News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON
WASHINGTON, June 13 — The headlines announced the "GOP faces battle to oust Spangler as national chairman," but it will not be the kind of warfare we are having in France.

Apparently, friends of Mr. Spangler have decided that, in recognition of his special harmony organization work at Mackinac and elsewhere, he should defy the custom of retiring at the end of his term. Ordinarily, the newly elected presidential candidate at every convention selects the national chairman as his campaign manager.

It has been assumed that Mr. Dewey will be the nominee, and will choose either Herbert Brownell, his manager in the New York state campaign, or Chairman Ed Jeacock, of the New York state committee.

Spangler is supposed to have strong support, but the choice eventually probably will rest with Mr. Dewey, or whoever is the nominee. The national committeemen who will do the electing, represent political leaders in the various states, many of whom are not personally inclined toward Dewey, but are reservedly going along "uninstructed," as you might say, in view of the popular showing which has risen for him. The matter seems to be more in the nature of a chess game than a battle, and no one is carrying any knives.

MALLON

Start Work
SPANGLER and his public relations counsel, James P. Selva, already have started the post-convention campaign work. Last time, when Willie was nominated, it was six weeks before a national headquarters began functioning. Now posters, slogans and speaking material are ready for use the day the convention closes.

The same care has been shown in working out details for the Chicago meeting June 26. While confusing predictions have been made in the gossip columns, the distribution of convention leadership is fairly well settled.

Chairman of the platform committee will be Senator Robert Taft, the new Borah of the republican party, a studious, straight-thinking, clear-minded moderate. Already he has begun work on the platform draft, gathering opinions from the various leaders.

The man who will write the international plank is Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. He is supposed to be working along the line of the Mackinac conference, which brought the various conflicting forces into a harmony declaration.

Incorporation Probable
PROBABLY incorporated also will be the theory of the Smith-Connally resolution. Both these are along the lines in which popular opinion is jelling after the strenuous debate, namely a democratic formula for post-war collaboration of nations.

Thus, all sides are to be well represented at the top of the gathering—Taft, the Bricker man, and Vandenberg, the former isolationist, with Dewey selecting the chairman.

At least, this represents a composite viewpoint of the most influential republican leaders here, and the only thing likely to upset it would be an unexpected Bricker check under the Dewey bandwagon. Bricker's people here are continuously boosting their claims of delegate strength. Their latest figure is 250, but this still is only one-fourth of the convention.

Rivalry in politics is never anything less than a "battle," yet the final reports from the Harrisburg governors' conference indicated the personal disagreement between the Ohio and New York governors did not reach the breaking point. Neither went away carrying hair from the other's head.

Harmony is, therefore, far more likely in the republican convention than in the democratic meeting, where southern delegates, at least, are reputed to be preparing to roll into the convention hall in armored cars and tanks, fully gunned, and with a full stock of ammunition.

Wheat and rye futures sold as much as five cents higher, the limit permitted by a board of trade regulations, and oats followed the upward movement.

A new wave of buying, much of it short covering, ran the market into steepness orders. There were some commission house sales of wheat at the high spots. There was a tendency to regard the party legislation as inflationary and to withdraw offerings from the market when the buying move got under way.

Wheat closed 2 1/2 to 3 cents higher than yesterday, July $1.01. Oats were 1/2 to 1 1/2c higher, July 75c. Rye was 1/2 to 3/4c higher, July $1.01-1.02. Barley was 1/4 to 2c higher, July $1.19.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, June 13 (AP)—Attention of the grain market today was focused on the outcome of house-approved legislation seeking to guarantee parity prices for farm products and the trade was bullish.

Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY
AS this is written, the flash on the bombing of Japan by American Super-Fortresses has just hit the wire.

There is not much detail, but all news followers have some idea of the great range, power, and size of the B-29 super-bombers.

Some of these ships have just raided Japan, proper. Remember the dinky little plane, probably released from a submarine, which dropped a few missiles harmlessly on a section of the Oregon coast a couple of years ago? Remember early in the war, the elaborate preparations that were made against almost-certain Japanese air attacks on Pacific coast cities.

