LEADERS ADD LIGHTLY TO TUESDAY GAINS

By VICTOR EUBANK
 NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Buying continued to control the stock market's trend today, a considerable number of leaders adding moderately to Tuesday's gains.

Advances ranged from fractions to a point or more in such groups as motors, farm equipments, merchandising shares, rail equipments, utilities, oils and industrial specialties. Some rails were a trifle higher.

As in yesterday's recovery, which the third of substance since the market's hard fall on the Italian news in late July, the so-called peace stocks attracted the best support.

Issues giving a good account of themselves included General Motors, Chrysler, White Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Case Harvester, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., Westinghouse, General Electric, Philip Morris, Owens-Illinois, American Locomotive and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Rail loans had a further comeback in the bond market.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Resumption of liquidation by houses with eastern connections broke rye prices in late trading today, imparting a weak undertone to other grains. Wheat dropped below the previous close and oats, which had been higher most of the session, lost part of early gains.

Purchases of more than 2,000,000 bushels of corn on a "to-arrive" basis, following 3,500,000 bushels bought yesterday, unsettled rye as it was felt some of the corn would be diverted to commercial feed manufacturers.

Support of rye had been based upon the prospect of increased

Dr. Masters' Health Column— Pinworm Infection Needs Treatment by Physician

The pinworm is a parasite of human beings only. The incidence of infection is surprisingly high. Examinations of very large numbers of persons have shown from 15 to 40 per cent of the people examined to be infected. The infection is diffused throughout the country. Although the highest incidence is found in congested, long-established residential sections, it is by no means limited to any social or economic group. If one member of a family is known to be infected, it is almost the rule to find other children or one or both parents also harboring the parasite.

The pinworm is a parasite having unusual and strange habits. The eggs are laid on the perianal skin at night when the host is sleeping. The female worm then shrivels up and may drop from the body into the bed clothing. When the egg is discharged, it already contains an embryo, which is fully developed and infective within six hours. The source of infection is the ingestion of these eggs.

SYMPTOMS VARY GREATLY
 The symptoms of pinworm infestation vary in degree from a complete absence of recognized symptoms, to intense itching in the region of the anus, loss of appetite, irritability, restlessness, and diarrhoea. Pinworms are known to enter the female generative tract, where they may set up intense irritation and through which they may pass into the abdominal cavity, where they eventually become encysted.

The control of pinworm infection is extremely difficult. The tendency to scratch the irritated perianal skin deposits the eggs beneath the fingernails, and eventually they may be carried to the mouth. They may be carried by air currents and thereby be transported to distant objects. They are usually to be found in the dust in houses where the infection is present.

The persistence of the infection, despite treatment, is to be explained by constant re-infection from these sources. The pinworm egg is capable of surviving as long as 10 days on the skin, and is resistant to ordinary temperature changes as well as the usual household disinfectants. Therefore, hygienic measures are inadequate to suppress the infection.

TREATING THE INFECTION
 The treatment of pinworms by means of gentian violet, a chemical agent, is highly effective, but must be continued longer than the survival period of the eggs, and administered to all infected persons in the family. The recognition of the parasite should always precede any treatment. Each member of the family should be examined, regardless of the absence of symptoms, and the treatment should be supervised by a physician.

Hull Denies Roving Assignment For Sumner Welles

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull denied today that Undersecretary Sumner Welles is to receive a roving assignment and be replaced by Norman Armour, United States ambassador to Argentina.

Asked about the published reports, Hull said this newest story was a recurrence of similar reports circulated in recent years and on each occasion denied.

State Department Holds Recognition Of French Committee

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles indicated that the state department is not ready to announce recognition of the French committee of national liberation.

Asked about reports from Algiers that the United States and Great Britain had agreed to recognize the committee as the trustee of French interests until its armies landed in France, Welles said there was nothing new on that matter.

WE LIKE IT THE OTHER WAY

If you'd been listening to your radio one evening a few weeks ago, you might have heard a news dispatch, telling of another RAF raid deep into Nazi-held France. This time the target was Le Creusot, site of the great Schneider armament works.

At least that was the main target. But here was something that caught my ear — just a sentence to this effect: "Some of the bombers veered off the course to strike at the Montchanin power station, which supplies electric power for the Schneider armament works and other industries in the vicinity."

A power station! There you are again—proof of the supreme importance of electric power to the production of weapons and war supplies!

But back of that story there must have been another story — a human story of gladness and gratitude on the part of the enslaved workers in that power station. For them that bombing must have been a liberation. Even though some of them may have died in it, they must have made the sacrifice willingly, for the sake of choking off vital supplies for the oppressors.

Well, that's the Nazi system. Take a man, put him in chains, prod a gun into his back, and make him work.

We like it the other way. Take a man, pay him a decent wage for working hours, reward him for his initiative and skill, give him pleasant working conditions and good tools to do his job with.

And this system has paid out. Today in America's business-managed electric companies, free men are working together for victory and they are producing far more power than all the Axis countries combined.
