

JAYCEE HEAD RETURNS FROM WAR MEETING

Just returned from the National Junior Chamber of Commerce war conference in Chicago is Paul A. Lee of Klamath Falls. He attended the conference in his capacity as president of the Oregon state junior chamber.

The meeting was held on the 12, 13, and 14 of June in the LaSalle hotel in downtown Chicago, and was devoted to discussion of war problems and other items related to winning the war. All frivolities were cut out this year and the length of the conference was cut from five to three days.

One of the outstanding resolutions presented to the delegates was the introduction of a fifth freedom, the opportunity for industrial enterprise. Reports were also submitted on the activities of the local units of the junior chamber of commerce throughout the United States. Among the things that the Klamath unit has done are cleanup campaigns, public health projects and other things pertaining to the war effort.

Among the speakers at the conference were Brigadier General Hershey of the selective service office, Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, and DeWitt Emery, president of the National Small Manufacturers association.

Lee reported that travel conditions were terrible although he was lucky enough to get reservations on the streamliner both ways. He also commented on the fact that the middle west seems oblivious to the war and its problems. Meat rationing also does not seem to have much effect in Chicago, where he reported that the hotels had about all the meat that they wanted.

Alice A. Applegate has just received a letter appointing her a teacher in the public schools of the Philippine islands. Miss Applegate is a native of Klamath county, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan D. Applegate. We all can feel a just pride in the honor shown Miss Applegate, yet we are selfish enough to feel regret at the loss to our town of one of its brightest teachers. Morey Applegate, a brother, is now in the Philippines collecting an exhibit for the St. Louis fair.

From the Klamath News June 21, 1933

Ronald and Robert Trotman, young sons of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Trotman of Merrill, had their tonsils removed at Hillside hospital.

A survey today showed the majority of Klamath mill operators in an uncertain condition as to the extensiveness of summer operations. Practically all are running enough to care for current orders. A very few seemed unconcerned as to future restrictions and are moving along in the best way present financial conditions will permit.

Approximately 800 children have registered for the summer vacation school.
