War Photographer Posted as Missing After Plane Crash

By VERN HAUGLAND
SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, July 20 (Delayed) (P) Carl Thuggaard, Danish born war photographer for Acme photos, officially was posted missing today after the Consolidated Liberator in which he was making his first bombing flight was seen to crash in flames near Madang on the northeastern coast of New Guinea early this morning.

Australian ground watchers said the Liberator went down only after destroying two or possibly three of nine Zeros which attacked the lone bomber.

The Australian post Benabena, 70 miles inland from Madang, reported a patrol was sent into the remote area where the Liberator crashed but that no parachutes were seen to leave the stricken plane.

Rome Bureaus Closed Because of Bombings

By The Associated Press
The Berlin radio broadcast a transoceanic dispatch from Rome today saying: "All bureaus of Rome have been closed owing to the damage done by the recent air raid. They will remain closed until July 31." The broadcast, recorded in New York by The Associated Press, gave no further explanation but the word bureau usually is used for public department.

Berlin also broadcast a report from Rome that Lieut. Gen. Ceriga, commander of the second Carabinieri division of Rome, had been appointed chief commander of the Carabinieri by Premier Mussolini to succeed Gen. Hazon, killed in the allied raid on Rome July 19.

Engineers Sought For Marine Officers

Electrical and radio engineers between 21 and 40 years of age are being sought by Captain J. A. Blakely, recently arrived in Portland as procurement officer for the marine corps recruiting district.

According to the captain, there has been no dearth of applicants for the few existing vacancies involving commissions, but few have been found who fulfill the professional as well as physical qualifications. Additional information may be obtained from Sergeant Lester Finley in room 201, Stewart-Drew building.

Local Boy Finds Double in Name At Navy Base

Richard Lawrence Peck, stationed at Treasure Island, in San Francisco bay, writes his parents in Klamath Falls, Mr. and Mrs. John Peck, about a remarkable coincidence he has encountered. He has found at Treasure Island another Richard Lawrence Peck whom he had never seen or heard of before. He is tall and dark and handsome, Richard writes, and comes from Iowa.

He even looks like a Peck, the Klamath boy says, adding: "Some coincidence, what?"

Richard Lawrence Peck No. 1 had been missing letters from his mother, and was becoming cynical as to the efficiency of Uncle Sam's postal service. Then one day, pinned to a jacket that had come back to him from the cleaner, he found the missing letters, and it wasn't his jacket.

So he started a search and in the course of time found Richard Lawrence Peck No. 2, who is attached to a landing boat crew and had been looking for the boy whose letters were being delivered to him.

If we do not take the lead in preparing for peace now, we may just as well accept the conclusion that the American people are permitting themselves to be committed to a series of certain and destructive wars.— Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president Columbia U.
