

AR CLOSURES TO BE TALKED AT CAN SCHOOL

Major item on the activity of Klamath county home-makers for June will be the one-day canning school, set for 6, 7, 8 and 9 at the Pellin theatre, when Mrs. Vivian Freeman, Portland canning specialist, will demonstrate the correct use of all types of canning equipment with special emphasis on the most efficient use of wartime substitutes in canning.

The canning school, modeled after the cooking schools which are so welcome to progressive American housewives during pre-war days, will begin on Monday at 9:30 and will continue until 11:30, allowing home-makers time enough to get home and get lunch for their families. The school is being sponsored by the Klamath county nutrition council, and will be open to the public without charge. Practical gifts of food being offered by local merchants, interested in furthering the national food preservation program.

Exhibits on various methods of canning and drying foods will be on display in the lobby of the theatre, including the electric dehydrator which will be used this year for demonstration purposes in the county by the home demonstration agent, Mrs. Winnifred K. Gilchrist.

Mrs. Freeman will show the most efficient ways to use pressure cooker and hot water bath methods of canning fruits and vegetables, and will explain the proper use of the substitute rubber sealing rings, the wartime one-piece glass closures, and every type of canning jar on the market, through the economy, ball type, standard main, and even coffee and mayonnaise jars.

The use of exactly the right jar for the individual type jar may be using is of utmost importance if your winter supply is to be kept from spoiling, Mrs. Freeman says. She points out further that just because a cover can be screwed on a jar does not mean that it will fit that jar well enough to keep it from turning black.

In her four days of canning demonstration here Mrs. Freeman will pass on to Klamath home-makers the newest developments and scientific procedures on how to keep berries floating in the jar, how to can corn, peas, and beans, to keep the topmost fruit from turning black.

She has promised to demonstrate the new and easier way to can large, light colored fruits give them a better appearance ance and flavor and how to make them taste sweeter with less sugar. Stressing the vital importance of making the nation's food supply cover all the demands that are to be made upon it, Mrs. Freeman pointed out that the homemaker can do more toward conserving that supply than any other individual. In urging strict observance of the "Waste not—can a lot" slogan which will keynote the June canning school, she listed these measures which should be observed by every household manager:

1. Save leftovers — make them appetizing.
2. Buy perishables according to your needs.
3. Choose foods to include the "basic 7" daily diet needs.
4. Plan meals by the week.
5. Buy seasonal and plentiful foods—try new dishes.
6. Store perishables with care.
7. Prepare foods without unnecessary waste.
8. Encourage family members to "clean up the plate."
9. Share or preserve victory garden surplus.

Glilchrist homemakers, in the northern part of the county, will attend a one-day canning school, conducted by Mrs. Freeman and arranged by Mrs. Gilchrist, on Monday, June 5, at 1 o'clock.

DOUBLE LIABILITY
PORTLAND, May 31 (P) — The Oregon Bankers' association wants the double liability provision for state banks eliminated to give them the same status as other banks.

A resolution to that effect was adopted by the bankers at the close of their three-day annual meeting yesterday.

GERMANS DENT RUSSIAN LINE NORTH OF IASI

LONDON, May 31 (P)—German forces have broken the six weeks lull in land fighting on the long eastern front by making a small dent in Russian lines north of Iasi in Romania, a Moscow communique said today.

The nazis opened the attack with "large forces of tanks and infantry" but succeeded in making only "an insignificant wedge into our defense" at a cost of "heavy losses in men and material," the broadcast communique declared.

Although the German attacks were described as sharp, a dispatch from Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press war correspondent in Moscow, said there appeared to be an attempt to upset Russian troop concentrations rather than the beginning of a real enemy offensive. It still was too early, however, Gilmore said, to estimate their full significance.

Iasi is about 180 miles northwest of the Ploesti oil fields. The Germans have claimed the red army was massing its forces for a drive on that source of fuel supply. Moscow also reported fighting northwest of Vitebsk in White Russia in the north, declaring red army troops beat back a German drive, killing 400 of the enemy.

It told of air and sea attacks on German shipping in Narva bay, asserting bombers from the red banner Baltic fleet sank three minesweepers, a high-speed landing barge and a motor patrol boat, while warships sank two minesweepers and damaged another.

Iasi was where Germans stopped the Russian westward drive early in April. Halted on the main eastern front, the soviets cleaned out the Crimea, which they had by-passed earlier, completing this campaign with the capture of Sevastopol on May 10.

The eastern front has been virtually deadlocked, but both the Russians and Germans have predicted a new outbreak of action would accompany the allied invasion of Europe from the west.

ney general's ruling was as wrong as it could be," the Nebraska senator declared.

Money Talked
Spangler told Biddle that Sidney Hillman, head of the political action group, and Phillip Murray, head of the CIO, had said $750,000 had been set aside for the committee's activities. The GOP chairman said reports reached him that some unions had contributed $100,000.

Meanwhile, Chairman Green (D-R.I.) said the senate campaign expenditures committee would look into the CIO question only if it received a formal complaint which the majority of members believes justifies investigation.

Bricker Speech
At the governors' conference in Harrisburg, Pa., Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, an avowed presidential nomination, said in a speech last night this country must build on "the solid rock of financial solvency, equity and justice" if it is to be a powerful influence in world affairs. He called for a balanced federal budget "at the earliest possible date."

In an address before the conference today, Gov. Dwight H. Green, republican, of Illinois, said American agriculture will be able to work out most of its postwar problems "if it receives proper cooperation and encouragement from a friendly, but not a bossy or meddling, government."

RECREATION PLANNED
FORT LEWIS, May 31 (P)—The final session of a two-day conference of athletic and recreational program officers of camps in the northwest, at which plans were discussed for the establishment of ninth service command athletic leagues and civilian employe participation in sports programs began here today.

FBI Rounds Up 100 Welders For Pay Fraud Conspiracy

ed, are responsible for measuring a recording each day on tally slips the quantity of welding performed by each worker in the sections assigned to them.

Some of the welders asserted that they were "pressured" into the clubs by threats from the counters that the latter would give them short count and thus reduce their weekly paychecks.

Soucy declared that in one of the "clubs," two counters operated jointly to give false credits on the tally slips to 21 different welders in their section. Nineteen of the 21 welders paid one or the other of the counters $5 per week, while the remaining two welders paid $5 jointly for their preference. The two counters controlling that club thus split $100 per week in addition to their salary, the FBI said.

The workers charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, the FBI said, faced a maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each charge while those charged with actually causing the false claims to be presented could receive as high as 10 years and $10,000 fine for each violation.
