

Women Doubly Busy This Month

Selling of Bonds in July Drive Vies in Importance With Canning Season

It's really surprising how much the girls can get done. Take this month, for instance. In the midst of canning season, victory gardening, and with maybe a little entertaining of summer guests thrown in for good measure, they doffed their aprons and straw hats for an extra burden—selling of bonds.

Many women in Klamath Falls have been putting out extra efforts—appearing on radio broadcasts, traveling to outlying communities, and going forth to find out if the next door neighbor can buy any bonds today. But, from all reports coming in, they haven't been working one whit harder than scores of women in outlying communities and on the farms.

The Captain Jack sweetheart stimulus of the drive served as an excuse for calling a picnic at Weyerhaeuser camp 6, out beyond Bly. The little battle hen entrant in the contest, Winema, was introduced, and the fascinating story was told of the Indian maiden Winema and of the part she played in Modoc was history in which Captain Jack was the Indian renegade.

Merrill has planned doings for next week under sponsorship of the Women of the Moose to promote votes for their hen entrant, Red Wing, and Bly has been sending out notices of a dance to be held Saturday evening by the community club, in honor of another little hen with an Indian name, Minnehaha.

Women's groups in five other places are pulling in votes for their own little hens in devious ways—Cinderella at Henley, Little Lady at Malin, the Merry Widow at Bonanza, Poehontas at Keno, and Miss Liberty at Sprague River.

A new feature, the Roll of Honor, sprang into the picture this week and every woman who sells two hundred dollars worth of bonds is asked to contact a member of the Soroptimist or Business and Professional Women's clubs or call the war savings department at the chamber of commerce.

Those women who have arranged and taken part in the numerous radio broadcasts deserve a lot of credit for it has really meant coordinated work. New words were put to old tunes to provide some clever songs on these programs and other features were worked out that have added interest.

For next Monday evening the Commandos have taken over the half-hour bond sale program (half past six to seven o'clock), and it's well known what the Commandos can do.

Other organizations have given splendid remunerative cooperation to the Soroptimists and PBW, notably the Catholic Daughters, the Sojourners, the auxiliaries of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion, and the League of Women Voters.

And now, the men shouldn't be forgotten for they have pitched in, too. There are the auctioneers who have given so generously of their time at the several street bond auctions, the men who have scraped up a few extra dollars to buy another bond to help out the girls, and father who has uncomplainingly stayed home with the kiddies while mother does her bit in the July campaign.

MERRY MIXERS MEET AT HOME OF DEE SALTER

The Merry Mixers met on Thursday evening, July the fifteenth, at the home of Dee Salter, 1818 Academy street. Rummy was played during the evening with high score held by Pearl Paup and second by Billee Snider.

Three tables of pinochle were in play during the evening, with high score for women going to Sylvia Braman, second to Dicksy Weed; for men, high score was held by H. M. Bjorkland and second by Lloyd Wells. At the close of the evening the hostesses served refreshments.

Ethel Brown Marries

Messrs Home Scene of Wedding on Tuesday This Week Here

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Messer, 920 Martin street, was the scene of a small but charming wedding, Tuesday evening, July the twentieth, at eight o'clock. The bride, Ethel Lavine Brown, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Messer, and Forrest Duncan, the groom, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Duncan of this city.

The room was lighted with candlelight only, and sweet peas banked the mantle of the fireplace before which they stood. Rev. Eugene Haynes read the single ring service, and just as the ceremony began, little Alice Brown, in a ruffled dress of blue taffeta, presented the bride with an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses, afterward holding them as the ring was placed upon her mother's finger.

The bride wore a tailored suit of medium blue and her corsage was of gardenias and rosebuds, while her only jewelry was a gold cross and chain which has been in the family of Mrs. Carl Henry, an old friend, for years. The groom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Quallo, were the best man and the matron of honor. Mrs. Quallo wore a dress of dusty rose.

Mrs. Messer wore an aqua-blue lace gown and Mrs. J. M. Duncan an afternoon dress of blue crepe.

Present at the service were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Quallo and their two daughters, the bride's two children, Alice and Donald Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Weinstein, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Henry and Mr. and Mrs. Messer.

The groom is in the air corps and is stationed at Camp Garner, near Taft, California. He is returning to camp very soon and Mrs. Duncan will follow shortly.
