Non-competitive Flower Exhibit Slated for Monday Afternoon Tea and Meeting

Members of the Klamath Falls Woman's Library club will gather in the main auditorium of the city library for the last time this year at two o'clock Monday afternoon and will elect officers, hear the reports of standing committee members, and enjoy a silver tea and non-competitive flower arrangement show.

Mrs. A. G. Proctor, retiring president, will conduct the business meeting which will open the afternoon's program.

The nominating committee is made up of Mrs. Albert O. Roenicke, Mrs. Ernest D. Lamb and Mrs. E. M. Raymond.

All committee heads are asked to have their reports ready for presentation.

Following the business session there will be a silver tea and those making arrangements for this delightful affair are Mrs. E. D. Hamacher, Mrs. Warren C. Hunt, Mrs. Alfred Collier, Mrs. George Cornell and Mrs. Kenneth G. Klahn.

Those on the hospitality committee for the last meeting are Mrs. L. F. Tyrrell and Mrs. Leo N. Huls. Mrs. Proctor hopes for an excellent turnout for the silver tea as all money derived from the affair will go to the Commandos for use in their work among the service men.

Lilacs, tulips, some early iris, and other spring blossoms will be on display in a non-competitive exhibit which is being arranged by members of the Garden club, under Mrs. Frederick W. Hamilton, president of the group. Those who have flowers are asked to bring them in arrangements or, if they wish, as specimen exhibits. The warm days of early spring have brought many gardens into lovely bloom and it is hoped that there will be an excellent display. The public is invited.

This is the last meeting until the September gathering which has been, in years past, a luncheon to start off the year's program.

Beauty IS YOUR DUTY

By RITA WHISENANT Licensed Cosmetologist

YOUNG mothers-to-be, especially those expecting for the first time, should take special note to care for their hair... often difficult in itself without the hazard of pre-natal systemic changes.

There is a wonderful treatment for excessively oily scalps (a frequent pre-natal condition). It is based on an astringent to help tighten the over-relaxed glands in the scalp. Brushing is in order here, too.

If you haven't had a permanent, try to wait until after the arrival, getting your hair in perfect condition in the meantime.

AFTER the infant is here, keep right on pampering your hair. You won't notice falling hair until about three months after the child's birth, because it takes about three months for hair to die. If you get at it the minute you come home from the hospital you probably can avoid a disastrous fall of hair later. There's a special hair preparation to be used at this time, too.

Beauty perks you up. —RITA.
