Lt. Ted Shoop, Part of Embarkation, Seattle, Wn.

Dear Ted:

When you left for the Army last fall, you said to keep up this end of it and that you'd represent the firm—wearing the khaki britches.

We're keeping the business going, so don't worry about that. It's not like when we had the warehouse full of good old U. S. tires, but we're running 24 hours a day recapping (except when we run out of camelback).

But I'm also finding out some new things about "keeping up this end."

At Kiwanis Club the other day, the boys agreed to sponsor the War Bond drive for June. The Lions raised enough in May to buy a Flying Fortress. Named it the "Klamath Pelican." Well, we're going to see to it that enough Bonds are bought to get four Fighter Planes to escort the "Pelican."

And these fighters will be named after the four communities in the county with the highest Bond sales. Klamath Falls can be credited to any community. (All the fighting isn't being done at your end).

That's what I mean by "keeping up this end"—buying the regular 10% in Bonds, and then going out and BUYING SOME!

Give my best to any of the Klamath boys you run into, and I'll let you know how the Fighters are named in a couple of weeks.

Yours,
Jack
