

DEWEY FLAYS U. S. INERTIA AS WAR COMES

HERSHEY, Pa., May 30 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York says Americans "must not again sit on the sidelines as mere observers and commentators" while new war lords grow strong.

The leading figure in the republican presidential nomination picture told the 36th Governors' conference in an address last night that "Our people are united upon the proposition that our foreign affairs must be so conducted that disasters like the present one will not recur. . . . The people are determined to join in preventing future wars."

Holding that civilians are "worried about inefficiencies and bungling" on the home front, Dewey said:

"While there has been a maze of regimentation, some necessary, some inexcusable, our strength at home has come wholly from the genius of our free men in industry and the devotion of our workers and farmers to their jobs. Our success or failure after the war will depend on whether we, as a nation, take to heart the lesson the war has taught us.

"If we permit the continuance of the regimentation which some so earnestly desire, we shall fail. We cannot practice in peace the centralization which brought totalitarianism to our enemies and be either free or successful."

Saying they offered the "fresh, confident leadership the nation needs," Dewey told the governors:

"You are ideally placed to see that all possible functions of government in this country will proceed close to their source—that source is the people.

"With the help of the driving influence of the men in this room, there will be a determination never to permit that concentration of national power which would wipe out our republican system and substitute a disguised totalitarianism."

Dewey asserted that in the pre-war years "We had a 10-year depression, ended only by the feverish and deadly stimulus of war. . . . No material reason was adequate to explain what happened."

"The task of political leaders," he said, is to unite—"to keep and build our new found faith in ourselves, our kin, our country and in our God."

The New York governor said his state had locked up a surplus of $163,000,000 for use on "necessary deferred works" after the war, in order that necessary expenditures may be made without the burden of taxes. Earlier in the day, Dewey remained silent during a discussion of the federal government's role in any post-war public works program.

Boomtown, U. S. A., After the War

Map above shows probable post-war population trends in 137 important metropolitan county areas. It is an interpretation, by Modern Industry, of a forecast made by Dr. Philip M. Hauser, assistant director, U. S. Bureau of the Census. For your post-war planning of living or doing business in a war-boomed area, you can, Dr. Hauser has found, generally figure that if a county has shown strong growth from 1920 to 1940, its chances of holding wartime population increase, or of making comeback after wartime decline, are good. But if growth from 1920 to 1940 has been small, or has fallen off, the county will have difficulty in holding wartime increase.

CHAMBER CONSIDERS CANNERY PROJECT

Action on the community cannery project, proposed for Klamath county and now being thoroughly investigated by local civic groups, went into the hands of the chamber of commerce last Friday morning, when members of the industrial and agricultural committees took the matter under advisement.

Chief among the questions still to be settled before a cannery which everyone in the county will be able to use for his own produce can become a reality was that of financing.

There is some talk of financing through private funds, partly for purposes of conserving badly needed wartime food supplies, partly as an experiment to determine whether the type of crops grown in the county and the length of the growing season are adaptable to commercial canning. Should this be proven true, a cannery venture might be visualized as a post-war industrial venture.

Thought was given the possibility that the cannery might be financed through cooperative pooling of funds for the initial construction costs and for the running expenses. This method has been followed in other similar Oregon ventures with good results.

Government aid can not be extended to Klamath county this year except for paying the salary of a supervisor, provided that he, or she, is employed in vocational agricultural work in the county all year round.

The committees referred the cannery question to the main body of the chamber of commerce for further consideration.

Mrs. Dorothy Rapp of the war food administration distribution office will come to Klamath Falls on Wednesday to confer with chamber of commerce representatives and members of the nutrition committee on the cannery proposal.

SPEDDY JUSTICE

ROSEVILLE, Calif.—Clyde E. Garnett, 25, told Judge Al B. Broeyer, who fined him for motorcycling at 70 per, that he was surprised that the police had been able to catch him.

"The cops chased me before," he mused, "but they never caught me."

"I'll solve that mystery for you," confided the judge. "They have a new squad car. . . . A very good car. Fifty dollars, please."

THAT'S THE SPIRIT

NEW PORT BEACH, Calif.—A spirited war bond drive has been planned for June 12. Liquor dealers have pledged several hundred quarts of liquor, to go in one, two and six bottle lots to persons buying the most bonds during the rally.

SNAKE ALIVE!

