

Americans Use No Bombs To Knock Off Nationals In Major All Star Battle

By SID FEDER

PHILADELPHIA, July 14 (AP)—Like the guy who doesn't need money because he has a million dollars in the bank, the American league finally has proved it doesn't need the Yankees—as long as it can do the bombers' tricks with a bat.

This, naturally, is the home-run or a reasonable facsimile thereof—a Yankee specialty from 'way back in baseball. And, while Manager Joe McCarthy didn't use a single member of the bomber brigade in knocking off the National leaguers 5 to 3 last night in the 11th edition of the all-star slugging party, the way it happened made you look quick to be sure it wasn't a Yankee putting on the crusher.

But this time it was Robert Pershing Doerr, the Los Angeles "Lulu" who has been playing a lot of infield for the Boston Red Sox, but has more or less been the second-base shadow cast by the Yanks' Joe Gordon for several seasons. Well, Joe the Flash was just the "American league bench jockey" last night, and the Nationals went out in front with a run in the first inning and were just bouncing along behind Mort Cooper.

Then, in the second, before you or the 31,938 cash customers knew what was cooking, the roof fell in, and it was the old Yankee story dressed up in a Red Sox suit.

Mort's fireball lost its control for just a couple of minutes and he walked Chet Laabs, the St. Louis Browns' nimble fly-chaser, and Jake Early, Washington's work horse catcher.

Then up stepped Robert Pershing. Mort slid a curve ball off the finger he'd blistered a few hours before, apparently showing how not to light a cigarette. Bobby aimed it at the left field stands, and it just barely gasped its way into the lower seats. A yard shorter, and it would have been only a fly out.

That was your ball game, and for all the rest of the game meant to the final result, the boys might just as well have gone to the movies for the rest of the evening. The Americans simply ambled to their eighth win in the 11 all-star games, which are rapidly turning into plain old-fashioned nightmares to the Nationals.

Waterman Makes Little Money on Garrison Battle

PORTLAND, July 14 (AP)—Matchmaker Joe Waterman said today he counted $13,499 as the gate after the Rodolfo Ramirez-Jimmy Garrison fight Monday, but when he finished paying expenses only $65 was left.

Even this was somewhat of a relief to Waterman, who thought for a while he was $1000 in the hole. It seems one of his assistants somehow misplaced $1100. It was found later.

Commission to Establish Bird Reserve at Creswell

EUGENE, July 14 (AP)—The state game commission intends to establish a migratory bird reserve, the only one of its kind in the Willamette valley, near Creswell in the Camas swale region.

Options have been taken on 1500 acres of land, of which half will be used as a shooting grounds, the commission announced.

Western Sports Streamline

By RUSS NEWLAND
PORTLAND, July 14 (AP)—A missing persons bureau: Baseball's forgotten man of the Pacific coast league is little, self-effacing Edmund J. (E. J.) Scheffer.

He is the man who bobbed up, unknown, to purchase the Portland club something like nine years ago. . . . He bought it for a fair price and sold last year on the same kind of a deal. . . . His profit couldn't be exactly described as in the "important money" class. . . .

Some baseball people think Scheffer is the unluckiest man to become affiliated with the coast loop in its 40-year history. . . . He sold before the boom. . . . Attendances are up some 15 per cent this season. . . . Fresh money and thousands of new residents along the coast have proven a tonic out this way for a sport which some veterans eyed gloomily as late as last February. . . .

Charles Graham, president of the San Francisco Seals, was one who viewed baseball's fate with downright pessimism. . . . He has since admitted he had gauged the public's attitude incorrectly. . . . The Seals are making more dough than in many a season. . . . Besides they just sold their young outfield star, George Metkovich to the Boston Red Sox for $25,000 and a pretty fair replacement player. . . .

In view of the new deal. . . . Increased attendances and gate receipts. . . . Scheffer's wisdom in disposing of his Portland holdings is questioned by some. . . . But not by old E. J. . . . Business was one long lasting headache. . . . He wonders now why he ever got into it. . . . Twenty wild horses couldn't drag him back now. . . . Even if he saw a profit staring him in the face, pleading "come and get me." . . .

Scheffer was a strange, forlorn figure in the game. . . . He did not make friends easily and had few. . . . We're one of them and glad to make the statement. . . . When he told you something he meant it and backed it up. . . . We'll take such people any time. . . .

He owned the Portland club eight years, which he says, "was three years too long." . . . His 1936 team won the pennant yet was lucky to wind up in the black. . . .

