

FR DEADLINES COAL MINERS WORK RETURN

ignored by John L. Lewis and his associates in the United Mine Workers.

Action came also from the legislative branch of the government, the senate voting to consider on Monday a bill by Senator Connally (D-Tex) authorizing the government to seize struck mines or industrial plants. Connally called Lewis "a dictator."

May Call Troops
Whether troops might be called out in the mine dispute was only a matter of speculation at this stage.

Secretary of War Stimson said "I have no comment" when asked at his press conference whether the army had any plans for moving soldiers into the mine fields.

Mr. Roosevelt sent telegrams to Lewis and Thomas Kennedy, secretary treasurer of the union, in which he asked the men in the mines to "resume work immediately and submit their case to the national war labor board for final determination."

Thus far, the union leaders have ignored efforts of the board to handle the case through a three-man panel set up to investigate the facts.

"The strikes and stoppages in the coal industry that have occurred and are threatened," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "are in clear violation of the 'no strike' pledge."

No More Strikes
"These are not mere strikes against employers of this industry to enforce collective bargaining demands. They are strikes against the United States government itself. These strikes are a direct interference with the prosecution of the war. They challenge the governmental machinery that has been set up for the orderly and peaceful settlement of all labor disputes. They challenge the power of the government to carry on the war."

"The continuance and spread of these strikes would have the same effect on the course of the war as a crippling defeat in the field."

Voicing confidence in the patriotism of the miners, Mr. Roosevelt said he is sure they will return to their jobs when they realize the effect that stopping work would have on men at the fighting front.

WAGE PROGRAM HITS FIR, PINE INDUSTRY

months ago, the commission said. The pine order and the upholding of the fir order put an end to doubts over the commission's program since President Roosevelt recently decreed no wage increases to compensate for inequalities.

The commission emphasized that the orders would prevent injustices which would have resulted from compelling some operators to increase wages without permitting others to offer equal increases to hold and attract the manpower needed for full-scale war production.

Pine operators were warned by the commission, however, that any voluntary pay raises could not be cited as grounds for revision of price ceilings.

AXIS TIGHTENS DEFENSE HOLD ON TUNIS HILLS

Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's first army and the second U. S. army corps.

Germans predominated also on the southern front, where Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's eighth army has been able to gain only two to seven miles since the Enfidaville attack last week despite steady pressure against heavy fortifications throughout both the mountains and the coastal flat lands. But 30 per cent of that axis defense force was reported to be Italian. The temporary seizure of Djebel Dou Aoukaz was the high mark of the allied advance in a week of struggles of attrition.

Offensive Jobs
The offensive of Alexander's 18th army group, led off by Montgomery's assault upon Enfidaville, was likened by De Luce to jabs and heavy lifts with a crowbar.

Only at three points has the enemy retired with little opposition—on the northern coast in front of Moroccan Goums, in the northern hills of the Medjerda valley after the fall of Long Stop hill and from Djebel Mansour to Pont du Fahs under pressure from Gen. Marie Louis Koeltz's re-equipped French corps.

There is little hope that the enemy will collapse in Tunisia so long as supplies and reinforcements continue to reach axis ports and air fields. And they are still coming in, despite powerful allied air assaults against both air and surface craft.

Progress Made
The second U. S. army corps was announced by the communique to have "made further progress and gained some important ground" in its push through the brushy hills of North Tunisia toward Mateur and Bizerte. The 19th French corps in the south, operating at the hinge between the British first and eighth armies, was credited with additional local gains.

The first of the nazi counterattacks against the British penetration was launched by infantrymen supported by 30 tanks at 4:40 p. m. on the Djebel Bou Auokaz, 12 miles northeast of Medjez-el-Bab. The British defenders hurled it back in one of the bloodiest battles of the North African campaign.

TREASURY SECRETARY MORGENTHAU, who is touring the West for the war bond campaign, reveals in San Francisco today that EVERY Chinese man, woman and child in the areas where the Tokyo fliers crash-landed was BUTCHERED by the Japs in reprisal for the help they gave our men in escaping.

ANGER grips us.

Also this thought burns in our minds:
What these Chinese men, women and children suffered FOR OUR MEN lays upon us the obligation to see that they are not left helpless (as they have been, practically, so far) in their conflict with these Japanese savages.

THE Russians today continue their pounding of the German communication lines, which is the usual prelude to heavy ground action.

A German military commentator says in a broadcast that the Russians launched their "expected large-scale attack" on the Kuban bridgehead this morning.

No reference to such a move comes from Moscow, but the Germans have often told us first of the beginning of large-scale Russian fighting.

retary Anthony Eden and Ivan Maisky, the Russian ambassador to London, talked about the situation this morning.

The Daily Mail said Churchill and Roosevelt had been in direct contact, presumably by trans-Atlantic telephone.

The Russian government severed relations with the Polish leaders over the latter's request for the International Red Cross to investigate German charges that 10,000 Polish officers had been slaughtered by the Russians.

The London Polish government reply last night did not reiterate the request for an inquiry, but emphasized that the Polish government had no claims to soviet territory and denied any quixotic-like dealings with Germany.

MOSCOW, April 29 (AP)—Tadeusz Romer, ambassador of the London Polish government-in-exile, left Moscow today for Kuibyshev with members of his staff preparatory to leaving the soviet union.

United States Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley and British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr were among those wishing Romer farewell.

The belief prevailed in certain quarters here, however, that the soviets "suspending" of relations means that hope has not been abandoned completely for repairing the breach between the two governments.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex.—Joseph James Voyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Voyer, 419 High street, Klamath Falls, graduated from the naval air training center, Corpus Christi, this week, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States marine corps reserve.

Lt. Voyer, former student of the Stanford university, M.I.T., where he was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, volunteered for flight training last July and received preliminary flight instruction at the Oakland, Calif., naval air station. He was home on leave this past week.

Netherlands Army Told to Report
LONDON, April 28 (AP)—Aneta, Netherlands news agency, quoted the Berlin radio today as announcing that all former members of The Netherlands armed forces had been ordered to "report" to German authorities. It said the move was believed to preface internment of these men, totaling approximately 400,000.

cast, intercepted by U. S. government Monitors, putting Japanese air-raid wardens on the alert.

"A raid similar to that of April 18 last year will be carried out," the broadcast said.

Other Developments
While emphasis fell on the Pacific struggle, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau disclosed in San Francisco that the Japanese had committed another horror of blood-letting.

Other developments in the far Pacific war:
Australia—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Dutch-manned U. S. planes bombed and machine-gunned two Japanese ships in the Arafura sea. Other allied fliers attacked the enemy in New Guinea, New Ireland and New Britain, and a single U. S. Flying Fortress fought off seven Japanese fighters and returned to base undamaged.

Burma—British headquarters said Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's forces beat off a series of Japanese infiltration thrusts on the Arakan front, along the Bay of Bengal.
