

Bond and Stamp Sales to Be Encouraged by Women's Card Club at Camp Four

War bond and stamp sales in Weyerhaeuser Camp 4 during July will be encouraged by the women's card club of which Mrs. Lee Prescott is chairman.

On July 14 Ida Momyer Odell and Norma Adams Miller of Klamath Falls visited in Camp 4 and outlined the Klamath county drive put on by women's clubs during the month.

Mrs. Prescott appointed Mrs. Earl Cruickshank, Mrs. Hal Ogle and Mrs. Wayne Knapp to conduct the local drive.

Payroll Deductions
The first effort was to find out how successfully and completely the payroll deduction plan is being carried out.

Company officials report that near the middle of the month there were 140 men on the woods payroll at Camp 4. Of these 87 were having $1784.50 deducted from their checks for the purchase of war bonds during the month.

Saving Stamps
Saving stamps are available at the Camp 4 store but Mrs. Harry Carroll reports that sales have been poor since the close of school.

A national drive is on to encourage each person to put one dollar extra in saving stamps during the month of July to buy how successfully and completely the payroll deduction plan is being carried out.

Company officials pointed out to the women's committee that the 20 per cent withholding tax on incomes should not cause a reduction of bond purchases among persons who understand the law, since the amount withheld during a year will not be much greater and may be no larger than income taxes last year.

It is merely withheld each month instead of being paid in a lump sum on March 15 or in quarterly installments beginning on that date. Only income above a certain amount is taxed, not total income. Future tax laws may be more severe, but then there may also be a time at the close of the war when war bonds will buy a good deal more than the same money would buy today.

After the women's committee has talked with women living in camp they will decide whether they think it advisable to sponsor a sweetheart for Captain Jack, a community dance or other special activity to encourage the sale of war stamps and bonds locally.

Making a willow trap, Mr. Howard caught it and named her Tuffy. She is about the size of a shepherd dog and has long, wiry hair covering her face. Her hair is whitish tan, her tail is bobbed. The logging crew has had glimpses of her in their working but no one had ever gotten very close 'til Mr. Howard caught her. Almost at once she became a tame house pet.

Missing Tulelake Major Identified in Picture of Jap Prisoners in China

TULELAKE—First encouraging word received by Mr. and Mrs. Clark W. Fensler, that their eldest son, Major Robert Fensler, serving with the 14th air forces under General Chennault, may have escaped from the jungles of China into which the craft fell in China came this week through a newspaper clipping from Major Fensler's wife now in Missouri.

Mrs. Fensler found a picture of seven American airmen, reported by a St. Louis newspaper from a Japanese magazine over the caption, "Recent American prisoners held by Japanese in Woosung, China." None of the seven were identified but Mrs. Fensler and the Major's parents, by comparison are positive that one of the seven is Major Fensler.

Clark Fensler, late Wednesday stated that so far as the family was concerned the identification was positive, but that copies of the paper were being forwarded to members of Major Fensler's squadron to attempt to verify the identification.

On July 18, Mr. and Mrs. Fensler received word from General Chennault's chief of staff that Major Fensler, riding in a plane piloted by Captain Huffman had been forced down in what was believed to be impenetrable jungle on March 21.

No previous word had been received as to his fate since the formal announcement that the young flier was missing only one week after his arrival in India.

Men lost in the dense jungles according to the letter received from General Chennault's headquarters have a poor chance for survival and since few Americans have been captured in Japanese-occupied territory in China the Fenslers are confident that their son is a prisoner.

Mrs. Robert Fensler and baby daughter Barbara are with Mrs. Fensler's parents in Missouri, leaving here only a few weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. Fensler have two other sons, Dick and Jack, also in the service.
