were in areas exposed to submarine attack and while they were unloading troops and equipment.

Give Without Fight
The enemy evacuation represented the first time officially reported in the war that the Japanese have given up a major base without a fight. Previously on Attu they had fought almost to the last man, and in the final organized resistance on Attu some enemy soldiers had battled with bayonets tied to stocks.

The last resistance reported on Kiska was on August 13 when light anti-aircraft fire was encountered by bombers and fighters which that afternoon carried out nine bombing and strafing attacks on the island, destroying buildings at Gerduke cove and North Head by direct hits and setting others afire.

Flak Encounters
That bombing assault was light, however, compared with other attacks during the August 1-14 period. On August 10, the bombings reached a peak with 24 separate assaults on the enemy's installations. The bombers carrying out those missions encountered light anti-aircraft fire and started many fires.

The chronology of the aerial blitz also showed 18 assaults during 12 hours August 4, starting many fires and causing numerous explosions. On August 11, bombers 21 times roared over Kiska and the navy reported "fires were started in all areas and considerable debris was observed in enemy emplacements on Little Kiska."

The following day, heavy, medium and dive bombers accompanied by fighting planes went back 20 more times starting many additional fires. Scattered throughout the two-week period were other smaller assaults of from one to four raids in a single day.

Canadian Help
The unopposed conquest of Kiska was carried out by Canadian and American troops under direct command of Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of the North Pacific fleet, with guidance from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet.

Kiska's fall could rate as one of Japan's most expensive defeats, in addition to establishing a large diversion on the island, the Japanese had poured supplies in 10 months before the blockade became sufficiently effective so that the only materials received were those smuggled by submarines.

QUEBEC, Aug. 21 (AP)—A joint statement of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, issued here today, said the occupation of Kiska "frees the last vestige of North American territory of Japanese forces."

Stephen Early, the president's secretary, said in releasing the statement simultaneously with issuance of the U. S. navy communique in Washington that Mr. Roosevelt had asked him to announce this "for me personally."

Victory Pattern Cut at Quebec War Conference and prime minister last night. Allied chiefs of staff, who maintain close contact even when war councils are not in progress, met for days before Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill joined forces here to finish charting the next assaults on the axis. The two principals, moreover, held their preliminary discussions at Hyde Park, N. Y., in advance of their Quebec talks.

Work Continues
The military work of the Quebec conference was not entirely completed. Chiefs of staff and their key advisors were to continue consultations during the weekend. But their principal job at this stage of the war parley appeared to be that of picking up a few loose ends remaining after all the more momentous issues on the military agenda were out of the way.

The question of obtaining better teamwork with Russia, some observers here believed, is uppermost among the political considerations confronting the allied leaders here.

KLAMATH SECOND IN TRAFFIC SAFETY

Klamath county won second place in the first division of the traffic safety council this month, it was announced by Robert S. Farrell, Jr., secretary of state and sponsor of the contest.

Marion county won first place in the division and Clackamas third with Multnomah fourth. In other divisions, these were the results:
Second division—Linn, Douglas, Jackson, Coos, Umatilla, Washington and Yamhill.
Third division—Baker, Wasco, Clatsop, Malheur, Benton, Union, Polk, Columbia, Lincoln, Deschutes, Josephine, Hood River, Tillamook.

Fourth division — Harney, Grant, Lake, Morrow, Gilliam, Wheeler, Crook, Curry, Sherman, Jefferson and Willows.

cate a stronger garrison than actually held Kiska.
"I've seen a lot of recent photographs showing installations," he said, "but the Japs are pretty clever at faking."

Material Found
He said the troops which occupied Kiska found much material, including a lot of ammunition, but he did not know whether they found Japanese heavy guns.

He said none of the men who took part in the Kiska landings had yet been returned here, and many men who had been due for leave for weeks had been detained in Alaska to prevent any word of the intended Kiska assault last Sunday leaking out.

Allen Transferred To Portland OPA

David Allen, chief price officer of the OPA field station here, has been transferred to the Portland district office, Lee Jacobs, administrative head of the station, announced today.

Price work here will be carried on by Clifford Jackson, who was transferred here from Portland about six weeks ago. Allen will leave for Portland Sunday.

MILLION NAZI CASUALTIES ON RUSSIAN FRONT

were on the march deep into the heart of the Ukraine.
Storm Lebedin
They stormed into Lebedin, 100 miles northwest of Kharkov and midway between captured Akhtyrka and Sumy, in a series of smashing tank and infantry attacks. Moscow announced in a special communique. Knotop lies 70 miles to the northwest of Lebedin and its capture would menace the whole Nazi supply setup in the Ukrainian theater.

London reports, meanwhile, indicated that soviet troops had encircled all but 13 miles of Kharkov itself.
Bryansk Front
On the Bryansk front, the Germans were throwing strong forces against the steadily advancing soviet columns, but the Russian war bulletin said they were forced to fall back to "well-prepared" positions after abandoning valuable war dumps.

In the Spas Demensk offensive the Russians were striking out for Smolensk, another vital Nazi anchor, 75 miles to the northwest. Here, again, the Russians would not be denied, and pressed on despite fierce counter-attacks by fresh German reserves, Moscow said. This advance threatened a whole segment of German defenses between Bryansk and Smolensk.

