THE hardest-hitting appeal for bond-buying we have seen appears in an advertisement in the Alturas Plaindealer over the name of Pete Christensen post No. 3327 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Have you," it asks, "ever heard the screams of wounded men on the battle fields? Have you ever witnessed the sight of hundreds of men lying dead and wounded in the radius of a few acres of ground? Or do you only think of your own comfort, satisfaction and gaiety and to Hell with the war?"

"We, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, have been through it and we make our appeal to you. FOR GOD'S SAKE HELP. Buy More Bonds."

A Privilege

THE other day a slight little woman came into our office to obtain the picture of her son. It had appeared the previous day on our front page, over a caption containing that heart-rending word, "Missing."

A few minutes later we happened into the chamber of commerce.

The same little woman was there. She was buying a bond. Her husband had bought the family bond the day before, but she was buying another, and she was making plans to buy still another before the end of the month. She was buying extra bonds for the sake of other boys fighting in a war that had taken her son.

Have you talked to any of these people who have lost their sons, brothers, husbands or fathers in this war?

If you have, we don't think you'll be numbered among those—and there are quite a few of them around here—who refuse to buy war bonds because they have the idea those bonds won't be any good after the war is over.

That's a wild idea, of course, because if your money is good the bonds will be good—but, what if they never got anything back? It's a comparatively small contribution on a cash basis, and when one thinks it clear through, it's a privilege to be able to make it.

Few Days More

ONLY a few days remain in the Third War Loan campaign.

There is a need in those days for a rush of E bond buying, if this county is to make the showing it should on this type of purchase.

E bonds are the kind of bonds you and I buy—the little fellows, whose contributions must make up the bulk of bond purchases. Let's get on the boat and make these last few days of September count.

Let's not sit back complacently because the buyers of the huge bonds have come through so nicely. Let's buy more of the small bonds, now!

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—Republican congressmen were looking forward to Ohio Governor Bricker's address on Constitution Day in Philadelphia to revive his campaign for the republican presidential campaign.

But the talk failed to attract the attention expected, and some authorities are beginning to wonder if the Bricker campaign will be formidable.

If Bricker does not run, Senator Taft will be released from his promise to avoid a contest in Ohio, and no doubt be drafted by his friends to seek the Ohio delegates. Taft has been intending to run for re-election to the senate next year, and there has been no organization working in his behalf in a presidential way.

It is not too late for Bricker. There was some talk earlier from Ohio that new publicity advisors with more experience in national campaigns, were looking toward getting started in January.

But the Philadelphia speech rang no bells and, unless Bricker wants to make a fight for the Ohio delegation solely as a favorite son candidate rather than as front ranking national candidate, he may give way to the Ohio senator. Strong pressure is coming no doubt, from Taft's followers in Ohio and elsewhere to put him up with the big two now considered in the running, Dewey first, Willkie second.

Peace Propaganda

SOME of the liberal leaders like Socialist Norman Thomas have been calling for what they call "the right sort of peace offensive" by us, thinking that if we offer more attractive inducements than unconditional surrender, the Germans might lay down their arms. Even some of the OWI propaganda lately has supplied that inference, or at least taken a less determined stand.

The only kind of propaganda that will be effective upon the Germans will be strong propaganda such as they tried on us. It could be well dinned into the German ears day after day:

"You are defeated. You are defeated. You cannot win. Every day you delay termination of this war, you are adding to the bombed destruction of your country and costing lives of your citizens."

That is what the clever Goebbels would be doing to us if the situation were reversed.

The reason why appeasing terms can hardly be successful in any event is that the German army and nazi leaders all know their lives and jobs will go as soon as the peace comes, and they are carrying on their shoulders the responsibility of continuing the fight for their own selfish purposes.

Mr. Thomas, of course, spoke not actually in the vein toward this kind of appeasement, but in favor of promulgating an international document against imperialism and a trend toward an international police force.

But the "right sort of peace offensive" would be one designed to break the morale of the German leaders by the utmost aggressive publicity campaigning over the international radios and in the press, telling them daily "you cannot win."

Post War Compromise

REPUBLICAN LEADER McNARY, Mackinac Conference Leader Senator Vandenberg, and the Administration Leader Barkley, have just about agreed among themselves to pass a compromise resolution on post war. It will not be a world state, a quart of milk, or anything along that line, but a roundly worded simple resolution, promising, as the Fulbright house pledge does:

"The creation of appropriate international machinery with power adequate to establish and maintain a just and lasting peace."

This, of course, could mean anything or nothing. Its only real meaning is that neither side wants to join the fight on the issue at this time and provoke a sharp national and senate debate. Senators Nye, Hiram Johnson, and Wheeler, did not join in this compromise arrangement between the big three, and there may be some dispute, but nothing much more serious than the overwhelming 360 to 29 vote in the house.