Today's news, in comparison, is significant of the progress Americans have made in carrying the war away from our shores and to the very heart of the Japanese empire. It has been a slow procedure, involving vast and almost inconceivable distances, but step by step it has unfolded in a way that today is indeed gratifying to us who live on the once-vulnerable Pacific rim.

Perhaps all danger of some sort of an attack on the Pacific coast is not over. But today's news, and that which has led up to it, definitely indicates where the major struggle is to be located. That is of tremendous importance to Americans on the Pacific coast—and may we suggest, in appreciation, that readers buy that extra bond in the Fifth War Loan campaign.

Crossing Dangers

YESTERDAY'S train-truck fatality near the airport directs attention to the fact that traffic over the grade crossings in the vicinity of the naval air station has increased greatly in the past year, and that hazards on those crossings are now of extreme seriousness.

Protective devices at the crossings on both railroads are of the type erected for minor crossings. It appears that the heavy traffic, including construction traffic and buses, will continue for many months and probably for a number of years. Establishment of the most modern signal devices would seem to be fully justified.

What is said here does not indicate any opinion as to the specific causes of yesterday's accident, but that incident does point to the need for consideration of the increased hazards at the crossings in the air station district.

The Old Flag

TONIGHT, the Elks will stage their annual Flag Day exercises, always colorful, and especially interesting because of military participation this year.

A feature will be the display of the Old Fort Klamath flag, which flew over Klamath's pioneer army post, abandoned in the last century. The three modern military installations—air station, Marine Barracks and Camp Tulelake—now located in this vicinity, are a far cry from the pioneer cavalry post located at Fort Klamath to protect settlers and travelers from hostile Indians.

The old flag to be shown tonight was the last flown over old Fort Klamath. It is a beautiful, huge banner, symbolic of one of the interesting chapters in Klamath history.

HEARINGS SET BY TAX COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Chairman Reed (R-N. Y.) of the house republican post-war tax study committee announced today his group would open public hearings soon after the summer congressional recess on a proposed postwar tax program designed to cut present levies by one-half.

Leaders of business, agriculture, labor and other groups will be invited to testify, he said.

"We are unanimously agreed that no time should be lost in formulating a postwar tax program," Reed asserted in a prepared statement. "Apparently the treasury has no postwar tax plan or suggestions. The administration apparently either is unwilling to face the problem or is putting it off to some last-minute date. The time to develop such a plan is now."

The planned hearings would open here, with follow-up sessions at other cities later.

The Reed group is composed of 25 republican representatives, 10 of them members of the tax-writing ways and means committee.

When the GOP committee announced its goal of a 50 per cent cut in postwar taxes recently, Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) of the ways and means committee termed the move "purely politics."

Top quality cattle and lambs were generally in strong market position during the week ending June 10 and on Monday, June 12, but lower grades of cattle, lambs and hogs were harder to move.

Strictly choice steers were absent on the North Portland market June 12, but a few loads classed as good brought $13.50 to $16.00. Good to choice hogs weighing from 170 pounds up to 270 pounds started slow at $13.75. Good to choice spring lambs moved at $13.50 to $14.00. Choice steers brought $17.15 at North Portland during the week beginning June 5.

Good to choice steers that week at San Francisco were quoted fully steady at $16.00 to $16.50, with hogs fully steady at $14.75 for good to choice grades, and good to choice lambs fully steady at $14.00 to $15.00. Quotations on lower grades of livestock were generally somewhat under the week ending June 5.

The San Francisco market opened the week of June 12 on Monday with good to choice steers scarce and nominally steady. Good to choice hogs were quoted $14.75 early, and good to choice lambs at $14.00 to $14.50. The supply of lambs was the largest of the season.

Recent estimates place the average consumption of meat by civilians in 1943 at 127 pounds per capita of dressed meat, about the same as 1942 but 12 pounds higher than the 1935-39 average. The consumption of pork in 1943 was 73 pounds per capita, the highest since 1924. The balance consisted of 50 pounds of beef, 8 pounds of veal, and 6 pounds of lamb and mutton. Except for the 1920-1922 period, civilian beef consumption per capita was the smallest in 1943 since records were started in 1900.

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of filtering the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up middle, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Kidney Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help you get rid of kidney troubles flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
