Still Champ

James J. Jeffries, 50 pounds heavier than the day he won the heavy-weight boxing title in 1889, meets his 68th birthday with a big smile. Jeffries keeps in the pink by managing a Southern California farm and sponsoring amateur fights in a converted hay barn near Los Angeles.

Bataan Warrior Madel Arrested On Draft Charge

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—The model for the shirt-sleeved warrior on the "I Was At Bataan" treasury department poster which urged the public to buy war bonds, was under arrest yesterday by the FBI, charged with failing to answer a selective service questionnaire sent him by his Spokane, Wash., draft board and failing to report for his physical examination.

He is Maynard Barython Johnson, 38-year-old cashier and extra-order cook at the Bowery

YMCA. Alexander Brook, the artist who drew the poster, was quoted as saying he selected Johnson after searching the streets of New York for a typical American.

People's Utility District Upheld

SALEM, April 27 (AP)—Validity of the northern Wasco county people's utility district was upheld unanimously today by the state supreme court, which denied the Pacific Power and Light company's claim that no PUD can be valid unless voters in every parcel of territory of the district approve it.

Knox Warns of West, East Coast Nuisance Air Raids

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox said today there is "always a chance" of enemy nuisance air raids on either the east or west coast of the United States, but he considers the possibility of such raids remote.

Knox was asked at a press conference whether the Japanese might employ their projected air base on Kiska Island, at the tip of the Aleutians chain, as a base for attacking the west coast by air.

"There's always a danger," he replied, "I think it's very remote, I should say a remote possibility rather than a danger." He considers it remote, he explained, because of improved American defenses, the fact that "we're engaging the enemy elsewhere," and because the Japs "are already spread pretty thin."

Knox added that the country must assume the possibility of air attack remarking "it is not safe for us to do anything else."

The secretary also said that he had "nothing to substantiate" recent reports from Australia that the Japanese are massing at their naval base on the Truk Island group in the South Pacific. By that, he said, there have been reports of "nothing unusual at Truk."

He who laughs first probably told the joke himself.

Army Lacking in Munitions, Claims Service General

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—The army, instead of accumulating a surplus of munitions, is so far from its needs that it will not be able to furnish all troops with basic equipment until late next year, Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the U. S. chamber of commerce, the commanding general of the army service forces asserted categorically "there have been no huge accumulations of stores which could not be moved overseas."
