case is not being within its jurisdiction.

The police captain said the girl's parents, Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Jacob Marks, reported at 2:46 a. m. that Florence was missing from her bedroom and a ladder had been found leading into a second story window of the Marks house.

Rings Doorbell
Forty-five minutes later, Feek said, Mrs. Ethel Smart telephoned police that the girl, clinging to a blanket, had rung her doorbell. Mrs. Smart lives 14 blocks from the Marks residence.

The Marks are parents of two other children. Police said apparently the others were not awakened during the kidnaping. Feek said Marks reported he and his wife had been out of the house earlier in the evening, had returned about 1 a. m., looked in Florence's bedroom, found her safe and then left the house again to take home two girls who had stayed with their children earlier in the night.

It was at this time, Assistant Chief Chaffee said, that the prowler climbed into the Marks' home, having been frightened away several nights ago while attempting to climb into the home of a neighbor of the Marks.

When they returned, Feek said Marks told headquarters, they found Florence was gone, the blanket off of her bed was missing and the ladder propped against the outside wall near a second story window.

Mrs. Smart said she was awakened about 3:30 a. m., when the doorbell rang. She called down: "What is it?" When she received no reply she went to a front window of the second story, saw Florence clinging to the blanket and again asked: "Who is it?"

"A little girl," Florence answered.
"Who brought you here?" Mrs. Smart said she asked.

Mrs. Smart said that she thought the child said "a doctor brought me," but determined later that the youngster was identifying herself as "a doctor's daughter," and was misunderstood.

11 INDUSTRIES TROUBLED WITH LABOR ISSUES

By The Associated Press
Labor disputes, which earlier this week had kept some 50,000 workers away from their jobs, troubled 11 industries today but only an estimated 11,000 employees were affected by the series of work stoppages.

Most of the work interruptions were in industries in the southern and eastern sections of the country and in most of the controversies less than 1000 employees were kept idle, at any one plant, giving the labor front its brightest picture in several weeks.

The biggest walkout was at the American Steel and Wire company's Worcester, Mass., plant, where about 3800 workers remained idle for the sixth day in what CIO union leaders said was an unauthorized strike. The walkout was reported caused because of a controversy over company-union grievance procedure.

There was no indication of a settlement of a dispute which resulted in work stoppage last Thursday of 2500 textile workers in Danville, Va. Spinners at the Riverside and Dan river cotton mills struck Thursday in protest against employment of negroes and the lack of yarn reeling in enforced idleness for more than 2000 other workers.

A two-day walkout at the Bethlehem Steel company's plant at Lackawanna, N. Y., ended today with the return of 140 workers to their jobs. A strike of about 850 workers in bakeries in Toledo and Cincinnati continued.

Lyons, Indiana's new member on the republican national committee, said today he believed the delegates at yesterday's state convention "were confused by parliamentary procedure" when they voted against instructing 29 delegates to the national convention for Governor Dewey of New York.

Lyons, 48-year-old Washington and Indianapolis tax attorney, was elected committeeman following the state convention by a vote of 19 to 8, retiring Ernest M. Morris of South Bend, who had been committeeman for eight years.

Lyons declared he had talked to numerous delegates since the convention and had been told they thought they were voting for the Dewey resolution "when reality they were voting to table it."

DISMISSAL OF WARD CASE TO BE SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—A spokesman said today the justice department will ask dismissal of suits brought by Montgomery Ward & company to enforce enforcement of war labor board orders against it.

The United States circuit court of appeals ruled yesterday in another case that the statutes do not authorize court reviews of WLB orders.

On the basis of this decision, the justice department spokesman said, the government will renew a motion in U. S. district court to dismiss the Ward actions. An earlier such action was denied by the district court then petitioned the appeals court in one case. The government then petitioned the appeals court to be allowed to appeal the decision without a hearing on the merits of the case. The appeals court yesterday rejected the petition.

Montgomery Ward has five separate suits pending involving as many WLB orders in connection with various of its stores and interests.

The justice department spokesman said it had not yet been decided when the new motion would be filed.