Mediterranean, African Axis Losses Totaled

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Axis losses of 160,000 men in Sicily brought the grand total of enemy troops killed, wounded and captured in the African-Mediterranean campaign from Ethiopia to Messina to 1,135,000, a recapitulation of British war office figures showed today.

The British lost 220,000 in the theatre from the beginning of the action through the Sicilian campaign, including the 35,000 lost by the British first and eighth armies in Tunisia. United States forces lost 18,558 in Tunisia.

These figures included British losses in Sicily but not American losses there and included no French losses.

Detectives Still Search for Man in Slaying of Red Head

PORTLAND, Aug. 21 (AP)—Detectives continued a search today for Harry F. Lewis, 31, shipyard worker, charged with killing red-headed Mrs. Virginia Gillen, 24, divorcee and swing shift worker.

Lewis disappeared Tuesday. Mrs. Gillen's body was discovered in his room Wednesday. Police discounted a suicide note left there, apparently by Lewis. They said jealousy was the slaying motive.

Passenger Train Crashes Mail Cars

GALLUP, N. M., Aug. 21 (AP)—A Santa Fe railway passenger train crashed into the rear of a mail train in the yards here last night causing injuries which necessitated hospitalization of 11 persons and emergency treatment for at least a score more.

EDITORIALS ON NEWS

A PART of our strength and the Japs have been free to use ALL of theirs. When we're finally free to use all our strength against Japan, the picture will change sharply.

The Japs are probably PREPARING for that time.

THERE'S nothing much new in the rest of the world. Our warships and planes are pounding the toe of the Italian boot, and Swiss reports say the Italians expect us to invade their mainland somewhere south of Naples. The vigor of the bombardment that is going on lends some color to this expectation.

THERE are further signs of German nervousness in western Europe. The nazis have set Tuesday as the deadline for French patriots to SURRENDER THEIR ARMS or face the death penalty. That indicates fear of the French.

In Denmark, King Christian and the Danish government appeal jointly to their people to cease sabotaging German production and transport. (Waves of sabotage are said to have been sweeping the country.) Permitting the Danish government and king to handle this situation in their own way, rather than wading in with firing squads to handle it themselves, is a rather clear admission of Germans' nervousness in Denmark.

STOCKHOLM hears today that a shake-up in the Finnish cabinet is brewing as the Finns become increasingly impatient for a separate peace with Russia. The Berlin radio tells us the Russians have opened a new offensive along the 1000-mile front from Leningrad to Murmansk. Such an offensive would be directed against the Finns.

ON the New York stock market today, there is a minor wave of precautionary selling said to be based on desire to hedge against possible important developments in the news OVER THE WEEKEND.

The stock speculators, like the rest of us, have noted that in this war most of the big news seems to happen on Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Layton Tells Of Nude "Tag"; Trial Adjourns

Buena Vista the night of June 7, he said.

Offers Ride
He said he had offered her a ride home after she missed the last bus from Monmouth, and that she accompanied him voluntarily into the "Lover's Lane" road near Buena Vista.

When she splashed into the water, he became frightened, threw her clothes into the river and went home without reporting the mishap, Layton testified.

Dr. Herman A. Dickel, Portland psychiatrist called by the defense, said he was convinced Layton was a moron. He testified Layton's reactions were slow, his ability to work poor. He estimated Layton's mentality as that of a nine-year-eight-month-old boy.

Asked Services
Howard Moran, operator of a bus terminal confectionery in Monmouth, said he had asked Layton to take Miss Hildebrand home once, since Layton often drove similarly stranded girls to their houses.

District Attorney Bruce Spaulding, who accuses Layton of shoving the girl into the river while assaulting her, dropped an attempt to introduce testimony Layton gave before the Polk county grand jury.

amount above the floor prices fixed by the division, hence might be shaken by removal of the foundation for the differential.

In some cases, the division's minimum prices actually are higher than OPA's maximum prices because the former included cost of transporting coal from some areas to distant markets.

In these cases, the higher minimum prices have been allowed sellers and OPA's amendments will preserve that arrangement.

The division is going out of existence Monday because congress refused recently, despite pleas from President Roosevelt and Ickes, to extend the act which gave it life.

Five Rescued by Policemen From Burning Building

PORTLAND, Aug. 21 (AP)—Two policemen rescued five persons from a flaming residence today.

A taxi driver told patrolmen L. E. Leitster and H. E. Hogue that the home of Mrs. Esther Johnson was afire. They notified the fire department and went to the house.

The officers climbed to a second-story porch and carried Mrs. Johnson's three children, two girls and a boy, ranging in age from 13 to 16, and a girl friend of the Johnson girls to safety. The policemen then broke down a door and led F. West, a roomer who occupied first-floor quarters, to safety.

Mother of Two Commits Suicide

Mona Spears, 20, mother of two children, committed suicide last night at her home at 2029 Etna street, state police said today. She shot herself with a 12-gauge shotgun.

The body was found by Mrs. Ettie Jones, who had been hired to care for the children, a boy of two years and a girl of seven months.

Mrs. Spears had been separated from her husband, Leroy, who is employed by Ewauna. Family trouble is believed to be the cause of the suicide. Time of death was between 10.30 o'clock and midnight, police investigators said.
