

DELIVERY CUT IN LAKEVIEW MAIL SERVICE

LAKEVIEW — Effective last Monday, Lakeview mail patrons and those served out of the local postoffice are left with but one dispatch daily from Klamath Falls, the Red Ball stage line having removed its first class mail stage from service. Due to this change, it is now impossible for local people to receive letters from the west and have a reply off the same day.

While the Red Ball stage is due in Lakeview at 2 p. m., war conditions have resulted in its being late most of the time. The stage, however, is due out of Lakeview at 2:50 p. m. Under the new setup, mail going to Klamath Falls closes at 2:20, the latest the postoffices can accept mail going west.

The stage going south to Alturas is due out of Lakeview at 1 p. m., and the latest it can be held is 2 o'clock. This means that farmers on the Alturas route will not receive their daily newspapers until the day following their arrival in Lakeview.

Closing time at the postoffice on mail going north to Burns will be 1:45 p. m.