In other lines Scheffer's story was one of success. . . . He hauled himself up by his own bootstraps after hitch-hiking into this country from Canada, most of the way by the heel and toe method, in 1904. . . . He built up a thriving business here as a druggist and manufacturing pharmacist. . . . Then he got into baseball, because his son, Rollie, had been a catcher at Notre Dame. . . .

Scheffer lives in retirement now, still lonely. . . . His son Rollie is a lieutenant in the army, overseas. . . . His other boy, Bob, a doctor, is a commissioned officer stationed in Texas. . . . The old man lives alone, probably unknown to nine-tenths of the population of Portland. . . . Such is fame. . . .

Few know this. . . . His middle initial stands for no name. . . . His middle name was "Ignatius." . . . He didn't like it and assumed the initial "J." . . . Canine capers: This city is the paradise of dog racing people. . . . A sport that was chased out of California does land office business here. . . . Bettors break down the gates to get their money on the line. . . . Dick Doering, one of the officials, estimates the meeting will have an average daily handle well over $125,000. . . . Some 75 per cent of the play is on the "quinella," pick the first and second dog whether they run 1-2 or 2-1. . . . There are eleven quinella betting windows. . . . War relief agencies have benefited by some $40,000 from the meeting.

Portlanders, Angels Pull Win Streak

Los Angeles Men Lengthen First Place Lead to 12 Games by Padre Victory

By The Associated Press
The Portland Beavers and the Los Angeles Angels went right along with their winning ways in the only two games that were played in the Pacific Coast Baseball league yesterday.

The Beavers, newly broke into third place in the league scramble, kept right on climbing with a 5 to 2 victory over the Hollywood Stars. The Beavers knocked off the Stars on their home grounds by virtue of a four-run spree in the seventh inning. The uprising was helped along by four errors and a couple of bases on balls donated by the Stars.

The Angels, not having any place to climb ahead of first place, where they've been all season, merely lengthened third lead to a full 12 games over the second place San Francisco Seals by taking a 2 to 1 victory from the Padres at San Diego.

The Angels combined two hits and two Padre errors in the third inning to push across their two runs.

The Seals and the Oakland Acons, idle insofar as the league was concerned, put together an all-star combination which took a 14 to 3 trimming from an all-star army-navy team which was composed almost exclusively of major league players, who rapped out 16 hits and played errorless ball. The $3,937.83 the game produced went to the army-navy athletic fund.

Rainiers Trade Outfielder for Two Other Players

SEATTLE, July 14 (AP)—The exchange of Outfielder Lynn King for Pitcher John Babich and Outfielder Lloyd Christopher of the Kansas City Blues was announced last night by the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast league.

Babich will be used as a replacement for Hal Turpin who retired to his Oregon farm. Both he and Christopher have played in the Coast league before. Ownership will remain with the original clubs.

Four Starters Assured for Haegg Mile Race Saturday

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14 (AP)—An entry of four starters was assured today for Gunder Haegg's mile race at Kezar stadium Saturday.

Johnny Fulton, Stanford middle distance star, announced he will join Gil Dodds of Boston and Bobby Madrid on the starting line with the Swedish distance champion.

ALL-STAR ADDITION

CHICAGO, July 14 (AP)—The addition of Iowa's Bob Penaluna and Michigan State's Jack Fenton to the College All-Star squad brought the roster up to 26 players today. Penaluna, a guard, is the 14th lineman and Fenton, a halfback, is the 12th back to be selected for the team which will meet the Washington Redskins, National Football league champions, August 25 in Dyche stadium, Evanston.

HICKS NOW WAVE

CHICAGO, July 14 (AP)—Elizabeth (Betty) Hicks, former national women's golf champion, was ordered to report today to the Spars, coast guard auxiliary. She will represent that unit of the armed forces in the All-American tournament at Tam O'Shanter country club next week.

Gearhart Mountain Area Proposed as "Primitive"

Hunters were interested in the notice posted here this week announcing an area of approximately 18,709 acres including Gearhart mountain and the high country immediately surrounding it, proposed as a wild or primitive area by the secretary of agriculture.

This particular section lies in the Fremont National forest and offers some of the finest deer hunting in this section of southern Oregon. If the area is classified as "wild," there will be no construction of roads, summer homes, hotels, resorts, or commercial cutting of timber, it was announced.

Naming of the Gearhart mountain area does not involve any of the operating companies, timbermen said.

