Berries launch the canning season

The moment berries start coming into market, it's the signal for canning to get under way. It's good nutrition, too, for by canning berries, you're tucking away vitamins and minerals for future health.

CANNING BERRIES—The hot pack method—Wash berries and remove stems or hulls. For each quart of berries, add 1/2 to 1 cup of sugar; boil 3 to 4 minutes, stirring gently. Pour while still scalding hot into hot, sterilized quart jars to 1/4 inch from top. Seal and process in "Boiling Water Bath" for 5 minutes.

CANNING BERRIES—Cold Pack Method—Pack washed, hulled, uncooked berries into hot, sterilized jars, cover with boiling, light to medium syrup (1/2 to 1 cup sugar heated to boiling with 2 cups water) to within 1/2 inch of top of jar, adjust jar lids and process in "Boiling Water Bath" for 20 minutes.

CANNING JUICE FOR FUTURE JELLIES—Wash, hull and crush berries and heat without water 5 to 10 minutes. Extract juice from pulp by straining and pressing through double thickness of wet cheesecloth. Pour into hot, sterilized jars to 1/2 inch from top. *Process (see above) for 20 minutes.

FOR JELLY MAKING—By canning the juice in this manner, it is a simple thing to make jellies whenever there's enough sugar saved up. You'll find many other uses for this fruit juice too, if you've been foresighted and canned enough. It is delightful to add to punch or fruit drinks. Just add sugar to taste and add water if it is to go a long way.

HOW MUCH? It takes about 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 pounds of berries to give 1 quart of canned berries, and a little more for a quart of fruit juice.

Melting ice can't kill sparkle in drinks made with CANADA DRY WATER
ITS "PIN-POINT CARBONATION" LASTS!
P.S. Its special formula makes any drink taste better.
