Will He Recover?

Klamath has over 4000 men in the armed forces. It would be a black day indeed if one of these young men should die on the field of battle for want of surgical dressings.

The way is left open for just such a tragedy unless more women volunteer for Red Cross surgical dressing work. If 100 more women join those who now are loyally working, and give just three hours a week of their time, our quota will be made.

Surely there are 100 women with sons, husbands, brothers or friends in the service who will accept this responsibility. Phone the Red Cross, 7184, for information on working times.