Legal notices, showing boundaries of the area, were posted at the Klamath county courthouse. Unless objection is filed within 90 days, the classification will go through, foresters said.

Carefully controlled grazing of domestic livestock will be permitted and development of small water storage projects which will not involve road construction may be permitted subject to careful regulation, according to Edward P. Cliff, forest supervisor of Fremont.

The Gearhart mountain area is one of the largest imbered, roadless areas remaining in southern Oregon. Because of its rugged nature and presence of fine mountain streams, and peculiar geological formation, it is ideally adapted for primitive recreation use. It will be the purpose to preserve Gearhart mountain in all its primitive grandeur, Cliff said. Most of the timber it supports is non-commercial. There are a few small patches of ponderosa pine timber, but they are not of sufficient size to be of commercial importance.

Sports Briefs

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14 (AP)—"When you have two men on and someone hits a home run, the damage is done," remarked Billy Southworth, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the National league All-Stars. . . . And that just about sums up last night's game in which the National leaguers took their customary shellacking from the American leaguers. . . . Things looked quite rosy for the senior circuit until Mort Cooper walked a couple of guys in the second and along came Bobby (the swings) Doerr and boom. . . . The ball game was practically over.

BLISTERED MISTER

The blister on Mort Cooper's finger, which came from a misguided match, provided a lot on pre-game conversation but Mort tried his best to keep from using it as an alibi. . . . He lost his control a little, he said—and that was the only trouble with his pitching. . . .

Al Del Greco, Hackensack, N. J., Bergen Record: "I wonder if umps have nightmares and see the wide open mouths of Frank Frisch and Leo Durocher before their eyes. . . . Those umps, over a season, see more tonsils than doctors." . . .

CLEANING THE CUFF

The ball players don't get any pay for the All-Stars games, but they get into the park free and get two extra tickets thrown in. . . . For the first time non-workers were admitted to the press box. . . . There weren't enough scribes to fill the 300-odd seats, the rest were sold to bring in a few more bucks for the baseball equipment fund. . . . The manpower shortage was reflected in the feminine ushers and in a trio of boys about 16 who smoothed the base paths before the game—but most of all in the line-ups.

ALBINA LOSES

PORTLAND, July 14 (AP)—With their famous no-hit pitcher, Don Johnson, playing in the outfield, the Albina American Legion Junior baseball team bowed to the Willamette Iron and Steel team, 6-7, yesterday. St. Johns defeated Froskist, 10-6, and Brunos edged the Elks, 3-2, in other games.

Turpin Leaves Rainiers for Joys of Farm

SEATTLE, July 14 (AP)—Hal Turpin, ace hurler for Seattle in the Pacific Coast league, will be seen no more this year in a Rainier uniform.

Turpin, a consistent 20-game winner, has decided to devote all his time to his Yoncalla, Oregon, farm, it was learned last night. He had been expected to pitch weekends for the Rainiers when they played in Portland and Seattle but telephoned club officials last night that the shortage of farm labor made even that plan impossible.

Pafko Still Leads Coast Bat Averages

LOS ANGELES, July 14 (AP)—Hitting a robust 390 despite a 13 point slump in the past week, the Angels' Andy Pafko continues in the van of the Pacific Coast league batters on the basis of games including last Sunday's.

The Angel outfielder's record includes 142 hits in 384 times at bat, with 13 home runs and 80 tallies driven in.

Still in second place as big Johnny Dickshot of the Hollywood Stars, with a percentage of .382. Roy Hughes of Los Angeles holds third spot with .347 and in fourth place is San Diego's George Detore with .337. Les Scarsella, Oakland, completes the big five with a respectable .332.

Portland is in sixth place in the team batting standings with .254 and Seattle in last place with .247.

Ed Carnett leads the Seattle batters with a .294, followed by Joe Dobbins with .293 and Len Gabrielson with .292.

Ted Gill leads the Portland team with a .280.

MEDALIST HONORS

SPOKANE, July 14 (AP)—Betty Jeann Rucker took medalist honors with an 81 over the Downriver golf course in the women's city golf tournament yesterday. Men's par for the course is 72.

Babe Ruth Nurses Happy Bruises—Scores 69 in Golf

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Babe Ruth came back from his Boston charity baseball appearance, nursing a bruised shin bone where a foul ball hit, but elated over shooting a 69 in golf for the first time.

It happened last week at North Hills, he told his close friend Jack Schaffer. He went around in a three-under-par 34-35, in spite of three-putting the 16th.
