

KLAMATH SEARS WORKERS SHARE STORE PROFIT

When Manager J. E. Hawkins handed out the profit sharing statements to the Sears, Roebuck and company employees here today, he had some in attendance who had not been at the meeting but whose presence was distinctly felt by all who were at the session.

These invisible employees are those men and women who have left the local store here to go into the armed services. Of the 1,514 Sears employees who are in the service of their country as of March 26, 9,500 of them are members of the Sears Employees Pension and Profit Sharing Fund. They continue as members though some of them have been gone from the company to their military duties for as long as 1940.

Manager Hawkins announced that 29 employees of the local store, exclusive of those in the service, are fund members. These members for 1943 were credited with 40 shares of company stock which on April 1 had a market value of $3540. They had additional credit of $704 in government bonds and cash, making a total 1943 credit of $6304.

Thus their participation in the 1943 company's contribution and other Profit Sharing earnings brought their accumulated credits up to 101 shares of stock with a market value of $14,248, plus a value of $5621 in government bonds and cash in bank.

Sears, Roebuck and company employees Profit Sharing Fund was founded in 1914, which was exactly 29 years before national service plans were adopted. Under the plan the company contributes to the profit sharing fund five to eight per cent of profit before taxes and before dividends. Employees contribute five per cent of their salaries, but no person may contribute more than $250 in a year, which limits the amount of stock which may be acquired each year by the higher-salaried employees. Membership in the fund is voluntary after completion of one year's continuous service. After the company makes its contribution, company management has no hand in the administration of the fund. The fund is managed entirely by a board of trustees who employ an executive director and confer with an advisory council of employees elected by fund members. In the 28 years the fund has been in existence the company has contributed $60,663,182, the fund has received $36,258,235 in dividends and other earnings, employees have deposited $40,828,543.

'Five Jobs for Four' Seen Remedy for Unemployment

SALT LAKE CITY, May 26 (AP)—"Mass unemployment or mass government employment after the war can be avoided only if five jobs can be created by industry, business and farming where four existed before," P. G. Johnson, west coast industrialist, told regional representatives of the committee for economic development.

Johnson, president of Boeing Aircraft company of Seattle, is conducting a western states conference of the committee of which he is a vice chairman.

The committee's job, he said, is a double-barreled one aimed at "winning the peace without a tailspin into depression." First it must learn what maximum postwar employment will be and then tackle the problems presented.

Pre-war employment figures can be increased, Johnson contended, through expansion of business, industry and farming by development of new markets for each. The war itself, he added, has shown us how to do it.

"The war has greatly changed and improved our techniques in nearly every field of endeavor. We have licked production problems in this war and we need to do the same with the problem of distribution with the coming of peace."

He mentioned utilization of farm products in industry, manufacture of farm and mining machinery, manufacture of fertilizers, clay and glass products as promising western post-war industries and urged that plans be made for greater utilization of the vast raw materials in mining, lumbering and farming.

Reports from various directors of the committee's activities in western states agreed that employment prospects after the war would be from 20 to 30 per cent above that in pre-war 1940.

Clinton H. Kintgen, petty officer 2/c, is enjoying a week's leave at his home here after arriving from Camp Peary, Va., where he has been in training since his enlistment in December. Clinton is visiting with his wife and daughter and with his mother, Grace E. Kintgen.

Wallace Baldwin, shipfitter 1/c, accompanied by Mrs. Baldwin, who has been residing in Fresno, Calif., have been visiting here for the past week with Baldwin's mother and with relatives and friends. Baldwin is enjoying a month's furlough after being stationed in the Aleutian area for the past 18 months, and after a short trip to the coast will return here again for a few days before reporting for further duty with the navy.

Canadian Wheat Sale Cut Seen

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 26 (Canadian Press)—Drastic curtailment of Canadian wheat sales to the United States within the next two months were predicted in an interview with Earl C. Gorrie, U. S. commodity credit corporation representative, published in the Vancouver, B. C., Sun yesterday.

The curtailment will result from lack of ships and rail cars, the paper stated, and not from any lack of need in the western states.

Lumber Labor Gets Priority

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—The war manpower commission has instructed its field offices to give a priority rating to requests for labor in the logging and lumber industry. The priority will prevail in all areas where labor shortages exist, WMC said.

SCOUTS PLAN 'CAMPOREE' ON WEEKEND

Boy Scouts from all parts of Klamath county will hike into Moore Park Saturday afternoon for an overnight "Camporee." Checking in at the Riverside school with packs on their backs, the scouts will hike across to their site above the landscaped section of the park in the timbered area. There each patrol will set up its camp and operate as a unit for 24 hours. The scouts will carry on their camp work by patrols and will be under constant observation so that their camping ability may be judged.

Lloyd C. Prock, district commissioner, will be in charge of the camporee, assisted by his staff of neighborhood commissioners and the executive staff.

After the Saturday evening meal, the scouts will witness an archery demonstration by C. E. Peterson, scoutmaster of troop 50, following which will be a campfire program in which each patrol will participate.

Part of the campfire program will be the instruction by the Fifth War Loan committee on the part the Boy Scouts are to take in the coming loan campaign.

THREE KILLED

SEATTLE, May 26 (AP)—Three men were killed but the fourth, an enlisted man, survived the crash of a Sand Point naval air station plane in wooded country near Sequim on the Olympia peninsula two days ago, the 13th naval district reported today. The injured man was returned to the air station dispensary.
