threat to our positions in the Butedung area."

It remained to be seen whether the Japanese were opening a major offensive aimed at India. British military quarters said the approaching monsoon floods would prevent any large-scale operations, but the Japanese have repeatedly ignored obstacles of nature as they illustrated in striking through the "impenetrable" Malaya jungles to capture Singapore.

Air Attacks
The British command said RAF warplanes carried out extensive attacks on Japanese troops on the Mayu peninsula, strafed enemy river shipping, and bombed Akyab and the freight yards at Mandalay.

In the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers flew 1400 miles round-trip across the Aratura sea to blast the enemy base at Rabo, Dutch New Guinea, setting fires visible 70 miles, and dropped 21 tons of explosives on the enemy at Madang, New Guinea.

Manufacturing Will Increase Logging Labor

manufacturing and use of waste as fields in which the suggested process may be demonstrated.

Recalling that his predecessor, Lyle Watts, two years ago forecast drastic reduction in timber cutting 15 or 20 years hence, Andrews pointed out that the huge wartime demand for timber is causing the stumpage supply to drop off more abruptly than Watts had predicted.

"But we have a war to fight and we must win it," he said. Andrews pointed out that the bulk of cutting on both private and public lands in this area is on a selective basis. That procedure, he said, will maintain the supply if the annual loss from forest fire is kept to a minimum.

War Uses
Andrews told of the extensive war uses of wood, and said he believed that out of the war would come increased peace-time uses of this material.

"Forest defense is national defense," he said. The regional forester was introduced by A. J. Voye, president of the Western Pine association. Walter Wiesendanger, head of the American Legion's Stop Forest Fires committee, presided.

Neelson Rogers, state forester, told of the effort being made to obtain federal funds for fire emergency this summer, and said that progress has been reported by Senators McNary and Holman, who are working on this project.

Entertainment was provided by the high school string orchestra. Miss Patricia Brown, who sang three selections, Eddie Burroughs who sang two numbers, and Mrs. Shepherd, who accompanied both singers.

RETROACTIVE PAY HEARING STARTS

union's position on the question of retroactive pay dates. He contended that the retroactive dates should be based on the date of the first notifications given employers wherein questions of wages were opened.

Pearson explained, at a recess, that in general, the notification dates were about February 10, 1942. He said notifications were sent out in the latter part of January and the first of February to the various companies, with February 10 the approximate date covering all of them. Varying contract provisions might affect the dates as to various companies.

Employers, who were to give their positions later in the day, are understood to have taken the position that the pay increases should be retroactive to certain dates much later than those urged by the union. Pearson contended that October 29, a date he said the companies have mentioned, is not a fair date for the beginning of the pay increase.

Dates Not Told
When the lumber commission made the pine awards, it did not specify the retroactive dates, but agreed to send in a referee where disputes arose.

Question of jurisdiction of the referee in this hearing arose, and representatives of several companies and the union made statements on this issue. Kesterson Lumber corporation of Klamath Falls pointed out that since the case first developed, CIO has become the bargaining agent for Kesterson employees instead of the AFL. The company asked for permission to put a statement on this question in the record before the hearing adjourned.

CIO hearings on the same question are slated for next Friday.

axis submarines has not been confirmed.

The implication is that we're collecting an expedition at Gibraltar and that axis subs sneaked into the bay and started shooting.

THE Germans (having lost Tunisia) are muttering in their beads today about invading England. They speak of "massed attacks" by air, U-boats and maybe "new and terrible" weapons.

Use your head. If we'd just lost Australia, we'd be muttering in our beads about invading Japan.

TODAY'S dispatches indicate that we not only OUTFOUGHT the Germans in Tunisia. We FOOLED them also.

Noland Norgaard (AP correspondent with the British) says they had expected the blow to fall farther south (toward Pont du Fahs or Enfidaville) and so had weakened their forces before Tunis and Bizerte.

Pooling the enemy and hitting him where he isn't looking for it is one of the chief elements of good leadership.

Good leaders are ESSENTIAL to the winning of wars.

THIS question is naturally in your mind: "Now that we've got Africa (all but the mopping up) what will it do for us?"

It will give us another base from which to threaten Hitler's fortress of Europe.

HITHERTO we've had only Britain—which was a tip-off to the Germans that we'd have to attack them somewhere from Spain to Finland, thus enabling them to CONCENTRATE their defenses in this relatively smaller area.

NOW we can attack anywhere from Finland to the Dardanelles, thus forcing Hitler to SPREAD his defending forces over this immensely vaster coastline.

Forcing the other fellow to SPREAD HIMSELF TOO THIN is one of the major strategies of war.

Count Fleet Wins Preakness Stakes Today

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Baltimore, May 8 (AP)—Count Fleet won the Preakness stakes today. Blue Swords was second, eight lengths behind the leader, and Vincentive was third, another 44 lengths farther back. The Count, winner of the Kentucky derby a week ago, ran the mile and three sixteenths in 1:57 2/5—just two-fifths of a second off the stake record and one second off the track record for the distance.

half of his work will be in the high school where he will work with the strings, orchestra, and vocal classes. O'Connor is married and has one child.