WAR KITCHEN

NUTRITIOUS RABBIT ADDS TASTE TO WAR MEALS
By GAYNOR MADDOX

Our meat supplies aren't going to be large enough to supply all demands here and abroad unless we do something about it. The domestic rabbit fits into that picture with its delicately flavored meat, white as the breast of chicken and the fact that home dwellers can raise them in a small space in short time.

As part of the Food Fights for Freedom Campaign, why don't you send for: Wildlife Leaflet No. 218—"Domestic Rabbits in the Food for Freedom Program." This may be obtained free from Fish and Wildlife Service, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill. A second pamphlet, "Conservation Bulletin No. 25—"Rabbit Raising"—costs 10 cents and may be secured from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C.

Fried Rabbit

Choose a plump young rabbit. Wipe the dressed meat with a damp cloth and cut into serving pieces. Beat 1 egg yolk, and 3 cup milk and 3 teaspoon salt, and stir into 3 cup flour to make a smooth batter. In a heavy skillet, heat 4 tablespoons of fat until very hot so it will set the batter quickly. Dip the pieces of rabbit into the batter until well coated and drop them into the hot fat. As soon as browned, reduce the heat and cook at moderate temperature for 25 to 30 minutes, or until the meat is tender. Serve on a hot platter.

For each cup of gravy desired, use 2 tablespoons of the pan

Women Voters Boost Broadcast on "World Cooperation"

The Klamath Falls League of Women Voters is asking all women to listen to a broadcast over Mutual network on Tuesday, September 28, at 4:45 o'clock when John B. Hughes, noted news analyst, and Robert Sterling of the California Institute of Technology will talk on "World Co-operation."

Mutual and KFJI is broadcasting this program in co-operation with the League of Women Voters, in fact the California league is sponsoring it, and each local member has been asked to call some woman who is not a member and inform her of the talk, subject of which is now foremost in league interest.

Two-Pant Suit Back in Canada

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 (AP)—Two-pants suit is back in Canada.

"Anyone who prefers a cuffed trouser or wants an extra pair of pants when he buys a new suit now will be able to satisfy his wish and his clothier can lawfully accommodate him," the prices board announced today.

Cuffs and extra trousers were banned in March, 1942. Now, the board said, an adequate supply of Australian wool is assured and demands of the armed forces "are less of a burden."

Dr. Masters' Health Column—Ordinary Man Can Expect Normal, Wholesome Life

By DR. THOMAS D. MASTERS

Normality and abnormality are words that have been used so loosely, that science has been forced to identify them quantitatively, with the ranges above and below the average, or statistical mean. Especially with the development of society's desire to care for its mentally sick and maladjusted has come a general interest in the characteristics that distinguish mentally healthy people from the so-called neurotics. The desire for a technique of maintaining sanity is a natural one when the world is at war—and people have a right to know what they can expect of the average wholesome life.

First of all, most persons may take comfort in the fact that the percentage of institutionalized men and women is very low—not over 1 per cent of the population. In this figure, "genius" finds its counterpart, though contrary to popular belief, genius and insanity are rarely coincidental. The extremely able person is likely to seek and find adjustment, and to feel adequate to the job of meeting and solving his problems well.

Phases of Life

Shakespeare's "seven ages of man" is a remarkably vivid summary of the chronological stages through which human beings go. Less superficially, and less picturesquely, modern medicine sees human physiology in broader and fewer phases—perhaps five, for classification's sake. Each of these five has certain definable progressions, transitions, and difficulties.

Childhood introduces the human being to the world about him, while requiring security for growth. Many people in adult life, as Freud so ably demonstrated, have emotional problems that date from infancy. It is extremely important for the child to feel he is wanted, loved, and safe with his family. He must also have some scope for independent activity and experimentation.

Adolescence brings definite physiological changes through which people go to achieve physical maturity. Here they begin to find their place in the adult world, meet competition, seek security in "gangs" or "group" formations and extreme conventionalities, from which they deviate from time to time in impulsive outbursts against authority. Parental patience and understanding are required to weather this stage successfully.

Problems of Maturity

Early maturity involves two things: finding one's place in the economic scheme, and discovering a mate with whom to establish a home and family. Here emotional problems are those inevitable with the coming together

The War Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The bloody battle of the Dnieper—750 miles of hell along the winding reaches of Europe's third biggest river—has reached its crisis in a struggle for the crossings of this expansive waterway behind which the retreating Hitlerites hope to take refuge unless the onrushing Russians gain control of the passages.

It is one of the great dramas of the war. The nazis have been racing back in costly confusion which in places has taken on the nature of that most dreaded of military misfortunes—a rout. German loss of life and material have been colossal.

Double Disaster

Now that pursued and pursuers are close to the Dnieper barrier, the fuhrer's forces are threatened with double disaster: (1) Being caught and annihilated at many places before they can make the crossings; (2) Losing control of the feasible passages of the river and allowing the reds to get across to cut up and smash the disorganized German front.

