Our Home Town

The Hammock

By EARL WHITLOCK I am always interested in gardens and in the lovely effects which folks get in these charming outdoor living rooms...

Now there was a real garden necessity. Of course, you had to have trees to swing a hammock under. It wouldn't look right swinging between posts in a bald-headed yard...

"WE INVITE YOU TO VISIT WITH THE FLOWERS IN MEMORY GARDEN" Next Monday Mr. Whitlock of the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home will comment on "The Final Tribute."

Hurdles Remain in Price Control Bill

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP) House and senate conferees on the price control extension bill expressed confidence today they could clear the two remaining hurdles by nightfall.

These are the Bankhead amendment, written in by the senate to tie the price of raw cotton to the ceiling price of finished textiles, and the amendment inserted in the house at the insistence of Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.), throwing all OPA regulations and orders open to review by district courts.

Neither the Bankhead nor Dirksen amendment was disposed of, however, in a morning session of the conferees. Another meeting was called for this afternoon and Senator Wagner (D-NY), said the committee agreed to hold a night session if necessary.

Car Eligibility Tightened by OPA

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP) With the pool of new 1942 automobiles dwindling rapidly, the office of price administration today tightened eligibility requirements for obtaining certificates.

Car Eligibility Tightened by OPA

Effective Friday, qualified applicants must satisfy local rationing boards that a new car would be used principally in an essential activity, rather than only a small part of the time. The list of qualified persons includes doctors, nurses, ministers, war workers and others engaged in work important to the war effort or public health and safety.

Starrett Sells Drug Company Stock

The Chiloquin Drug company operated for the past twenty years by C. S. Starrett closed its doors recently.

Starrett was one of the first druggists to come to Chiloquin early in the twenties when there was not much but a group of wooden buildings lining the Main street. The store then was a small structure near the old telephone office. Later he moved into the Hirvi building and enlarged his stock considerably.

Sale of his drug store and his ranch were both consummated in a few days. Starrett is quitting business in order to get some needed medical attention.

U. S. Can't Escape Responsibilities, Says Burton

EUGENE, June 19 (AP)—The United States should learn one great lesson from the two world wars in which it has been involved—that it can not escape the responsibilities of modern civilization.

So declared Sen. Harold H. Burton (R-Ohio) at the concluding session of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association convention here Saturday night.

This country must take the lead in establishing a stable postwar world, he said; adding that international peace and stability is a domestic necessity for America's own recovery and progress. He urged Americans to work for greater production, fairer taxes, fairer relations with one another, better standards of living for all and deeper faith in God and man.
