

'DO YOU KNOW' LECTURES SET FOR KLAMATH

A course of special interest to the junior hostess group in Klamath Falls which is being sponsored by the Klamath Military Entertainment committee, will be given under the direction of the E. C. Brown trust division, University of Oregon Medical school, division of social hygiene.

Preliminary plans were outlined at a three-hour meeting of the group with Mrs. George R. K. Moorhead, field secretary of the division. The course will be known as the "Do You Know" series and will cover six lectures. Meeting place will be the auditorium of Klamath Union high school.

The junior hostess group will attend these lectures and also invited are the WAVES of the Klamath naval air station and Commandos.

Discussion of the proper course of the lecture and a preview of the content of the series will be given by Mrs. Moorhead on Monday, June 26. All lectures will be given on Monday nights.

Dr. Adolph Weinzirl, director of the division of social hygiene, will present a lecture on July 10, and others taking part will include Dr. O. R. Chambers, head of the psychology department, Oregon State college, and Dr. Lawrence Bee, professor of sociology, University of Oregon. Others taking part will be announced later.

These lectures have been given with success at Bend, prior to the activation of Camp Abbot, and in Pendleton, during this past winter and following the establishment of the Pendleton air base. Similar lectures were given in Salem and Corvallis in connection with the establishment of Camp Adair.

Such courses, Mrs. Moorhead pointed out, provide understanding of the duties of the junior hostess and also provide a basis of values in living.

Attending Wednesday's luncheon were Colonel B. Dubel, Dr. Lowell Coggeshall, representatives of the naval air station and the Junior chamber of commerce, as well as committee members. Mrs. John Schubert is the committee chairman of the junior hostess project.

Lakeview Girl Assigned Duty

Assigned to active duty at the radio station, 12th naval district, San Francisco, Calif., is Jessie Mae Conway, as teletypist, today reported recruiting Specialist D. T. Schreiber, in charge of the Klamath Falls U. S. navy recruiting sub-station, which handles WAVES applications in this area.

Miss Conway received the rating of seaman second class, on completion of her indoctrination training at the WAVES school at Hunter college, New York City. She was formally enlisted at the WAVES enlistment headquarters for Oregon at 735 SW Alder, Portland.

Previous to enlisting in the WAVES, Miss Conway was employed as a waitress with Clifton Howard in Lakeview, Ore. She is the daughter of Lewis W. Conway Sr., Lakeview. Miss Conway is a graduate of Lakeview high school.

Congested Area Population Shown

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The resident population of the Portland-Vancouver "congested production area" as of May 15 was 658,000, the census bureau estimated today.

This represented an increase of about 157,000 or 31.3 per cent over the population of 501,275 on April 1, 1940. The Portland-Vancouver area is composed of Clackamas, Multnomah and Washington counties, Oregon, and Clark county, Washington.

The estimate was based on a sample census which the bureau said was designed to be exact within 2.5 per cent.

SHOP TRAINING OFFERED MARINES

Marines stationed at the Marine Barracks will be given the opportunity of vocational training at the shops in the Klamath Union high school, L. L. Erdmann, vocational director, announced today.

Arrangements have been approved by the U. S. marine headquarters, and the U. S. office of education at Washington, D. C.

According to Erdmann, most of the classes will be conducted in the vocational shops during times when the facilities at the school are not being used in the training of war production workers. Equipment at the school is primarily for use in training war production workers and the marine training is a secondary feature of the program.

As most of the war production classes are being held at night, marine classes will be conducted during the day. The courses are planned to be of great value to the men returning to active duty in the corps, and to aid them in finding employment in the postwar era.

This is the first such program in Oregon and probably one of the first in the country. Erdmann, who has been called into the state office at Salem for consultation on the program June 19 to 21, believes that many such programs will be patterned after this one.

The classes in operation at the high school were originally started to train workers for war industry approximately three years ago. These classes, Erdmann states, will continue as long as there is a demand for workers in war industries. At the present time welding, machine shop, and radio repair classes are operating.

The shops at the high school are probably the most complete in the state from the standpoint of equipment.

SENATORS HOPEFUL FOR POSTWAR WORLD

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Pleasant features of the postwar world, some hopeful senators agreed today, will include: Laundry that comes back in less than two weeks, filling station attendants who gladly check your tires and grocers with cheery smiles handing out complimentary sacks of lollipops to children on Saturday night.

"A buyer's market is inevitable after the war," was the way Senator George (D-Ga.) put it, and he's been studying the probabilities for months as chairman of the senate's special post-war planning committee.

Senators, it develops, are quite as familiar with the little annoyances of wartime living as the rest of civilian Americans. The most casual questioning brought tales of torn shirts, suits held for weeks by dry cleaners, and grocery clerks who displayed a minimum of interest in maintaining good will.

"Most of the service industries necessarily are understaffed because of the wartime demand for manpower," said Senator Butler (R-Neb.) "but veterans who start their own businesses will be bidding for trade, and competition should bring much better conditions all around."

As more raw materials are released for production of consumer items, tight supply situations should be cleared up and the consumer will get an additional dividend, the senators agreed.

"Of course," said George, "there will be some items which haven't been made during the war—vacuum cleaners and cars, for instance—for which there will be a big backlog of demand that won't be filled for months or even years."

Senator Tunnell (D-Del.) thought the reaction from war may be some time in coming. He pointed out that fair-sized booms with relatively high prices continued for several years after the Civil war and after the first World war.

Tacoma Man Dies As Shooting Result

TACOMA, June 15 (AP)—Frank Newby, 38, died in a local hospital this morning from bullet wounds received, according to local police, when he attempted to force entrance to the home of John S. Allen, 56, here yesterday morning.

Allen called police to the scene after reporting he had fired one shot through the door of his home to frighten away an intruder.

LINFIELD COLLEGE ADDS 3 TRUSTEES

McMINNVILLE, June 15 — The board of trustees of Linfield college increased its membership from 27 to 30 members, considered a proposal to increase plant facilities and make important additions to the faculty and heard a financial report reflecting assets of more than one million dollars in a meeting here Friday that was attended by directors from all sections of the northwest.

One of the highlights of the meeting was a financial report, submitted by President Harry L. Dillon and Treasurer E. C. Apperson which reflected an appreciation of $72,495 in the value of the bonds and other securities held in the trust and endowment funds of the college. An appraisal of the securities made by Dillon, Reade and company of New York, investment bankers, placed the value of all stocks and bonds at $1,000,895 with an average yield of 4.2 per cent. Income for the current fiscal year from these investments amounted to $42,000. Included in the investment portfolio are government securities amounting to $71,400.

Elected to the board for the first time and for terms of office expiring in June, 1947, were Palmer Hoyt, publisher, the Oregonian, Portland; Dr. Ralph Johnson, pastor, First Baptist church, Yakima, Wash.; Elmo Chase, Eugene; Dr. Howard Dowd, Salem; and Dr. Weldon Wilson of Chicago, pastor of the North Shore Baptist church that city. Dr. Dowd and Chase were elected from nominations submitted by the Oregon state convention.

It's Dad's turn!

FATHER'S DAY IS JUNE 18TH

Sure, you love Dad... he's a grand guy!

So why not tell HIM so, on Father's Day, with a gift from Ward's. Maybe a "dress-up" gift—a crisp white shirt or several gay ties. Maybe a gift for COMFORT—casual slacks or a cool sport shirt. Maybe even a gift for WORK (Dad will appreciate COMFORT on his job as much as on his time off)—a roomy work shirt or work-or-play pants. These are just a few of Ward's many, many gift ideas to make Father's Day a BIG day for HIM!
