

REVISIONS IN LOCAL DEFENSE SET-UP MADE

By GEORGE MYERS Chief of Emergency Medical Services

In revising the local defense set-up to conform with the plan recently adopted by the Oregon state civilian defense council, some revision of the emergency medical services was found necessary to make it dovetail more effectively.

Following is a brief outline of the revisions that have been made:

Personnel of all first aid teams to consist of one trained nurse and four first aid assistants qualified by the same standards of training as required in the past, and composed of the same members who have served in the original teams.

Each first aid team will be equipped with an ambulance and will be accompanied to an incident by a rescue squad which will function independently. However, first aid team and rescue squad will coordinate with each other in their separate duties.

At the scene of an incident the team will first contact the incident officer in charge for directions. The trained nurse will then diagnose the condition of the casualties. She will supervise treatment of those requiring first aid and dispatch them to a central hospital, first aid station or to their homes as found practical.

In case additional help, supplies or equipment is needed, she will again contact the incident officer in charge and inform him of what is required. He in turn will communicate with and inform the control center what additional services are needed.

Instead of first aid teams working independently in their zones or sectors during an incident or practice as in the past, all teams of a district will congregate at a district headquarters. There will be ten of these districts mapped in and adjacent to the city, each with a common headquarters where all branches of defense services will gather and work from under the directions of the incident officer in charge who receives his instructions and acts as liaison officer for the commander at the control center.

Mainly these are the revisions to be made in the medical services branch of the local civilian defense organization. There are no changes in the duties or functioning of other personnel connected with medical services.

Manners

By EARL WHITLOCK

I was somewhat amused, the other day, to read a newspaper article by Emily Post, the arbiter of all that is ladylike, in which she devoted the space to telling the girls on how to be perfectly proper on their war jobs in the war plants.

It might be interesting to see how Emily herself would react if a group of boisterous workmen hollered "Yoo-hoo" at her, or yelled "Hiya, beautiful! How's about a little date for tonight?" I am not sure that Emily could find the answer to that one without looking in the book. And I'd like to know how well her faultless table manners would hold up in a crowded war-plant with a big welder's bulk joggling her shoulder on one side and a husky riveter's peaked elbow threatening her eyesight on the other. It might be quite a strain on her etiquette.

Manners—I don't mean manner, that is a gracious thing born of the good heart—but manners, plural, are funny things, anyway and most folks don't need lessons in deportment as much as they think they do. Some of the best mannered people you'll ever meet are woodsmen, prospectors, naturalists, men who live much alone. It is only in crowds that we catch the hysteria of haste that encourages boorishness.

Next Monday Mr. Whitlock of the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home will comment on Family Life.

CONGRESS MAY DEMAND FEWER EXPENDITURES

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 — President Roosevelt's renewed request for "stiff" increases in taxes—made in a review of the revised $105,869,000,000 budget for this fiscal year—appeared likely today to be countered in congress with bi-partisan demands for closer scrutiny of government spending.

Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.) told an interviewer he believed the huge financial problem ought to involve reduced government outlays as well as enactment of new taxes.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) predicted that congress will have trouble in finding additional revenue sources for the "truly stiff program of additional taxes, savings, or both" that Mr. Roosevelt said ought to be enacted.

Taft said it seemed impossible on the basis of figures compiled by the joint congressional committee on internal revenue to obtain more than about $3,000,000,000 in direct new taxes. He said the committee's figures showed that the federal government will take $13,450,000,000 in taxes out of $21,400,000,000 in corporate profits in the present calendar year.

The Ohioan said he doubted this tax total could be increased more than $1,000,000,000 at the outside, with about $2,000,000,000 in new revenues obtained from individuals and from miscellaneous sources, the administration has been searching around for $12,000,000,000 additional.

Senator Walter F. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the senate finance committee, said at his home in Vienna, Ga., yesterday he believed the upper limits of taxation would yield only five or six billions in new taxes. He warned that drastic increase in taxation rates might be ruinous to the middle classes, which he described as essential to a civilization.

Children's Mischievous Pranks Blamed on Parents

Numerous complaints against mischievous pranks of youngsters have been coming in to the county juvenile office this summer, and Harold Hendrickson, juvenile officer, asks that parents keep a more careful watch on their boys and girls.

Just recently at Worden, four pigs were discovered, each of which had had an eye shot out, presumably with bb shot. Though definite proof has not yet been established, this is thought to have been the work of young boys in that community.

Another complaint received the other day stated that some neighbor children had spattered the complaining persons' car, which was parked in their own driveway, with eggs.

These are just two of many such items brought to the juvenile court's attention. Harold

Hendrickson said Saturday that because in so many families both parents were working, children were permitted to run at large, their folks having no knowledge of what they do during the day.

The juvenile official suggested that if both parents must work, an attempt should be made to engage an adult to take charge of the household, place youngsters in a private home or at least to make a more thorough check on the activities of their boys and girls during the day.

HE'LL BE REMEMBERED NEW YORK, (AP)—Boojiana, one of the crack 2-year-olds in Lt. Col. C. V. Whitney's string, recently cost form players at the Empire City-Jamaica meeting $87,486 when he got home second.

WATCH FOR—

The wine decanters from Fort Warner, now the property of Wilbur A. Jones. These beautiful crystal and crimson bottles served the officers at Fort Warner in the days when Klamath county was not yet organized. These symbols of cheer from the old days were acquired by Mr. Jones' parents, who were pioneers at Fort Warner, when the government abandoned that outpost in the 'seventies.

The interesting decanters will be displayed in the windows of the United States National bank during the week of the Centennial August 14 to 22.