Already many nazis have been slain on the eastern bank, within sight of their defenses across the way. Moscow reports that great numbers of them actually have been forced into the icy waters of the river where they have drowned.

Rains Have Come

The rains have come and turned the terrain into a mass of clinging mud, more terrible than a nightmare. The heavy, black mass has clung to the Muscovite battle-boots like glue.

So in the drive on the Dnieper, the red motor transport and even caterpillar-equipped machines have been sucked down in the mire until it seemed they couldn't move. Still the Muscovites have driven through it, bringing along their artillery and supplies.

Siege Guns Back

Believe it or not, the reds even have brought their siege guns up to the eastern bank of the Dnieper opposite the holy city of Kiev—strategic center of Hitler's dream-kingdom of the golden Ukraine. One of the fiercest struggles of the whole elongated battle is proceeding there and Moscow has reported: "There can be no doubt that detachments of Hitler's plunderers are already fleeing from Kiev like rats from a sinking ship."

So goes the struggle for the crossings of the Dnieper. In some places it's reported that the Russians have even got to the west side. Still, out of all this sensational fighting, we may find that the most important stage of the battle at the weekend was the capture of Smolensk—gateway to and from Moscow.

Near Dnieper

Smolensk lies close to the waters of the Dnieper, which there turns to the northeast. If

Tough Talk

Bitter after Japs killed American wounded along this road on Guadalcanal, U. S. forces put up this sign between the rows of palm trees. It reads: "Down this road marched one of the regiments of the United States Army—Knights Serving the Queen of Battles—Twenty of their wounded in litters were bayoneted, shot and clubbed by the yellow bellies."

the Russians can crash through the German line just above there in weight, they will be able to develop a turning operation against the enemy both north and south. The nazis in this area thus will be in danger of being surrounded and destroyed. Already the reds appear to be launching this operation, for they have swept forward some six miles towards Vitebsk.

DOE SUGGESTION

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor)—It is regrettable that there comes a time in the life of every sportsman when he sees those very things for which he has labored and loved threatened with extinction, through a subterfuge of patriotism or rank political appeasement; and, beyond all reasonable doubt, such was the illogical reasoning, if indeed, it could be called reasoning, of the Oregon game commission's unwarranted order allowing the slaying of 7400 does in eastern Oregon.

Game commissions come and go, and with each change the linen is washed clean of responsibility. Only the sportsman remains with the memory of the wanton destruction of game herds. In 1943 the sportsmen will do well to remember that the killing of 7400 does will in no wise be an experiment but a serious reduction in our deer herd. This act of the game commission leaves nothing to chance, not even the prospects of a hard winter.

Due to our united efforts for victory in a nation at war, it is going to be next to impossible to properly police the forests; and we all know that meat rationing has resulted in heavy poaching, which, together with the normal kill, will easily take care of the over-population, if any there be, in the mule deer herds of Klamath and Lake counties.

Let us as sportsmen take those 7400 doe tags and place them conspicuously in our homes, beneath the trophies of yesterday, and think of another day when our sons, daughters and friends, now engaged in this great conflict, return to their homes—that they may find an abundant field and stream and all wildlife as they left it. With no locker available, what will you do with the doe meat?

Very truly yours,
The Gun Store,
P. S. PUCKETT.

BUSY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clyde Avery, each 73, didn't want to bother with celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

But fellow workers arranged impromptu observances during the couple's 10-minute rest periods at the aircraft plant.

Six thousand retreating Germans were killed by the Russians in one day. All run-down heels aren't on shoes.

A SALUTE TO The SPARS

During Klamath Falls' SPAR week, Sept. 27th to Oct. 2nd, serve your country where your country needs you most. Be aboard the Palm Beach Special leaving Portland Oct. 12th for SPAR training station in Palm Beach, Florida.

Today in every part of the world the men of the United States Coast Guard are fighting to preserve this great democracy of ours. And here at home in every coast guard station the Women's Reserve of the Coast Guard, "the SPARS," are doing the job that made possible the release of these men for service all over the world. More women are needed by the SPARS. If you are between the ages of 20 and 30; have had at least two years of high school or two years business school; are not married to a Coast Guardsman; have no children under 18 years of age; and believe that you can pass the required physical and vision tests then you may be eligible to take your place beside these fighting women.

SPARS are sent to Palm Beach, Fla., for their recruit training; receive $200 worth of smart uniforms; and the finest training available: a chance to travel and meet the Nation's finest women and receive the same pay and allowances as Coast Guardsmen of the same rating. The SPARS need you today. Be aboard the Palm Beach Special on your way to serve your country when it leaves Portland, October 12th.

For further information contact SPAR representative in the Chamber of Commerce building, 223 Main street, Klamath Falls.

"SEMPER PARATUS," or "always ready," the motto of the United States Coast Guard, is exemplified by this alert member of the SPARS, women's reserve of the Coast Guard.