PARIS, Ill.—Came time to retire, and Mrs. Allen Stigler grabbed a dark object on the bed and started to toss it aside, assuming it was some household article.

Her screams brought her husband, who promptly disposed of the object—a live, 14-inch garter snake.

SHORTAGE

FORT DOUGLAS, Utah—The machine age hasn't produced enough maintenance workers for at least one type of apparatus, the ninth service command reports.

It's an electroencephalographic machine, a thingamajig to measure brain waves.

DELAYED ACTION

SALT LAKE CITY—A divorce decree granted May 7, 1898, was recorded this week. Attaches said the decree had been put aside because it was improperly signed, and it wasn't discovered until a 1944 spring housecleaning. Both parties had remarried.

CLASS EVENT

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Second grader Donald Evans was proud of his new possession—a robin's egg—and he promptly brought it to school to display to his classmates.

But Donald didn't anticipate that the egg, which he placed on a ledge near a window, would hatch. His teacher quickly sent the young bird to the high school biology class and hoped the students could keep it alive.

Author Shot Down In European Raid

A LIBERATOR BASE IN BRITAIN, May 30 (AP)—Lt. Col. Beirne E. Lay, Jr., of Washington, D. C., who wrote the movie "I Wanted Wings" was shot down while leading a Liberator group in a recent raid on Europe, it was revealed today.

Fellow fliers said they saw parachutes open from the flak-riddled plane and believed he had a good chance of escaping.

Lay came to England with the first American fliers. After a tour in charge of motion picture work he returned to the United States, formed a new Liberator group, and brought it over.

LONDON, May 30 (AP)—A convoy loaded heavily with new United States invasion weapons arrived safely recently in Britain, it was announced today.

ROME TO FALL, CLARK SAYS IN MEMORIAL TALK

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ZIO, Italy, May 30 (AP)—The fifth army will take Rome "before many days have passed," Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark declared in a brief address at Memorial Day services here today.

The fifth army honored its dead on the former beachhead in Memorial Day services at an American cemetery as guns in the battle for Rome rumbled a few miles away.

"We now stand on the threshold of Rome," said Clark in a brief address before placing a wreath. "Before many days have passed we shall have freed his first of the European capitals from Nazi domination."

Before the fifth army commander stretched countless rows of white crosses broken by the Jewish star of David here and there—thousands of graves neatly laid out in plots of 12 graves square, the resting places of soldiers who paid with their lives for the holding of the Zio beachhead.

Most of the graves in this cemetery are American, but there are also buried here some of the British and Canadians who fell near the American sector.

There were new graves, dug but not filled, and even as the service was going on trucks were bringing the bodies that will be buried in them.

"I want you to feel as I do," Clark said. "This is not a moment of sadness or sorrow but rather an inspiration to spur us on to the task which has been set for us. We should use their aspirations and fighting spirit to drive us forward as Americans have always done in the past and as men of the fifth army have done in Italy for the last nine months at Salerno, at Naples, across the Volturno, along the Garigliano and in the Anzio beachhead.

"With God's help, we shall carry on the task which they began."

GOP FACTIONS BEGIN BATTLE FOR CHAIRMAN

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—A battle for the chairmanship of the republican platform committee showed signs of developing today with factions lining up behind Alf M. Landon, the 1936 presidential nominee, Senator Robert Taft of Ohio and Senator Warren Austin of Vermont.

The resolutions group, made up of two convention delegates from each state, will meet in Chicago one week in advance of the June 26 presidential nominating convention to elect officers and begin hearings on proposed platform planks.

While the committee may well decide to pick a chairman who has not been identified too closely with such controversial issues as international post-war peace collaboration, there already is active campaigning underway for Landon, Taft and Austin.

Landon has urged that the identical foreign policy plank to eliminate the issue from the campaign. Taft has said the emphasis on domestic problems of those who urge all-out international collaboration in the post-war world.

While Landon was one of the early supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the presidential nomination, Dewey has been no indication of chairmanship race.

The New York governor, leading prospect now for the nomination, said this week he expected to have some consultations for the GOP platform "consulted," and Senator Austin told a reporter he thought any proposal Dewey may submit should be considered by the committee, if for no other reason than that he is a member of the GOP post-war advisory council.

Taft, who is supporting John W. Bricker of Ohio for the nomination, said he had no objection that Dewey and other prospective candidates would be consulted about the platform, but added that the committee would make the final decision.
