NURSES NEEDED FOR CIVILIAN, ARMY DUTIES

The army's need for nurses is not being met. The need is increasing each month—yet nurses are turning a deaf ear to this call. According to recent information from National Red Cross headquarters, applications for army nursing service are falling off alarmingly throughout the country.

Nurses in large numbers are now being transferred from station hospitals in this country and sent overseas to take care of our soldiers wounded in combat. As rapidly as possible these wounded boys are sent back home for special and continued treatment. Many of them will need long months of careful nursing staff. Without an adequate staff of nurses army hospitals cannot give the care these boys have rightfully earned. The number of soldiers needing care will increase until the war is won.

Graduate nurses, your country needs you. Every graduate nurse is needed. Every nurse who can possibly serve in the military forces is needed now. Nurses who cannot serve our army and navy are needed at home. Our country cannot afford to have idle nurses now—it cannot afford to have nurses who are not serving to the full extent of their abilities.

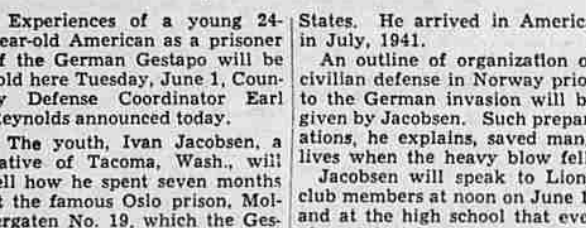

Funeral Services Arranged for Portland Banker

PORTLAND, May 28 (AP)—Funeral arrangements were being made here today for John C. Ainsworth, 73, Portland financier, who died last night at his home.

Chairman of the board of the United States National bank, he also held directorships in the Portland General Electric company, Pacific Power & Light company, Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, the Portland branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and the Hawley Pulp & Paper company.

Escaped Gestapo Prisoner To Tell Experiences Here

Experiences of a young 24-year-old American as a prisoner of the German Gestapo will be told here Tuesday, June 1, County Defense Coordinator Earl Reynolds announced today.

The youth, Ivan Jacobsen, a native of Tacoma, Wash., will tell how he spent seven months at the famous Oslo prison, Mollergaten No. 19, which the Gestapo now has made well-known by the brutalities practiced there.

Jacobsen, on behalf of the Royal Norwegian Information services is making a nationwide tour to stimulate interest in civilian defense.

When the Germans invaded Norway in April, 1940, Jacobsen, on the staff of Mrs. Daisy Harriman, U. S. minister to Norway, helped evacuate Americans from Norway.

In December, 1940, he was transferred to the U. S. embassy at Moscow, but when he reached the Swedish border, the Gestapo nabbed him and sent him to Mollergaten No. 19.

After four months in solitary confinement in the dirty, crowded prison, Jacobsen pretended to have appendicitis, was transferred to a hospital, and escaped, hiding in the homes of Norwegian friends.

But, upon learning the nazis were about to take reprisals against the friends who had harbored him, Jacobsen returned voluntarily to the prison.

After a few more weeks, Jacobsen broke his arm by intentionally dropping his cot on it, just so he could go back to the hospital and escape again. But before he could escape, he was transferred to Germany, where he was exchanged for a German prisoner held by the United States.

"Rubber-Necking" Out for New York

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—That venerable New York pastime—a Sunday bus ride along Fifth avenue or Riverside drive on a hot summer afternoon—may soon be a casualty of the eastern gasoline shortage.

In fact, New Yorkers, as well as out-of-town visitors bent on "rubber-necking," possibly will have to take to their No. 17 rations this Sunday if they want to enjoy Hudson river breezes or peek into Fifth avenue's fashionable shop windows.

Snell Committee Urges Higher Price To Milk Producers

PORTLAND, May 28 (AP)—Higher ceiling prices to Oregon milk producers were urged upon OPA regional officials in San Francisco yesterday by a committee appointed by Governor Snell.

The group asked a minimum of $1.00 per pound butterfat, f.o.b. distributors' plants, for all but the Portland area. There it urged not less than $1.10 per pound. The current ceiling is 92 1/2 cents a pound.

Gyroscopes mounts for automatic cameras have been devised so that the camera remains vertical when the plane tilts.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Hitler's U-Boat menace must be liquidated. Nothing is more effective than the Depth Bomb or "ash cans," as our sailors call them. Three hundred pounds of canned TNT deep into the sea does the job. They cost about $105 each.

Our sub chasers must be equipped with enough of these cans of latent hell to drive the U-Boats out of the seas. You can help do the job here on the home front by buying War Bonds, more and more War Bonds every payday. Americans must meet the acid test of War Bonds and War Taxes.
