Garden Club Hears Talk

"Birds" Topic of Discussion by Mrs. Small On Monday

One of the most interesting meetings of the year for members of the Klamath Falls Garden club was held Monday, April nineteenth. The plant sale, held in the library auditorium, preceded the meeting and was directed by Mrs. Will Wood and Mrs. Horace E. Getz. The venture was a success in every way and many went home with vegetable plants ready for their gardens and many fine perennials for their flower beds.

Mrs. Frederick W. Hamilton presided over the afternoon meeting and announced that all garden club members were invited to see Mrs. Hugh Campbell's spring blossoms which are in full bloom right now. She also urged all members to make an arrangement for the Library club tea in May.

Mrs. Getz presented Mrs. F. O. Small, who gave a most interesting talk on "Birds of the Pacific Coast." In her talk she said that in a million years many birds have not changed in that time. There are three primary colors, browns, yellows, reds, some green and dark brown which are almost black. The mallard duck has yellow under the green and is blue only in reflected light as are many different birds. The oriole, one of the brightest types, is skinned, using willow down, thistle or milk weed in its weaving. An interesting piece of work, and compared to that of a carpenter, was part of a fence post with holes bored into it by a California woodpecker and its winter supply of acorns stored away, was mentioned by Mrs. Small.

Mrs. Small told of another interesting experience, that of a sparrow. She was walking through an orchard and the sparrow came fluttering toward her and kept it up. She knew the bird was in distress, and followed it to where its nest had fallen from a tree and there a garter snake was devouring the eggs.

Beautiful colored slides were shown to the group and nests of birds were on display.

Words of the various birds were discussed by Mrs. Small in one of the most delightful programs of the year.
