical care at Klamath Valley hospital.

CITY BRIEFS

NEWS from HOME

Well, fellas, it has been a rip-snorting bond selling week here at home. Everybody hereabouts has been digging down in his jeans for cash to help equip you fellows who do the fighting.

It started off with a celebration of Hitler's birthday. Believe it or not, bond sales for that single day ran to $335,000. Big pushes came through a $100,000 purchase by the Klamath Indians and a radio auction by the junior chamber of commerce that netted $185,000.

The campaign went right on through the week, and last night Vivian Dirschl was crowned "sweetheart of Klamath high" at a victory concert at K.U.H.S. Votes for the sweetheart candidates came through bond sales credited to the different classes. Vivian was the sophomore candidate.

Local people showed great interest in the outcome of the trial of Robert Lee Folkes, negro ex-dining car cook, charged with the murder of Martha Brinson James, navy bride, on an S. P. train January 23. Folkes was convicted of first degree murder at Albany and will be sentenced to death. District Attorney L. O. Sisemore of Klamath county helped prosecute the case.

Victory gardening is getting well under way here as folks plan to grow a lot of their own food this year. Copeo came through this week with a credit refund to make it cheaper to water victory gardens.

Local juvenile authorities are continuing their drive to get "khaki-wacky" youngsters off the streets here at night. Two cases developed this week in which parents were brought into court for not keeping their children at home after hours.

Four soldiers from Letterman hospital, San Francisco, are here as guests of the Klamath Commandos, girls' service organization.

COLONISTS TO CLIMB ROCK TO SUNRISE MEET

Thousands of colonists from the Tulelake war relocation project will gather on Castle Rock, atop the rugged Tule Lake peninsula, for Easter sunrise services tomorrow.

The climb to the top of the promontory will begin at 5:15 a. m.

An interdenominational service will be held around a 15-foot cross, with the address given by Father Dai of the Episcopal church. An oratory will be presented by a large chorus, and there will be solo numbers.

Tomorrow afternoon an outdoor spectacle will be staged at the project, and there will be an egg-rolling contest for children, using discs for eggs.

Truck Users Urged to Put Vehicles in Good Condition

Ross Aubrey, inspector in charge of federal state shipping point inspection service in the Klamath basin, today appealed to all ranchers, produce dealers and other persons contemplating the use of trucks during the coming season to start now to see that their vehicles are in first class mechanical condition.

He pointed out that those who delay in putting their equipment in shape may find themselves unable to operate when the rush begins. Shortages of parts and trained mechanics have already seriously curtailed trucking activities and greater difficulties are bound to develop as the season progresses.

Aubrey urged that truck owners, when equipment is idle for mechanical or other reasons, register their vehicles with the office of defense transportation at 204 West Main street in Medford. ODT is striving to meet the problem created by the increased production of foodstuffs coupled with a growing shortage of equipment and an accurate survey of idle units is essential to their program. If the trucker has been unable to obtain parts, he is asked to be sure to describe the part in full detail in order that ODT can utilize their coast wide clearing office of maintenance committees in a search for the needed unit.

For the convenience of farmers, a supply of form CWN-3, upon which idle equipment should be reported, is available at the state department of agriculture office at 619 Pine street in Klamath Falls.

Titus Moved to County Jail

William E. Titus, Bly justice of the peace who is accused of the murder of his wife, Erma, was moved from Klamath Valley hospital to the county jail Friday afternoon.

Titus has been in the hospital recovering from shotgun wounds received at the time his wife died of a shotgun blast at Bly several weeks ago. His arraignment on murder charges is expected in circuit court Monday.

BUDGET COMMITTEE NAMED BY COUNTY

County court budget committee appointments were made Friday. E. M. Hammond, Alfred Collier, and R. C. Woodruff, all of whom served in this capacity last year, were re-appointed.

It's an old American custom

THE trouble today is—all "bottle-necks" aren't glass.

Lack of tin, scrap metal, greases and fats are bottlenecks to production. Advertising brings 'em in to slap the Jap.

"Finding a house" may be your bottleneck today. Or buying a new pair of shoes. Or how to fit your family's nutrition needs to the new "point" system of rationing.

Advertising breaks those bottlenecks, too—right in the pages of this paper. Today and every day. Read the ads—like breaking bottlenecks, it's an old American custom—a particularly good one now.
