Lois Phillips to Leave for East

Klamath Girl to Study Drama in Theatre Colony At Priscilla Beach, Cape Cod

Lois Phillips, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Victor Phillips, will leave her home here on Wednesday for Plymouth, Massachusetts to attend the summer training base of the National Association of Dramatics, Incorporated. Miss Phillips has been appointed a member of this year's theatre colony at Priscilla Beach on Cape Cod.

The training consists of actor-in-training studies under professional actors and directors, stage make-up, acting technique, fencing, dancing, voice and diction, among other things.

Every week a different play is produced and as many as three plays are in rehearsal at one time. This year these productions will be given at various army camps stationed in Massachusetts, at the play house in the theatre colony, the U.S.O. shows, and the professional theatre in Plymouth which is a branch of the school itself. Talent scouts and visiting professional people are daily visitors to the colony.

Miss Phillips is a graduate of KUHS with the class of 1940 and was active in drama there under the direction of Mrs. B. B. Blomquist. She is now a senior at Willamette university in Salem, majoring in drama. She served this past year as president of Theta Alpha Phi, national drama honorary, member of the little theatre, Willamette Radio Guild, and the Willamette players, beside serving as vice president of the junior class.

She took the lead in several dramatic productions, including "The Philadelphia Story" and "Arsenic and Old Lace". She was awarded the present scholarship through her dramatic coach, Mrs. Margaret B. Ringnald, formerly of U.C.L.A. and Willamette university. Mrs. Ringnald has taught many stars, including Paulette Goddard.
